Parthenoa Off. TOOK ENGLISH MAIL.

After a three months' delay during which time she had a new stern post and rudder put in position, the Don aldson Line Part in sailed this forenoon for Lendon. She was destined for that port from Botwood with 2,600 tons of pulp when she met with mishap off Cape Race. The liner, it may be remembered, was drifting about helplessly for a week when picked up by the mammoth coal carrier Wagnama and towed to this port. The Parthena had her cargo unloaded and stored at Harvey's premises be fore going into dry dock. The expenses of the ship during her stay here, though not definitely known, is an enormous sum.

The Parthena took an English mail on board this morning before sailing.
