

giving winds of God and beams of joy that destroy our myriad germs of death. In the Christian salvation the word "God" shall increasingly become to humanity the synonym for all joy. Health, genius, beauty, and love shall well up in each heart at the blessed Name, and all men shall instinctively turn to high emprise.

In our appropriation of Christ, by His faith welling up in us, we shall learn ever more clearly that as the shadow of a lark is to the flood of light in which it rises singing toward the sun, so is the sum of pain in creation, and God's suffering for creation, in comparison with the joy of a free regenerate creation united to the joy of God.

THE END