WITHIN THE REACH OF ALL

No One Need Suffer Another Hour From The Agonies of Dyspepsia For It Is Curable And The Remedy—Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—Is Within The Reach Of All.

Mr. Frances F. Barry, P. M., of South River, Gloucester Co., N. B., comes forward to bear witness to the curative powers of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. He says:

"I was a great sufferer from indigestion and soreness of the stomach. My food did not seem to agree with me and after a meal I felt hot and drowsy, my head ached and I felt as if I was suffocating. After trying different remedies I at last began on Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and in a little while the pains disappeared and now I am cured and can eat and enjoy my food, thanks to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets." For weak and over-worked stomachs Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets afford immediate relief and a permanent cure.

Canine Sympathy.

Animals, especially dogs, sometimes show remarkable sympathy for one another in distress, and only the other day an instance was reported in The Daily Mail. A terrier had his front paw crushed by a passing vehicle. As it sat howling with pain on the pavement a large dog came up, licked its head affectionately, and remained by its side until a kind-hearted workman, who was passing, took pity on it and carried it home. Even more remarkable was a case which occurred some years ago, and which is perfectly authentic, where two dogs actually conducted an injured companion to the door of a large London hospital and howled outside to attract attention. The canine patient was taken in, and received the best surgical treatment.

ABOUT RHEUMATISM.

There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say that it can be cured is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and costs but a trifle? For sale by all druggists.

A London Fog.

Six thousand tons of coal, it is said, are in suspension in the London atmosphere every day during the winter months—enough to encourage any fog; and two million chimneys, all burning soft coal, are throwing off incessant volumes of smut-laden smoke. These are the things that scientific people talk about when they try to explain fogs. And then they go on to tell us that fogs are expensive; that they cost London five millions a year; that a single day's fog causes the metropolis to consume enough gas and electricity in excess of her ordinary requirements for supply a town of 50,000 population for twelve months; and that fogs leave behind them a deposit of six tons to the square mile—London Post.

THE VERY BEST REMEDY FOR BOWEL TROUBLES—NO FAMILY CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT IT.

"I regard Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy one of the very best remedies for bowel troubles," says Mr. J. W. Hanlon, editor of the Despatch, Ocala, Georgia. "I make this statement after having used the medicine in my family for several years. I am never without it." No family can afford to be without a bottle of this remedy in the house. It is certain to be needed sooner or later. For sale by all druggists.

YOU ARE AILING.

Not quite sick—but robbed of ambition to work—find it hard to think of dying, but bad enough for life to be pretty dull. There is a remedy—Ferrozone—that quickly lifts that half dead feeling. Gracious, but Ferrozone makes you feel good; it sharpens the dulltest appetite, makes it keen as a razor.

BLOOD? Ferrozone makes lots of it, the rich, nourishing kind that vitalizes the whole body. You'll be wonderfully quickened, immensely strengthened, feel hearty and vigorous after using Ferrozone. Buy your health, surplus vigor and reserve energy all come from this great restorative. Fifty cents buys a box of fifty tablets at all dealers.

May Be the Murderer.

Montreal, April 11.—The Montreal detectives have James Hackett, a steel worker, 38 years of age, and they claim he is the murderer of little Ida Ahern. The prisoner's wife claims he was home at the time of the murder, while this is flatly denied by neighbors.

PURGATIVES ARE DANGEROUS.

They gripe, cause burning pains and make constipated condition even worse. Physicians say the ideal laxative is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Man-drake and Butterbur; they are exceedingly mild, composed only of health-giving vegetable extracts. Dr. Hamilton's Pills restore regular movement of the bowels, strengthen the stomach and purify the blood. For constipation, sick headache, biliousness and disordered digestion no medicine on earth makes such remarkable cures as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Try a 25c. box yourself.

AN OLD INDIAN FEUD

THE WAY IT WAS ENDED BY THE ACT OF A LITTLE CHILD.

Story of the Long and Bitter Enmity Between Crazy Wolf and Little Scar, The Incident That Paved the Way to Peace.

Crazy Wolf was a warrior of the Sioux nation who held to all the savage traditions of his race. For years he refused to receive rations from the hands of the whites, and this marked him singular among all the Sioux. His deadly enemy was Little Scar, who had made lasting peace in his heart with the whites and who had yielded little by little to the allurements of civilized living.

The enmity of Crazy Wolf and Little Scar dated from the day of the great battle with the Pawnees.

When the remnant of the stricken Pawnees had turned to fly Crazy Wolf and Little Scar quarreled over the right to take a scalp, and a hand-to-hand combat ensued. The chiefs parted and said that neither must die, for the nation had need of all its men. Though the hands of Crazy Wolf and Little Scar were stayed by the chiefs, hatred still lived in their hearts.

It was ten years after the battle with the Pawnees and at the Pine Ridge agency, where a portion of the Sioux had been gathered, the government erected a schoolhouse for the Indian children. Instantly a division occurred between the fathers of the tribe. One-half of the warriors wished to send their little ones to the school. The other half declared that the teaching of the whites should never have place in the minds of their children. The children of Little Scar went to the school. The children of Crazy Wolf were kept in the wigwam.

Runners came to Pine Ridge from Standing Rock and the Rosebud. They told of the coming of the Messiah, that the buffalo were returning and that if the southern Sioux would but put their ears to the ground they would hear the thunder of the hoofs of the oncoming herd.

One-half of the warriors at Pine Ridge were seized with the Messianic craze. They danced the ghost dance and put on the ghost shirts. The one-half stamped from the agency, and with it went Crazy Wolf, as savage in heart as he was when he fought the Pawnees on the frontier of Nebraska. Little Scar stayed at the agency.

One day after the battle of Wounded Knee had been fought a band of twenty Sioux braves broke away from the main body for the sole purpose of raiding Pine Ridge agency and killing the children who were gathered in the schoolhouse—the children of their brothers who had succumbed to the white man's ways. In the band was Crazy Wolf, his heart full of the lust of killing.

The warriors came within sight of the schoolhouse. It stood on a bluff and on one side was absolutely unprotected. Crazy Wolf knew the location of the room in which the little ones gathered daily at their lessons. The mounted warriors made a headlong rush down the valley skirting the ridge, and as they whirled by the school they poured volley after volley into the room where the children of the friendly Sioux daily were assembled.

It was not the fault of Crazy Wolf that on that day there was not a slaughter of the innocents. A teacher had seen the feathered heads showing among the willows by White Clay creek and, taking the alarm, had hurried the children to the school.

The raiding band went northward. There was cavalry at the post to take up the pursuit, and the fugitives succeeded in reaching the main body of Indians, who by this time were surrounded by the troops of General Miles and were being gradually forced into the agency.

Crazy Wolf, when he saw the surrender of his brethren was coming, mounted his pony and made for the Bad Lands. He foresaw the end of the uprising and the complete subjugation of his people, and he laid it at the doors of the tepees of the Sioux who had refused to join the braves on the war-path.

Crazy Wolf made up his mind to kill Little Scar. He nearly starved in the Bad Lands, and his pony was dead. A week after the surrender he started for the agency on foot. His ammunition was gone, and he had nothing but his knife. He ate willow bark and roots. Hunger took his bodily strength, but his heart purpose was unweakened.

Crazy Wolf, starving, lay on the bank of the White Clay creek. The tepee of Little Scar was only 300 yards away. Crazy Wolf was famished, but he lay there in the bushes waiting for night and vengeance. He looked down to the water's edge, and there he saw a little girl with a willow bark full of food. The little one looked up and saw the famished eyes of the warrior. She smiled at him and held out her basket.

Crazy Wolf knew his strength was going fast. It might not last him till the hour of revenge. He ate the proffered food. The child was molding clay. Suddenly she turned and offered Crazy Wolf the model of a peace pipe. "You have eaten," she said, "now smoke."

Crazy Wolf took the pipe and blew an imaginary cloud of smoke away from his lips. The little one smiled at him again.

"Whose child are you?" asked Crazy Wolf.

"The child of the great warrior Little Scar," was the answer.

Crazy Wolf had eaten the bread of Little Scar and had smoked the pipe of peace. He had never broken a tradition of the Sioux race.

Crazy Wolf walked into the agency, and a little child was leading him.

THAT OVERWORKED, PLAYED OUT FEELING AMONG WOMEN

There are thousands of females all over our land who are broken down in health and dragging out a miserable existence, overburdened with diseases peculiar to their sex, apparently growing old while yet young. Often they have pale or sallow complexion, hollow, sunken eyes, with a lifeless look; the face has a pinched and haggard appearance; they are weak, weary and trembling, often extremely nervous, starting at every little noise. Many are low-spirited, and some are fretful. Some are apparently bloodless, with cold hands and feet, while others are flushed by an unequal circulation of the blood, dizziness and sometimes dimness of vision, loss of memory, and often loss of appetite and sleep, and are wearied with terrible dreams. Palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, smothering and choking spells, shortness of breath and the sensation of pins and needles are all indications of a weakened condition of the heart or nervous system, and should give them the present we would strongly advise the use of

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

They bring health to the broken down, energy to the weakened constitution, tone up the tired, overstrained nerves, and strengthen the weak heart.

Mrs. Edward Jackson, Hall's Bridge, Ont., writes: "For a year I was greatly troubled with nervousness and loss of appetite, and could neither sleep nor eat. After taking a few boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I was completely cured and can recommend them to all sufferers."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills 50 cents per box or three boxes for $1.25, all dealers. The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Saints and Disease.

The good St. Anthony owes scarcely more of his fame, probably, to his temptations than to the association of his name in popular speech with a disease. Erysipelas, known as the "sacred fire" before the eleventh century, owes its later name of "St. Anthony's fire" to the tradition that those who invoked the saint during a terrible epidemic of that time were cured. A complete list of complaints thus linked with the names of saints would be very curious. Neuralgia in the jaw is St. Apollonia's disease, sore throat or quinsy St. Blasie's, colic St. Erasmus', cancer St. Giles' and hydrophobia St. Hubert's. Epilepsy is either St. Aven-tin's disease or St. Mathurin's or St. John's evil. Insanity is St. Dymphna's disease and drunkenness St. Martin's evil.—London Chronicle.

STRAINED BACK AND SIDE.

"While working in a saw mill," writes C. E. Kenney, from Ottawa, "I strained my back and side so severely I had to go to bed. Every movement caused me torture. Lined different oils and liniments, but was not helped till I used Nerviline. Even the first application gave considerable relief. In three days I was at work again. Other men in the mill use Nerviline with tremendous benefit. An honest record of nearly fifty years has established the value of Polson's Nerviline.

His Specialty.

"Yes, that's Boroughs. He's an adept at constructing short stories."

"You don't say. He doesn't look literary."

"It isn't. I mean he can think up more ways of telling you he's broke than any other man I know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

THROW MEDICINES TO THE DOGS

At best they are uneasiness, often useless. You have the same disease of the nose, throat or lungs. Doctors would call it bronchitis, asthma or catarrh. The common root of these diseases is germ or microbe irritation—Cattarhozone not only destroys these germs, it does more, it heals diseased and inflamed tissue. The disease is not only cured, but its return is forever prevented by using Cattarhozone, which is splendid also for colds, coughs or irritable throat. Remember, you inhale Cattarhozone—Nature's own cure—use no other but Cattarhozone—it's the best catarrh cure made.

Think much, speak little, write less.

Negligence is the rust of the soul that corrodes through all her best resolves.

Ghosts would frighten many people who are not afraid of germs. Yet the germ is a real danger. If this microscopic animalism could be magnified to a size in proportion to its deadlyness, it would look like a giant python, or fire breathing dragon. The one fact to remember is that the germ is powerless to harm the body when the blood is pure. It is far easier to keep the germ out than to drive it out after it obtains a hold in the system. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most powerful and perfect of blood purifying medicines. It increases the quantity as well as the quality of the blood, and enables the body to resist disease, or to throw it off if it does have obtained a footing in some weak organ. Whenever the digestion is impaired, the nutrition of the body is diminished, for the blood is made from the food which is eaten and half digested food cannot supply the body with blood in quantity and quality adequate to its needs. For this condition there is no remedy equal to "Golden Medical Discovery." It cures ninety-eight out of every hundred persons who give it a fair trial. When there is constipation Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets will promptly relieve and permanently cure.

Charity is often kept in the family.

ELECTION STRATEGY.

An Incident of an English Parliamentary Contest.

In the days before the institution of the secret ballot, when the candidate with the longest purse usually won an election, a former Lord Dundonald, who refused to give bribes, contested Hamilton, but was beaten by an opponent who paid his electors at the rate of 45 a vote.

Then the unsuccessful candidate conceived this brilliant plan, says the writer of a history of the Dundonald family. He announced to his friends that he was quite determined to win the seat next time without bribery. Then he sent the town crier round the town to announce that all who had voted for him in this first election might repair to his agent, from whom they would receive £10.

As comparatively few people had voted for him, this was not a very expensive process. And at the next election Lord Dundonald was elected by an enormous majority. After the triumph several people came to him and delicately suggested that some reward was due to such loyalty.

"Not a farthing," was the reply.

"But, my lord, you gave £10 a head to the minority at the last election, and the majority have been counting on something handsome on this occasion."

"Perhaps so," said the clever candidate. "My former gift was for their disinterested conduct in not taking my opponent's bribe of £5. For me to pay them now would be to violate my own principles."—Pearson's.

"HOOKS" HIS PLUNDER.

The Way the Sneak Thief in Mexico Piles His Treasures.

In Mexico the sneak thief has his business down to a science. The favored manner of stealing is from the houses. Most of the buildings are but one story high, and the doors are kept closed and locked. The windows are as large as the doors and extend to the floor. To keep the thieves out of the house they are protected with heavy iron bars, but the Mexican sneak thief has found a way to overcome this difficulty.

Because of the lowness of the window he can look into the room and "spot" the articles he wishes. Then he waits until the occupant of the room is in some other part of the house. A bamboo pole about as long as a fishing rod is produced, to which is attached a piece of string with a fish hook on the end.

The thief, by practice, can cast the hook so that it will catch on almost any article in the room, no matter how far it may be from the window. Slowly it is drawn forward and pulled through the bars.

In this manner articles are taken off the bureau or tables, rugs snatched from the floor and bedclothes from the bed. Clothing left on chairs or hanging on the wall is easily removed. The thieves do not even wait until the occupants are out of the room in all cases. There have been cases where men and women who were undressing in their rooms have lost clothing while their backs were turned to the window.

Intimations.

No member of the British parliament is permitted to say bluntly and directly that another is drunk, but he may hint at the fact in periphrase, as when Mr. Gladstone, replying to an unconventional speech of Disraeli's, remarked, "The right honorable gentleman has evidently had access to sources of inspiration that are not open to me."

A violent scene was caused in the parliament of Victoria, Australia, by a labor member saying of a legal colleague, "The honorable and learned gentleman was once called to the bar, and he has since gone frequently without being called." The angry barrister retorted, "You tea drinking skunk!" Eventually both withdrew and apologized.

The Aurora Borealis.

The ancients viewed the aurora borealis with superstitious awe, looking upon it as an omen of direful disaster. It is not unusual for descriptions of old time battles to mention the fact that the "curious red northern lights" gave us warning that something awful was about to happen. In the annals of Clan-Mac-Naile is to be found an account of a purple aurora which lighted up the northern skies in the year 688 A. D. on the night preceding the dreadful battle fought by the Irish tribes of Leinster and Munster, and it is not necessary to mention the fact that the people took it as an omen of the great slaughter which soon followed.

A French Characteristic.

Now, what I like so much in France is the clear, unflinching recognition by everybody of his own luck. They all know on which side their bread is buttered and take a pleasure in showing it to others, which is surely the better part of religion. And they seem to make a poor mouth over their poverty, which I take to be the better part of manliness.—Stevenson.

The Consolation.

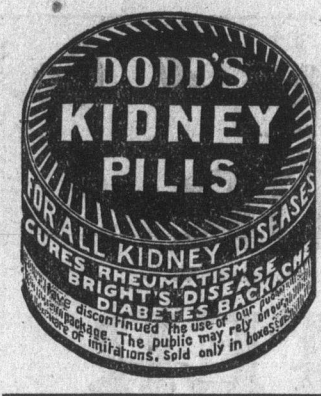

"What! Wed such a parvenu?" exclaimed the proud beauty. "He has millions," responded her social mentor, "and, remember, you need not associate with him after you are married."

Ignorance.

Mr. Nuwed—Why did you discharge the cook, dearest? Mrs. Nuwed—She was incompetent, darling. I told her to make a few sweetbreads for tea, and she didn't know how.—Exchange.

The Race Problem.

The Small Chap—Say, papa, what is the race problem? Papa—Picking winners.—Kansas City Independent.

How a Fire May Start.

The ease with which a fire may be started and the apparently inexplicable causes which may produce one are both emphasized by a happening in an uptown house last week. The mistress of the house was seated in the extension parlor in the afternoon alone and perfectly quiet, when without warning a hanging bookshelf broke from its fastenings and slipped to the floor. On its way it struck a small table standing beneath it and knocked over a box of matches, igniting two or three of them. These flew off, one touching the light gas scarf which had hung from the table, which fell blazing against the lace curtain near by. The frightened screams of the mistress brought a servant from the kitchen, and she rushed to the part of the two women to extinguish the rapidly spreading fire. Had the room been untenanted, as it had been all the morning and would have been again fifteen minutes later, it would have been a case of fire department succor to have saved the house.—New York Post.
