This Linen Sale and Display of Linen

Is Different from other Sales or Displays.....

The plan upon which this Linen Sale is conducted is different. Linen is something most stores carry simply because Linen is kept by dry goods stores everywhere; it is entirely different here—we make Linen a specialty.

The perfection of this store's Linen is the outcome of thirty-five years' experience in the handling of linen in this country and the old land. This sale of linen is different from sales conducted everywhere and in many other lines of merchandise in at least one particular, and that is the enthusiasm over the sale instead of being spent on the opening day of the sale, increases until the sale is brought to a close. Our Linen is on display in the millinery showroom until the end of this month.

THE WHITE HOUSE WEDDING

The couple left the White House by the south entrance at ten minutes past four o'clock. They entered a large automobile and, it is understood, were driven to Friendship, the residence of John R. McLean, on the Tenleytown road, about six miles from Washington.

The couple were showered with rice by Ethel and the other children of the family as well as by many of the guests.

The President, Mrs. Roosevelt, Capt. and Mrs. Cowles and other members of the family stood on the White House steps and waved the bridal couple out of sight. An old shoe was thrown at Mrs. Roosevelt's arms and burst into tears. She quickly recovered herself, however, and turned to her father, who kissed her. Then she kissed and hugged her brothers and sisters, shedding a tear over each.

Not in many years has there been such a notable gathering in the Presidential home as on this occasion. Representatives of all important nations, in full court regalia, and the chief personages of the United States in governmental and social circles added to the brilliancy of the ceremony.

Outside the Executive Mansion a throng of more than fifty thousand spectators and surged in efforts to witness what they might of the scene. Secret service men and policemen had their resources taxed to the limit.

The day was ideal. The skies smiled on the bride and the air was as soft and balmy as in May.

Standing in the identical spot where thirty-two years ago "Nellie" Grant was wedded to Algeron C. Sartoris, Miss Roosevelt was given to Mr. Longworth by the President. Mrs. Sartoris was one of the guests who saw the ceremony.

Valuable gifts, aggregating in cost hundreds of thousands of dollars, were received by the bride. It is estimated that the total intrinsic value of the presents received by the President's daughter reached $500,000.

The capital city was crowded with guests to the ceremony, and with thousands of visitors and sightseers drawn to Washington by the event. Thronged streets in the vicinity of the White House made the scene similar to an inauguration day.

European Press Comment. Paris, Feb. 19.—Most of the Paris papers commenting on the wedding of Miss Alice Roosevelt express the opinion that it shows how far Americans have deviated from the true democratic principles which must underlie every republic.

"L'Europeen," an international paper among whose editors are such prominent men as Anatole France, Frederik de Pressensac, George Brandes, and Bjornstjerne Bjornson, says: "Because her father happens to be President of the United States and because he happens to lack tact, the whole American press has sung her praises since her trip to Asia. If President Roosevelt had had the slightest sense of what was his duty he would have forbidden his daughter to accept any of the presents given her by Asiatic sovereigns, and which would never have been offered her if her trip had not had the appearance of being official rather than private."

"Now a splendid gobelin has been presented to her in the name of France, and it would be interesting to know who authorized this present and to what account it will be charged."

A BRILLIANT SPECTACLE

Show of Military Color Relieved Obsequies of Gloom.

Funeral of King Christian—Dr. Roordam Delivered a Long Panegyric in the Presence of King Frederick, Queen Alexandra, Emperor William and Other Royalties—Only Decoration Denmark Children's Tribute.

Roskilde, Denmark, Feb. 19.—The magnificent old Gothic church here presented a brilliant spectacle yesterday afternoon when King Christian IX, amid the thunder of guns, the sonorous tones of the organ and the blare of trumpets, was laid to rest with the long line of his predecessors on the Danish throne, whose remains repose in the side of the chapels in Roskilde's redstone fane.

The coffin lay in the chancel beneath a black and gold baldachin supported by high officers in full-dress uniform. The only decoration on it was a golden branch, a tribute from the children in Denmark.

The members of the Riksdag and of the Folkething, the Danish parliaments, wreaths on the coffin, just before 2 o'clock Queen Alexandra, the Dowager-Empress of Russia, the Queen of Denmark, the Duchess of Cumberland and the other royal ladies seated themselves in the front row of chairs to the left of the coffin. The King entered soon afterwards, with Emperor William, in the uniform of a Danish admiral, at his left, the King of Greece at his right, both keeping a little behind him. King Haakon and the other royal personages and the representatives of foreign sovereigns followed.

At the catafalque, Dr. Roordam, primat of the Danish Church, with Dr. Paulli, court chaplain, and Dr. Bondo, dean of the cathedral, awaited the King. The royal party took seats with the royal ladies.

Dr. Roordam delivered a long panegyric, touching on the principal incidents of the King's reign. The service was beautiful, but as simple as all the former ceremonies held since the King's death.

Then, to the strains of the "Funeral March," composed by Hartmann, eight officers carried the coffin from the chancel across to the Chapel of Frederick V.

As the solemn notes pealed forth, a salute of 21 guns was fired, while, simultaneously, in the town, all flags were hoisted from half-mast to masthead in honor of the new King.

A short wait ensued while the coffin was being deposited in the sarcophagus. Then King Frederick and the Queen Louise, followed by Emperor William and Queen Alexandra and King Haakon and the Dowager-Empress of Russia, the four walking abreast, proceeded to the chapel, where Dr. Paulli read the burial service in strict privacy and in the presence only of the royal personages, the foreign representatives and the Ministers.

Earth being thrice thrown on the coffin, the Lord's Prayer was repeated, and the service concluded with the benediction.

CRUSHED BY ELEVATOR.

Nelson Allison's Terrible Death in Galt Woollen Mill.

Galt, Feb. 19.—Nelson Allison, aged fifteen, an employe in the C. Turnbull Co. woolen mill, met a shocking death Saturday morning. Allison and another boy, Lester, on the elevator on the ground floor with a bundle of goods which they were to take to the second floor.

The other boy got out and Allison proceeded up to the next floor, where it is supposed that Allison, instead of pulling the rope, which would have stopped the elevator, pulled the other one, and, becoming excited when the elevator continued to go on up, attempted to leave it and get out on the third floor. A wooden beam across the opening of the elevator shaft blocked this attempt, and he was caught and carried up to the arch, where his neck was broken.

No one was an eye-witness of the accident. When he was found a few minutes later he was quite dead. An inquest will be held.

EX-PRESIDENT M'CALL DEAD. Worry Hastens End of Former President of New York Life Insurance Co.

Lakewood, N.J., Feb. 19.—John A. McCall, former president of the New York Life Insurance Co., died at 5.35 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. McCall's physical breakdown occurred about the close of the investigation of the life insurance affairs, in this state by the legislative committee, in December last.

Mr. McCall's examination before the committee was a severe one, and the report of the new committee in detail the affairs of the company and in divulging transactions about which the general public was ignorant worried him greatly.

Mr. McCall was born in Albany, N.Y., March 2, 1849. He entered the insurance business early in life, and in 1885 was appointed state insurance commissioner by Grover Cleveland, then governor.

He relinquished that position to become comptroller of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, which post he held until he became president of the New York Life Insurance Co., in 1902.

OPENING OF PARLIAMENT.

King Will Personally Open Second Parliament of His Reign.

London, Feb. 19.—The first session of the second Parliament of the reign of King Edward VII. and the twenty-seventh of the United Kingdom, will be opened by the King at 11 o'clock. Since his Majesty ascended the throne, he has personally opened each of the six sessions of Parliament, adding much to that most ceremonious occasion.

Today's event has the added interest in that it will be the first Parliament to be opened by the King, but more particularly because of the great change that has come over the personnel of the House of Commons as a result of the recent general election.

The pageant will be much like those that have gone before, somewhat detracted from by the absence of the Queen, who is at Copenhagen to attend the funeral of her father, King Christian, and the Prince and Princess of Wales, who are in India, and who in the past have preceded the King and Queen to Westminster, giving additional color to the show.

Returning to Ontario in the late sixties he became director and part proprietor of the Mount Forest Confederate, disposing of these interests to accept the position above mentioned, on the formation of the County of Dufferin in 1881.

CHURCH UNION.

Principal Gordon of Queen's University Preaches in L's Favor.

Kingston, Feb. 19.—The principal of Queen's University preached yesterday at Brook street Methodist church, and took for his theme Christian Union. A number were interested in his views on this question of the day, and those who were opposed to union regarded Dr. Gordon as either with them or a neutral. But he came out yesterday with a strong pronouncement in its favor. After dealing with the objections to such a union, Principal Gordon said the last point to be considered was the advantages to Christianity in Canada and in the world.

These Dr. Gordon mentioned as the stoppage of the present waste in men and money, waste of men caused by overlapping and the consequent setting free of men and money for the evangelization of our own west and of health-land and the production of a higher type of Christian manhood in the united churches.

Belleville Ladies Held Up. Belleville, Feb. 19.—About 10 o'clock Saturday night Mrs. Findlay Osborne, a widow, and Miss Ella Yates were going home along East Bridge street, when in front of Geo. Walbridge's a man stepped out from the shadow and demanded their money, at the same time, so the ladies say, pointing a revolver at them. They were too frightened to make any outcry, and handed over their purses to the robber, who immediately ran off down William street. Then the ladies went into a house and telephoned the police, who were on the scene in five minutes, but so far have been able to find any traces of the hold-up man.

STRONG SPEECH FROM MR. BECK. Continued from Page 1. The hands of three men instead of five, and the increased revenue from it over 1904 will be $100,000.

"The attendance at the Agricultural College at Guelph last year has increased by 30 or 40 per cent. We have a practical farmer, Mr. Montague, at the head of this department.

"Electric power at Niagara is being looked into and we hope to have encouraging results from the inquiry now under way.

"In the matter of finance we have got half a million dollars in the treasury. Applause. We've got the stuff in laughter—and we did not get it through direct taxation. We have got it through looking carefully after the business of the Province. This is what we will now be in a position to improve your schools.

"We will build new Normal schools.

The only nourishment that bread affords is that which the flour contains. Bread baking is merely putting flour in appetising form.

Flour making is merely putting the nutritious part of wheat in shape for bread making.

Good milling is the kind that takes from the wheat all that is nutritious, nothing else.

Royal Household Flour

is made from carefully selected Manitoba Hard spring wheat.

Every pound is almost a pound of food; clean, white, pure and nutritious.

It goes farther, does better baking and is more satisfactory in every way than any other flour.
