

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TELEGRAPH, ST. JOHN, N. B., JUNE 4, 1902.

ST. JOHN, JOYFUL AT PEACE NEWS,
MAKES BIG DEMONSTRATION.

A Splendid Spontaneous Celebration by the Citizens Monday—Parades, Fireworks, Music and General Happiness.

St. John celebrated the proclamation of peace in South Africa in a most enthusiastic manner Monday night, while there was little in the way of a programme there was unlimited enthusiasm and everyone had practically a little celebration all his own. There were the usual military parades, fire works, martial music and noise—oh, lots of noise.

Early Monday morning a stray flag was floating in the breeze and the appearance of the day wore on more ambitious displays made their appearance and by night fall King street merchants had all their flags pressed into service and the appearance of the street was comparatively improved in consequence.

At noon there was a demonstration, the church bells and fire alarm pealing and the factory whistles screeching. Crowds commenced to gather on the streets for the evening's jubilation about 7 o'clock and by 8 the citizens indignantly democratic, became collectively patriotic, for by their surging presence on the principal thoroughfares they practically dominated the scene which pedestrians should travel. You simply had to keep with the crowd or get off the sidewalk.

The crowds generated enthusiasm and the holiday spirit was everywhere. Part of the holiday spirit was the small boy, clad in his elder brother's trousers and some of them evidently did not scruple to enter wardrobes, judging by the articles of wearing apparel he exhibited. For music he had fish horns and with these he instructed the ear-drums of the older population of the populace in a truly artistic style. However, he was not the only noise producer on the streets Monday night as staid men chanted verses and sang and on the opportunity. And under it all, beneath the holiday spirit and the desire for amusement was the thought of the event of which the celebration was a commemorative and amid the din and mirth one's thoughts would roam to distant veldt and kopje where under the brave boys—our boys—whose valor and brave hearts materially brought about the happy culmination of the struggle.

Major White said: "Gentlemen of the common council: It is my pleasant duty today to remind you of a fact of which you are doubtless all aware—that the long and bloody struggle of South Africa is at an end. For more than two years Great Britain has been at war with what was the South African republic and the Orange Free State. During this war great calls, financial and otherwise, have been made upon the empire, and the one great idea has been brought to the front, viz., that Great Britain is not only a great power in itself, but in times of stress has the support of all her colonies. The present war has greatly emphasized this and through it all Canada and the other colonies have taken the honorable course. This city should give expression to its satisfaction at the news of peace, and I will now ask the deputy mayor to make a suitable resolution."

batteries, and the Decker Corps, under Major Murray McLaren. At Princess street the crowd was very large and quite demonstrative. Proceeding up Charlotte street, the battalion was halted opposite the Dufferin hotel, where they sang British and then marched further on to Charlotte to King. At the corner of King and Charlotte streets the crowd was thickest, completely blocking the way. The battalion turned left on King to Market square, where they were joined by the band, then continued up Decker to Paradise row, returning up Union street and along Charlotte to King, down King to Germain and up Germain to the Union Club. Here they were again halted and formed up on the side of the street, while the 62nd, headed by its band, marched past. When the 62nd had passed, the Artillery gave three rousing cheers for their colonel, on the proposal of some one from a window of the Union Club. The band doubtless had been in the parade, they participated in the concert. The battalion by companies was dismissed.

The Knights of the Grip.

The commercial men were keenly conscious of what the tidings of peace meant, and its joyous significance was thoroughly observed by them Monday afternoon. Early after dinner notifications, to the effect that all commercial travelers were expected to appear at the Royal Hotel by 2:30 o'clock, were exhibited in the principal hostilities. The summons was joyfully observed, with the result that for the next several hours, the chief streets of the city were made deliciously melodious by the shrill calls of dinner horns and the hearty shouts of those in the procession to join in the general jubilation. The Royal Hotel was given out as the rallying point of the processionists.

By 3:30 o'clock fully 75 exponents of British loyalty were in line—albeit fluttering with banners. The parade headed down King street and formed up facing Emerson & Fisher's, where they procured horns. The rest of the afternoon was celebration—pure and simple. They visited the Union depot and there lined up on benches and sang patriotic airs. About 5 o'clock all formed up at their original starting point, and after the rendering of "How Dry I Am," voted an immediate adjournment. Monday in a general celebration at the Brindley street barracks. There were present at the call about 17 officers and 100 privates. After a short route march, the battalion returned to the barracks, where a well-prepared musical programme, including band selections and vocal solos, was carried out. Brigadier Sharp and Staff-Sergeant Howell delivered addresses during the evening. In the afternoon a children's tea was held in No. 1 barracks, in which about 60 children participated.

Fireworks Display.

A centre of attraction was at No. 2 hose company's station, King square. A balcony had been erected and the members were given a generous quantity of fireworks, and during the evening made a grand display. After the concert and the fireworks were exhausted the Artillery band was invited into No. 2's rooms, and with a number of the company's friends were entertained. Selections were rendered by the band and with songs and speeches a couple of most enjoyable hours were spent.

Some members of No. 1 Salvage Corps celebrated the occasion by driving about the city on the company's wagon, blowing horns and cheering.

The large number that were on the streets Monday were very orderly. Chief of Police Clark had his men well placed about, and they performed their duty well. It was surprising how well the masses of people acted under the circumstances. The police were successful in keeping many persons from walking over the King square flower beds in their endeavor to gain an advantageous place to listen to the band concert and witness the fireworks.

The City Coroner had a choice programme before a large crowd on the Hibernia avenue band stand last night, in honor of the announcement of peace.
