Dr. Reeves. In the ranks of American book-people may be found gentlemen of profound learning and world-renowned scholarship.—Drs. of medicine, of law, and of theology, gentlemen of wealth and power. We also have some such in our Dominion. I have read the early "missions and emanations" and nature articles of most of these notables, and can now judge pretty fairly of their merits.

It is just to say that Dr. Reeves, of Toledo, with very limited experience with bees, and little time to spare to devote to the study, writes a most professional and accurate delineation in a penultimate and elaborate details with a precision and with a firmness and clearness that at once places him in the front rank of apianists in America.
