CANADIAN AFFAIRS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The St. Gregoire Rinters Acquitted. As I anticipated, after a long and patient inves-tigation, the Petit Jury came into Court this morning, and stated, that each prisoner accused of elequence of the learned Solicitor General, and the assistance of the Education Commissioners, at the trial, there remains nothing left but to attach the proceedings of this trial, as an appendix, to the voluminous Report of the Government Commissioners, which will, no doubt, be given to the public. The question has been asked, where has been Dr. Meillieur during these investigations !- Echo answers " where ?"

The inhabitants of the Parish of St. Gregoire, attending at the Court House, have now gon home, crying defaite au Gouvernment. There en much sympathy shown to the prisoners. and I believe it has been enhanced by the proceedings of Government in regard to the Educational Law. Subsequently to this trial, the Solicitor General moved to fix the trial of Mr. Courval, (a Notary,) Bourque, and Thibodeau, for conspiracy against the Rev. Mr. Harper, for the first day of next Term. It were better that this trial should not appear in Court, for it is not of that nature which will tend to do good, even if the defendants should be found guilty.

The Petit Jury was composed of persons from all parts of the District, and it is believed that the being brought home to the parties accused.

Had it not been for these School cases, the Gaol Calendar would have justified the Sheriff in presenting the learned Chief Justice with a pair of white kid gloves, which, in these days of retirenchment, I dare say the Sheriff was glad to be excused from doing. The remainder of the trials have been postponed to the next Term.

Yours, &c.,

his lordship took an active part in the Gorham controversy, having presided at the great meeting at Freemasons' Hall, and at that time reprobated in the strongest terms all idea of apostacy to the Church of Rome. For my part, I cannot give I regret to have to announce the death of the Right Hon. C. W. W. Wynn, M. P. for Mon's gomeryshire. The deceased gentleman was the father of the House of Commons, having taken his seat for Old Jarum in 1796. He held the offices of Secretary-at-War (under Lord Grey) and Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster from December 1834 to April 1835.

Thence she passed by rail, cheered at every station, to the Scottish Capital, inaugurating in her progress the bridge across the Tweed at Berwick, thus completing "the last act of the union." Her Majesty delighted the nodern Athenians by taking up her residence in the old Palace of Holyrood, which has not been graced with the presence of a Queen since it was vacated by the Princess Ann of Denmark, when she accompanied her husband to London, on his accession to the English Throne, to inchoate that union which Victoria, in her progress Northwards, and the progress Northw

I ventured to east discredit the other day upon the story of the sea-seapent having been seen in Mr. Matthews' advertisement of stamped envelopes. We do not know of anything neater, and time. We have had an account, from Cork, of more economical of time and money.

Neither the heavens nor the earth can astonish them. The tremendous floods which have inundated their lands are endured with admirable patience. Royalty moves them of; their King arrives, and so does the live stock on market-day. But why should they put them selves out for that ? Queen Victoria crosses the sea in rough weather—the Belgians are unmoved. Dueth pilegm, and that audacity of French speculation which outruns all possible events, being united, produce the unastonishable Belgian."

About the beginning of the paesant century, the depth of the river Clyde was scarcealy five feet. The vessels in it consisted merely of craft drawing a lew feet water, and none exceeded 30 or 40 tons burthen. In 1820, the average depth of the Clyde at high water neap tides, was made sine f.et. In 1840, the depth was increased to fourteen feet; and in 1850, the average available depth at high water of map tides, is sixteen feet. The adulteration of medicine appears to be car-ried on in a systematic mode. We give an extract from a writer on the subject :—" Oxyde of zinc is adulterated very commonly with subplate and carbonate of baryta and Duch lead, the latter preadulterated very commonly with sulphate and carbonate of baryta and Duch lead, the latter previously adulterated with a substance still cheaper, Plaster of Paris. Nitrate of silver consists precisely of four parts of this very valuable salt, and one part of Nitrate of Potash, ("villainous saltpetre.") Balsam copaiba is nothing but Castor-Oil with a dash of the true balsam. White precipitate (amiduret mercury, &c., of Kane,) is usually made up of carefully precipitated carbonate of lime, (chalk,) exactly one part and white precipitate one part. Hydriodate of potash is hydriodate potash six parts, common salt one part, and carbonate of potash half-a-part. Sulphate magnesia is glauber's salt in small crystals—no attempt at mystification. Tartar emetic is almost always sulphate of potash and tartar emetic (the latter, of course, by some mental process, also considered pure) of each equal parts. Calomel is, (mind don't go astray,) 1st, for the Western Stafes, "pare calomel one part, earbonate of lime nina parts, pure calomel three parts;" 2nd, for the Eastern Stafes, "pare calome one part, earbonate of lime three parts." Lactate of iron is sugar of milk and sulphate of iron; of lactic acid none. Opium is that drug carefully washed to get out the morphia, and made up again as good as new. Real Turkey rhubarb, much the same rhubarb exposed to spirit. Quina and morphia fare little better. A good beginning has been made in the petition to the House of Commons, respecting the adulteration of milk. Let it be rigorously followed by one against the adulteration of medicines.

"Go out into the woods, Sambo," said a southern master to one of his negroes, "and cut me some crotches for a fence—to stick in the ground like this:" making at the same time an inverted A of two fingers on a table. The negro took his axe, went into the woods, was gone all day, and returned at last with nothing but his axe in his hand. "Where are your crotches, Sambo!" asked the master. "Couldn't fine none, massa' no how!" "Couldo't find any!" said his master; "why, there are thousands of them in the woods. Why; look at that tree; there are a half dozen on that: couldn't you find any like that!" pointing to a forked branch on the tree, "Oh, yee, massa, plenty o' dem kind; but they all cretch up: 'ought you wanted dem kind dat crotch down!"
