

CONFEDERATION FROM THE ANNEXATION POINT OF VIEW.

BY AN AMERICAN CITIZEN.
Continued.

THE PEOPLE FIGHTING FOR STARVATION.

The St. Hyacinthe "Courier," published in the eastern section of Upper Canada, speaks as follows in the early part of the present summer in relation to the exodus of Canadians to the States:—"At Aston and Roxton a large number of houses are closed; families emigrate by ten or a dozen at a time. Nearly the same thing may be said of Guelph, Rly and Waterloo. According to the estimates of respectable parties, such emigration was never seen in those townships. It is estimated that one-third of the population of those localities is going to the United States. The truth is, Canada is no longer what it was before the commencement of the war now terminated. Meanwhile the United States have settled their difficulties, and look more inviting than ever before."

The "Advertiser" a few weeks since published the following:—

"No object at present attracts so generally the attention of the French Canadian press as the constant emigration of their people to the United States. Hence the close of winter this loss of strength and nationality has been incessant, and the universal report is that still they go. All the efforts of the clergy, the press and influential leaders are totally inadequate to stemming the current or effecting an appreciable check."

One week of emigration takes away more French Canadians than a whole year of colonization has secured to the country. Some of the papers say that the people leave the country because they are so intensely disgusted with the government and have lost confidence in their rulers; while others think that the taking of their homes by the more advanced townships, is a matter of absolute and immediate necessity for the people are actually starving. They have exhausted every resource of soil, and cannot exhibit till the next crop; they must wander in search of the means of living."

This is a Canadian, not a Yankee picture, and it needs only a personal examination into the condition of the provinces to satisfy the reader that it is not too highly colored.

THE EXODUS TO THE STATES.
The government statistics show that the emigration from Canada to the United States in 1865 increased sixteen per cent over the emigration of 1864, while the return of the first nine months of 1866 shows the emigration of thirty-two per cent over the emigration of 1865.

THE CAUSE OF CANADA'S TROUBLES.

The evils under which Canada suffers are inseparable from her connection with Great Britain. It is true that she is oppressed by the distinctions of race, and persecuted by the disabilities of religion; but these are not the real causes of her troubles; they are the result of the connection with Great Britain. It is true that she is oppressed by the distinctions of race, and persecuted by the disabilities of religion; but these are not the real causes of her troubles; they are the result of the connection with Great Britain. It is true that she is oppressed by the distinctions of race, and persecuted by the disabilities of religion; but these are not the real causes of her troubles; they are the result of the connection with Great Britain.

THE CAUSE OF BRITISH CONNECTION.

But whether this same picture is overdrawn or not, it is certain that the resources of Canada, such as they are, are undeveloped in consequence of her connection with the British Government. While this connection exists Canada must retrograde as the neighboring republic advances. Every colonist knows that the pathway of England lies through the increasing resources of the United States, and that every year that further develops the military power and commercial supremacy of the American republic adds to the prospect of a war with Great Britain. Every emigrant from Europe, whether from England, Ireland, Scotland or Germany, has heard of the danger of a conflict between Great Britain and the United States, and knows that it is a matter of time before the battle ground upon which the issue is to be fought out between an aristocratic, monarchical government for the favored classes and a republican government for the people. The very nature of England to incite the fears and arouse the enmities of her colonies, by constantly holding before their eyes the superiority of the resources of the United States, and by her aggressive neighbor, inspire upon the mind of the emigrant the danger he encounters by settling as a British colonist on the territory of a neighbor's border. The very agitation kept up by the provincial governments for selfish purposes, in relation to military and defensive works, goes for nothing at Point Lévis and in other localities before their eyes—keep alive in the imagination of the Canadian the picture of devastated fields, smoldering cities, desolated homes, and all the horrors of a bloody war.

ITS ADVANTAGES TO CANADA.

The direct advantages which the Canadian sees in association are numerous and great. First is the sense of security gained by separation from the British government; exemption from the obligation of fighting at their own doors in the quarrels of an ambitious Power thousands of miles away, and the safety of the soil from any future invasion by a hostile army. This alone would suffice to place the Province on the high road to prosperity, for it would at once open her lands to the immigrant and invite capital and labor to her mines, her forests and her waters. Next, is the blotting out of an imaginary line of division from the great republic, the abolition of customs duties and officers, and the free opening of her trade with over thirty millions of people. With an influx of emigration both from the States and Europe, and with enterprise and capital drawn into the new States, population would increase and local trade would prosper. The same farming lands and of homesteads, available, manufacturers would spring up in her cities, mills in her forests and on the banks of her rivers and streams, new public works would be projected and built, and existing works enlarged and improved; the labor of the artisan would be in demand, and Canada would soon exhibit activity, thrift and wealth of a Western State.

Instead of being as now, in danger of hostile invasion, she would be more secure from attack than any other portion of the Union; for with the St. Lawrence in the hands of the United States, the whole line of territory from Maine to Oregon, would be her shield and breastwork against a hostile army.

The resources of the Union would be open to Canadians as now they are to the people of the States. Instead of being, as now, shut up for more than half the year from a seaper, or compelled to trust to the vessels on the sea. Thus shots were fired, and before we had time to recall our vessels engaged in foreign commerce, or to make the slightest preparation for defense, our coasts were invaded by American cruisers and privateers and our whole frontier was in a blaze.

"You count the cost of war by the army and navy estimates; but who can ever count the cost of that war to us?—a war, let it be borne in mind, into which we were precipitated without our knowledge or consent. Let the coast of England be invaded by powerful armies for three summers in succession; let the Southdowns be swept from the Hampshire hills, and the rich pastures of Devonshire supply its beasts to the enemy encamped in the western counties or marching on Manchester or London; let the youth of England be driven from profitable labor to defend these great centres of industry, the extremities of the island being given up to rapine and to plunder; fancy the women of England living for three years with the sound of artillery occasionally in their ears, and the thoughts of something worse than death ever present to their imaginations; fancy the children of England, with weapons and alarms, being sent to fight for three years when their fathers would come home; fancy, in fact, the war of the Roses or the civil wars back again, and then you can understand what we suffered from 1812 to 1815."

When the Trent affair aroused the indignant feeling of the empire's last autumn we were—as we were in 1812—so completely unprepared. The war again was none of our seeking."

THE WAR CLOUD DARKENING THE ATMOSPHERE.

Herein lies the secret of the downfall of Canada as a British colony. The man who live upon her soil, the emigrants who seek out the Western continent a new home, feel that within the province they have no security for their property or their lives. Not through any fault of their own, or of the provincial government, but through the jealousy or intrigues of the British monarchy, or by reason of any of the thousand complications to which the dark and tortuous policy of England may lead, their fields may at any moment be overrun by an invading army, and they and their sons dragged from their homes to fight in a cause in which they have no interest and for which they have no heart. On the other hand, they see before them, in the Western States of the Union, prosperity and industry. They find there a people rich, enterprising and happy; and they know that, as foreigners, if a war with any European Power should come, they would not be called upon to take any part therein. They would be subject to none of the horrors of invasion; their children would remain at their firesides, and their wives and daughters would be saved from the perils and sufferings incident to a war upon the soil.

THE REMEDY PROPOSED.

While all classes admit the present deplorable condition of Canada and the absolute necessity of some change to save the country from anarchy and ruin, public sentiment is divided as to the remedies that present the best prospect of relief. The policy of the present provincial government, backed up by the home government, is an immediate separation from the provinces of Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Upper and Lower Canada, with the prospective addition of Newfoundland and the Territories, British Columbia and Vancouver. Some of those who object to confederation, especially in Lower Canada, propose in its stead a legislative union between the first named provinces; and others, a confederation of Upper and Lower Canada alone, a scheme to which the present ministry stands pledged, in the event of the failure of the greater confederation.

AN EXTRACT OF THE TRUE PANACEA.

But however loudly or persistently it may be denied, the great bulk of the people—the business men, the operatives, and the young men of all classes and occupations—desire annexation to the United States, knowing that in that direction alone lies the permanent security and prosperity of the country. While many openly and loudly avow these sentiments, a far larger number who entertain them are willing to quietly abide their time, in the faith that all other efforts at an amelioration of the condition of the country will fail, and that the policy which they desire most of necessity prevail. The strength of annexation rests mainly on the present condition in the minds of those who favor it, that sooner or later it is inevitable, and that, come when it will, it is the cheapest and most satisfactory mode of securing peace and prosperity to the country, and removing from it all the dangers to which it is now exposed by its connection with England.

THE CHEAPEST AND SAFEST DOCTOR. HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

THIS great household Medicine ranks among the leading necessities of life. It is well known to the world that it cures many complaints other remedies cannot reach, this fact is as well established as that the sun lights the world.

Disorders of the Liver and Stomach.
Most persons will, at some period of their lives, suffer from indigestion, derangement of the liver, stomach or bowels, which if not quickly removed, finally settles into a dangerous illness. It is well known in India, and other tropical climates, that in such cases, almost every soldier abroad carries a box of them in his knapsack. In England most persons know that these Pills will cure them whenever the liver, stomach or bowels are out of order and that they need no physician.

Weakness and Debility.
Such as suffer from weakness, or debility, and those who feel want of energy, should at once have recourse to these Pills, as they immediately purify the blood, and setting upon the main-spring of life, give strength and vigor to the system. To young persons entering into womanhood, with a derangement of the functions, and to mothers at the turn of life, these Pills will be most efficacious in correcting the tide of life that may be on the turn. Young and elderly men suffer in a similar manner at the same periods, when there is always danger they should therefore understand the nature of this purifying medicine, which ensures lasting health.

Disorders of Children.
If these Pills be used according to the printed directions and the Ointment rubbed over the region of the kidneys, as least once a day as salt is forced into meat, it will penetrate the kidneys and correct any derangement of their organs. Should the affliction be severe or protracted, then the Ointment should be rubbed into the neck of the bladder, and a few days will convince the sufferer that the effect of these two remedies is astonishing.

Disorders of the Stomach.
Are the sources of the deadliest maladies. Their effect is to vitiate all the fluids of the body, and to send a poisonous stream through all the channels of circulation. Now what is the operation of the PILLS? They cleanse the bowels, regulate the liver, bring the relaxed or irritated stomach into a natural condition, and acting through the secretory organs upon the blood itself, change the state of the system from sickness to health, by exercising a simultaneous and wholesome effect upon all its parts and functions.

Complaints of Females.
The functional irregularities peculiar to the weaker sex, are invariably corrected without pain or inconvenience by the use of Holloway's Pills. They are the safest and surest medicine for all diseases incidental to females of all ages.

Rheumatic Affections.
All young children should have administered to them, from time to time, a few doses of these Pills, which will purify their blood, and enable them to pass easily through the different disorders incidental to children, such as measles, hooping-cough, cowpock, and other infantile diseases. These Pills are so harmless in their nature as not to injure the most delicate constitution, and are therefore more peculiarly adapted as a preventive of the humors of youth.

Dropsy.
Hundreds are cured yearly by the use of these Pills conjointly with the Ointment, which should be rubbed very liberally into the parts affected.

Derangement of the Kidneys.
The quantity and quality of the bile are of vital importance to health. Upon the liver, the gland which secretes this fluid so necessary for digestion, the Pills operate specifically and infallibly restoring its irregularity, and effectually curing jaundice, bilious remittants, and all the varieties of disease generated by an unnatural condition of that organ.

Holloway's Pills are the best remedy known for the following diseases:—
Ague, Dropsy, Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Stomachic Affections, Scrophulous Ulcers, King's Evil, Sore Throats, Stone and Gravel, Secondary symptoms, Tic-Douloureux, Tumors, Ulcers, Venereal Affections, Worms of all kinds, Weakness, from whatever cause, &c., &c.

A few copies of the Pills, and Ointment, will be sent to you on receipt of one penny postage.
