

THE ACADIAN

WOLFVILLE, N. S., APRIL 14, 1893.

Stand Up For Your Town.

An exchange says: We believe the dictates of common sense should guide every man to stand up for his town. No man who has faith in his town, who believes that it has something of good before it will stand on the corner of the street and denounce its institutions, lament the dull times, belittle its enterprises, decry its public-spirited and leading citizens, and find fault generally with what is going on.

Every public improvement is opposed by these men. Mr. Growler sees a more prosperous town beyond his own, always. Somewhere else is better than here. Let a citizen of enterprise and brains inaugurate something new to promote business, and he is doing it for some selfish purpose. This fellow goes out of town to trade, as he thinks by so doing he can purchase a little cheaper. But if he happens to own a block of stores in town, he wants his rent the day it is due.

Much of this is due to good advertising, to practical travellers and to energetic management; but all this would have been in vain, had not the Romedies themselves possessed the true secret of popularity—they are what they are recommended to be.

In striking contrast to the above, is the man who always stands up for his town, and speaks hopefully of her future. He makes it the subject of cheerful remarks; he writes about it; he works for its advantage; he sells all he can at home, and buys all he can elsewhere, instead of sending the people of his town to other places to trade; takes a personal interest in all movements tending to develop the resources of his community; whenever he goes abroad is so proud of his home that he will leave an impression in the minds of strangers that there is no town on the continent like it.

The Canadian Court at the World's Fair.

The Canadian section of the World's Fair at Chicago is rapidly being put in readiness for the opening.

The agricultural court is being decorated in the interior by a series of arches, the exterior being divided proportionately for the several exhibits of the different provinces and territories. In the centre of the court, in the main aisle, a handsome trophy is being erected, the archway through which will form the main entrance to the Canadian court.

The book is certainly a wonder of art and will undoubtedly have a wide circulation; its ingenious and humorous author is a credit to the University but more especially to the law department and every "Law" at least, should carry to his home as a college souvenir, a copy of Johnston's poems.

Looking for Manufacturers.

THE SUCCESS THAT ATTENDED THREE MONTHS BUSINESS OF A NEW CONCERN.

A chosen committee of shrewd business men of the St. John board of trade met a few days ago to consider in what way the city could induce more manufacturing; to talk over the possibilities of their town for manufacturers, and to make known its advantages.

This is one of the signs that the people of St. John are alive and seeking to improve its business and manufacturing output. Another sign is the success that some of the latter manufacturers are meeting with. This is notably the case with the Hawker Medicine Company, which has just completed its first quarter of business. Last fall saw the formation of this company, which includes among its stockholders gentlemen who have been foremost in the business world of the province, who have not been afraid to be enterprising and to operate extensively, fearlessly and confidently when they did enter upon an undertaking.

That is the spirit with which these men took hold of the Hawker remedies, and the push and ability shown by the decorative and management since the first of January has been such that at the end of March the showing was so much as to surprise even the most sanguine doctors. When it is stated that the sales were so large that one-quarter of their value paid their entire newspaper advertising which appeared in seventy-five newspapers in the maritime provinces, then some idea can be formed of the popularity of the goods.

Much of this is due to good advertising, to practical travellers and to energetic management; but all this would have been in vain, had not the Romedies themselves possessed the true secret of popularity—they are what they are recommended to be.

The Canadian Magazine for April.

The April number of The Canadian Magazine, the new national review and magazine, well maintains the high character of the first number, and the illustrations are deserving of praise. The political contributions are well written and interesting. In "British Trade and Imperial Reciprocity" Mr. Alex. McNeill, M. P., analyzes facts and figures which will be read to most readers, and outlines a trade policy which is destined, apparently, to receive much attention in the early future.

Attorney-General Langley in "Nova Scotia Coal Mines" writes interestingly a vigorous defence of the much talked of legislation of his government in regard to coal mines. "The National State," by Charles A. Stuart, is a scholarly, thoughtful, philosophic discussion of the broad movements of the age in regard to national organization. Stuart Livingston furnishes a charming dissertation on the life and literary ideals of the great Norwegian writer, Bjornstjerne Bjornson. "Ballads" is discussed appreciatively by J. Castell Hopkins. A timely article, beautifully illustrated, is "Ontario's New Parliament Buildings," by Frank Yeigh. Another illustrated article is "A Famous Canadian Shrine," by J. J. Bell. Henry Lye contributes a true and amusing story of a Canadian experience under "Tales of Weymouth Lane." Two thrilling stories, well told, also appear. In poetry, besides minor poems, is a long poem, "East and West," by Prof. Chapman, which is of rare merit; in fact, many will be inclined to place it amongst the finest narrative poems ever produced in America.

The Canadian Magazine deserves success, and no well-informed Canadian can afford to be without it. It is published by the Ontario Publishing Co., Ltd., Manning Arcade, Toronto. Subscription, $2.50 per annum; single copies, 25c.

A Book of Poems.

SOMETHING NEW AND OF MERIT BY ERNEST F. JOHNSTONE, OF WATERVILLE, KING'S CO., N. S., POST-GRADUATE LAW STUDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN.

Those who are acquainted with the genial "P. G." need not be told that his poetical productions merit universal commendation. Those who have heard his "Judge Nat," "Falter," "Life," and "The Drunkard," will ever regard him as a poetic genius of the first rank, and his poem, "To My Mother," sweetly pathetic, and expressive of filial devotion, will live forever. His "Angel of Death" is a masterpiece and reveals a depth of thought and feeling that would reflect credit on many an older bard. His "When to Study Law I Started," etc., will be read and applauded by every law student who remembers Zudermeister, of the terrors of Blackstone, and "My Hat" will be appreciated by the many who are familiar with the story of the fate of the poet's "fiddle." His eulogy of the members of the faculty of the law department of the U. of M., (illustrated by elegant half-tone cuts) will please everybody, and the "Medic" will impress you with the inventive genius of the author and you will laugh from "118" to "120."

The book is certainly a wonder of art and will undoubtedly have a wide circulation; its ingenious and humorous author is a credit to the University but more especially to the law department and every "Law" at least, should carry to his home as a college souvenir, a copy of Johnston's poems.

CORRESPONDENCE.

DEAR ACADIAN,—I have read with lots of interest the correspondence about changing the name of your town, and take the liberty of suggesting that you call it Wengosoon, the word for apple in the Miama tongue; or Wengosoonoke, apple tree in the same language. Of course this would be hard on the jaw of some, but the student would not mind it, and if a commercial traveller was to try it, of course his jaw would break, they have such a hard cheek. But I see by your last issue it is to remain dear old Wolfville for a time yet and I am glad of it, for I suppose a brakeman on the W. A. R. opening a car door and saying in the presence of those who came to see the beautiful land of Evangeline, "New Grand Pre" when they have heard of Grand Pre for years. I suppose it would make them wonder what part of the world they were in even if Wengosoonke was sung out. Oh my, do not spoil part of the beauty of the town by changing the name. Yours,

One who has passed through the prettiest town in the province—WOLFVILLE, Annapolis, April 7th, 1893.

KING & BARSS, PLAINTIFF'S SOLICITORS. April 13th, 1893.

Masonry at Wolfville.

The annual installation of the officers of St. George's lodge, No. 20, R. N. S., A. E. and A. M., took place at the lodge room last Friday evening.

Past Master G. H. Wallace, assisted by Canon Brock and other visiting brethren, installed the officers. The custom with St. George's Lodge is to have a banquet after the work is closed. This year more extensive arrangements than usual were made and the tables were spread at the Village House to accommodate about fifty.

The members of St. George's, with visitors and the Wolfville brass band, comprised the number who partook of the splendidly-prepared feast. Many toasts were proposed and responded to.

St. George's is over a century old and the members wear a centennial jewel. The Tyler has for 27 years been identified with that office without interruption.

The following is the list of officers elected for the ensuing year:

W. M.—Watson Duncanson. S. W.—E. R. Morse. J. W.—H. C. Vaughn. S. D.—W. A. Payzant. J. D.—George Hunter. Secretary—J. W. Coldwell. Treasurer—G. H. Wallace. Marshal—Martin Pick. Stewards—E. J. Lorikin. S. I. Baker. Tyler—Wm. Blackadar.

WANTED.

A lady, who is an experienced teacher of piano and desirous of spending the spring and summer in recreation and rest in the town of Wolfville, would like to exchange piano lessons for board in a Protestant home. If persons should wish her services who have not a piano, the lady can take one with her, which pupils can use. Address, TRACHER, ACADIAN OFFICE, Wolfville.
