Ottawa, Feb. 6.—It was a very serious and deeply interesting episode of Conservative members, marshalled by Dr. Edwards, of Frontenac, who invaded Premier Borden's office this afternoon. The cause was the question of the government's support of a certain bill. The members were all in a very excited state and they gave strong evidence of annoyance when questioned concerning it. In fact they were ready with all kinds of blanket demands to interview of any kind. This is perhaps natural. The conference sought is said to have hinged on distinctly personal matters. Since the commencement of the year there has been a gnawing sensation getting hold of a considerable number of the government supporters that the time is opportune for a substantial increase in their personal incomes.

London, Feb. 6.—Sir George Askwith, chairman of the industrial commission, who went to Canada last August on behalf of the British government to investigate the industrial dispute act, with a view to its introduction, takes generally a favorable view of the measure in his report presented today to the board of trade. In regard to the application of the act to Great Britain Sir George says: "The spirit and intent of the legislation is the more valuable portion of the act and an act on these lines, even if restrictive features which aim at delaying a stoppage of work were omitted, would be suitable and practicable for this country. The Canadian act is valuable to a country of employers and employees."
