JESUS APPEARS TO PAUL.
International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow—Acts xxii, 6-16.

Time—Midsummer, A. D. 86.

Place—Near Damascus about 140 miles north-east of Jerusalem.
Paul, named in Hebrew Saul, was an able man in every way. He loved the religion of his fathers and could not bear to see its power destroyed by a creed that was false, as he thought; hence his cruel zeal against Christians. But the Lord met him, the strong will was broken and there was a complete surrender to Jesus Christ. Some lessons:—

1. Many a man has been met by the Lord when blindly bent on evil and turned to the right about face.
2. Every wrong done to a follower of Christ is done to other Master Himself.

3. When we surrender our will in does not take long to become a Christian.

4. Satan blinds men into sin, the light of God blinds men with conviction.

5. God can make a great sinner a great saint to save sinners.

6. God's spiritual presence and the glory of the gospel are now around us ready to fill our hearts if we fully submit.

7. Will you ask with Paul—"Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?"

Church Notes.

GREAT HARDSHIP AND EXPOSURE ENDURED.

Capt. Adnah Burns, of Dayspring, N. S., Tells an Interesting Story From His Own Experience.

From the Progress, Lunenburg, N.S.

Capt. Adnah Burns, of Dayspring, Lunenburg, Co., N. S., is a prominent representative of a large class of men in Nova Scotia, who, during much of the year, follow the dangerous occupation of deep sea fishing. When not at sea Capt. Burns' avocation is that of ship-carpenter.

He is 43 years of age, and is today a healthy, vigorous representative of his class. Capt. Burns, however, has not always enjoyed this vigorous health, and while chatting recently with a representative of the Progress, he said he believed that but for the timely use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills he would have been a chronic invalid. "From 1895 to 1898," said Capt. Burns, "I was the victim of a complication of troubles. I suppose they had their origin in the hardship and exposure I so frequently had to undergo. My illness took the form of dyspepsia and kidney trouble. The foods which I ate did not agree with me, and frequently gave me a feeling of nausea and at other times distressed pains in the stomach. Then I was much troubled with pains in the back due to the kidney trouble. Finally I took a severe cold which not only seemed to aggravate these troubles but which seemed to affect my spine as well, and I became partly rigid in the arms and legs. I was forced to quit work, and doctored for a time with little or no benefit. Then I dropped the doctor and began taking other medicines, but with no better result. By this time I was run down very much, had no appetite, and was depressed both in mind and body. While in this condition I happened to read in a newspaper the testimonial of a cure made by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which in some respects presented symptoms like mine. The straightforwardness of the new hope and I determined to try these pills. I sent for three boxes. Of course I did not expect that the quantity would cure me, but I thought it would probably decide whether they were suited to my case. I must say they seemed to act like magic, and before the pills were gone there was a decided improvement in my condition. I then got a half dozen boxes more and before they were gone I was back again at work in the shipyard, and enjoying once more the blessing of vigorous health. This was in the spring of 1898, and since that time up to the present I have not been laid up with illness. Occasionally when suffering from the effects of exposure or overwork I take a box or two of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they always put me right. Since my own marvelous recovery from premature weakness and suffering I have recommended these pills to many persons variously afflicted and have yet to hear of the first instance where they have failed to give good results where they were fairly tried."

It is such endorsements as these that give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills their great popularity throughout the world. Neighbors tell each other of the benefits they have derived from the use of these pills and where a fair trial is given the results are rarely disappointing. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills go directly to the root of the trouble, they create new, rich red blood, stimulate the nerves to healthy action, thus bringing health and strength to all who use them. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent post paid on receipt of 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The officers of the 24th Regimental Band have gold-plated buttons for their uniforms. "Cahoon" Masonville says, "There were only three sets made, one for the Her Apparent, one for Bandmaster Harry Philp and one for Band Sgt. Masonville, which is me." Bandmaster Philp remarked that he hadn't put his gold buttons on yet because he had the brass ones shined up and he wanted to wear off his brightness. It is even better that Harry didn't shine on the occasion mentioned.

Here is the way a civilian describes the procedure last evening at the drill shed.

Scene—24th Regimental drill hall, time, 7.45. Soldiers in line "standing at ease."

The Colonel to the Adjutant—"Is Corporal Hugh Manly in the ranks?" The Adjutant, after inquiring of Captain Mowbray—"Yes sir."

The Colonel—"Let the parade proceed." Attention, four fours, right turn, quick march!"

Col. Rankin thanked the soldiers for turning out so well and complimented the regiment on the fine appearance they had made. He regretted that one or two had not polished their buttons and that some were not as steady in the ranks as military discipline demanded. The Colonel announced that there would be church parade on Sunday, drill only Thursday night next week and drill two nights each week afterwards. Colonel Rankin also said that he had expected Col. Peters here but, owing to the camp at London, he had been unable to get away so that the inspection

"THE THIN RED LINE"

Splendid Showing by the Maple City Scarlet Clad Soldier Boys

The D. O. C. was not Present Last Evening, but the Regiment was Drilled and Inspected by Col. Rankin.

The 24th Regiment was on its best behavior last evening in anticipation of the first annual inspection of Chatham's military organization by D. O. C. Col. Peters of London. The Colonel is known as a severe disciplinarian and, in anticipation of being reviewed and critically examined by the District Commanding officer, buttons were polished, helmets whitened, shoes shined, clothes brushed and hair cut.

When the various companies filed from their rooms and took up their places, each man "standing at ease" in his place in the company line, then did the soldiers present a bold and even brilliant appearance and then, too, did the care and pains bestowed on their attire by the individual warriors make itself evident. The showing of the regiment was a credit to itself and the officers.

The C. C. I. cadets joined with the soldiers and, 30 strong under Captain Tackaberry, made a gallant showing in their khaki colored suits. The whole parade filed from the drill shed double quick and lined up on the park. Then headed by the band the regiment marched down King street as far as The Planet office. The Twenty-Fourth Band played the regimental march, "Under Fire." The boys in red are getting familiar with this march, which has been selected as the regiment's own and they march well to it.

After parading King's street the regiment was drilled on the park by Col. J. B. Rankin.

UNDER CROSS FIRE.
Sergeant Tucker has a martial voice.

Sergeant Wood, "D" Company, fits his uniform well.

Capt. Tackaberry of the cadets looks his part.

Our drum major is the tallest and thinnest in the business.

The people say that Sgt. Fraser's section march in splendid line.

"What is this? A troop of regulars from England," was asked by a Yankee.

After drill last evening the sergeants and officers entertained "B" Company.

The band snatched music and the soldiers all like the regimental march, "Under Fire."

Sergeant Coltart has a commanding figure and Sergeant Hall has a warrior tread.

All we want now is a mascot. "Don't the football club mascot has been suggested."

We were all laying for the D. O. C. that we might "Do Our Cleverest," but don't tell.

Say, Private Waddell, did you hear about Nichol getting shot? Never mind, the Corporal in your section takes a little joke.

Some of the soldiers carry their guns as if they were really going to war. It is horrible. Don't do it, boys. The Fensmen might come again and the Government will want you if you don't watch out.

Sergeant Stegman, of the operative police, makes a good looking soldier. One would think that the cadet got out of coming to close quarters in the last act of the opera, but the smell of powder has its charms for some men.

The officers of the 24th Regimental Band have gold-plated buttons for their uniforms. "Cahoon" Masonville says, "There were only three sets made, one for the Her Apparent, one for Bandmaster Harry Philp and one for Band Sgt. Masonville, which is me." Bandmaster Philp remarked that he hadn't put his gold buttons on yet because he had the brass ones shined up and he wanted to wear off his brightness. Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed, you have a rumbling sound, or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A FREE SPECTACLE.

Ringling Bros. Parade a Revelation of Processional Splendor.

Those who witness the superb free street carnival given by Ringling Brothers' circus last season, might naturally have supposed that the limit of expansion and processional display had been reached. Certainly nothing to equal it in magnificence had ever before been seen in the Western Hemisphere. It is doubly interesting, therefore, to learn that Ringling Brothers' parade has been practically doubled in size this year; and that the display is richer, grander and more elaborate than ever before.

The ring that impresses the public most forcibly is the lack of conventionality in the pageant. It is not merely a collection of horses, cages and tableaux wagons, jumbled together without design or order; such as the public has learned to expect from other circuses, but it is an elaborately planned processional display, divided into sections or divisions, each of which is representative of some central idea or theme, and constitutes in effect a complete parade in itself. There are thirty of these divisions, and in unison they form the most original, the most complete and the most startlingly resplendent pageant that human ingenuity and artistic taste has ever organized.

Among the most striking sections is the military division, which serves to illustrate the sterling features of the world's most famous military organizations. The handsome uniforms, the bright accoutrements and the magnificently caparisoned horses render this picture of mimic warfare brilliant in the extreme. The section devoted to the Panjabs, with its red-coated British soldiers and its huge war elephants harnessed to great, rumbling siege guns, is also particularly impressive. An Egyptian caravan, crossing the desert, with its camels, dromedaries, wiry Arabian horses, Bedouins of the desert, Soudanese and other strange people, vies in interest with the Boer section, which illustrates a Burgher Commando trekking across the plains of South Africa, with its long train of ox-teams and its hardy native ponies. There is a special children's section, with tiny cages and miniature Mother Goose tableaux drawn by dwarf ponies, and an entire division devoted to the sports and martial glories of old Rome, with its gladiators, its fearless standing riders, its charioteers and its gorgeous racing chariots, so thrillingly described in "Ben Hur" and "Quo Vadis." The wild animal section contains scores of cages of rare wild beasts, many of which are displayed in open dens, and a great double herd of thirty big and little elephants. The continuing throughout is superb, and the display of fine stock unequalled. There are five hundred horses, splendidly groomed and gorgeously trapped, and they constitute a sight never to be forgotten. This grand display of processional wealth takes place at 10 o'clock in the morning, and serves to introduce what is comparably the largest and most complete circus in the world. The big show exhibits in Chatham Wednesday, June 20th.

Now is a good time to begin taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the medicine that cleanses the blood and clears the complexion.
