Easter.

BY BARBARA YECHTON.

As you know, dear children, after His crucifixion and death our Lord was laid in a sepulchre or tomb which was hollowed out of a rock. This tomb was closed with a great stone, which the Jews sealed, to make it more secure, and having set a guard of Roman soldiers to watch it, they went away. In the gospel for Easter Day we read the glorious end of the marvellous story. On the first day of the week, which we now call Sunday, Mary Magdalene and some others who loved the Saviour, came, very early in the morning, to the tomb where He had been laid, and, behold, the seal was broken, the big stone rolled away and the body of Jesus was gone!

St. Matthew tells us that "the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, his face shining like lightning, his raiment white as snow," and rolled the stone away. This shining vision struck such terror into the hearts of the Roman guard that they shook and became as dead men, and Jesus Christ the Lord, who had died and been buried, rose again and went forth, and by His resurrection, children, we know that we, too, who love Him, shall rise from the dead unto everlasting life.

The Lord had left the tomb before Mary Magdalene reached it, and, seeing the stone rolled from the mouth of the sepulchre, she was filled with fears, and hurrying away to Simon Peter and John, she declared to them: "They (the Jews) have taken the Lord out of the sepulchre and we know not where they have laid Him."

While Mary Magdalene was gone the other women went into the tomb, and they were much frightened by seeing an angel in shining garments. But the angel said unto them: "Fear not ye. Ye seek Jesus of Nazareth which was crucified. Why seek ye the living among the dead? He is not here, but is risen. Behold the place where they laid Him. Remember how He spake unto you when He was yet in Galilee, saying, 'The Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.' Go, quickly, and tell His disciples that He is risen from the dead, and, behold He goeth into Galilee, there shall ye see Him—lo, I have told you." Those who heard these words were so filled with fear and joy that they fled from the tomb to tell the disciples.

When St. Peter and St. John heard Mary Magdalene's story they started for the sepulchre. They ran together, but St. John, being the younger, reached the spot first, "and looking in, saw the linen clothes lying, yet went he not in." St. Peter quickly followed, and going into the tomb he, too, saw the linen clothes lying there, and the napkin that had been about the Lord's head was folded and lay "in a place by itself." Then St. John also went in, and we are told that "he saw and believed" that his Lord had, indeed, risen from the dead.

Jesus had, many times, told His disciples of His death and resurrection, but, until now, none of them had understood the meaning of His words. After this we read that "the disciples went away again unto their own home."

Easter Day, dear children, is the Feast we hold in commemoration of the day on which our blessed Lord rose from the dead, and sealed the redemption of the world. Always remember, and be very thankful, boys and girls, that this wonderful Lord is your Lord, your Master and your Redeemer, who loves you and who ever liveth to make intercession for you.—Churchman.

Don't Worry.

If you want a good appetite, don't worry. If you want a healthy body, don't worry. If you want things to go right in your homes or your business, don't worry. Nervousness is the bane of the race. It is not confined to the women, by any means, but extends to the men as well. What good does fretting do? It only increases with indulgence, like anger, or appetite, or love, or any other human impulse. It deranges one's temper, excites unpleasant feelings towards everybody, and confuses the mind. It affects the whole person, unfits one for the proper completion of the work whose trifling interruption or disturbance started the fretful fit. Suppose these things go wrong to-day, the to-morrows are coming in which to try again, and the thing is not worth clouding your own spirit and those around you, injuring yourself and them physically for such a trifle. Strive to cultivate a spirit of patience, remembered by succeeding generations. If anything of this sort is to be accomplished, we must get about it at once. It is not necessary that we should live long in order to do a work that will be a blessing to the world; but it is necessary that we should be earnest, active, diligent workers in our day.

Life Everlasting.

A dear mother lay dying. For years past that hoary head had been the crowning glory of home. In all the affairs of family life her advice had been deemed precious, for had she not sought the wisdom that cometh down from above, and the confidence reposed in her judgment was but the evidence of the guiding hand. Through the trying period of young maternity, as through the riper years of motherhood, and when at length others now matured had assumed the burdens it
