Great Super Feature at the Crescent

"REMEMBRANCE," A FICTURE THAT STRIKES HOME.

We have had heart appeal in mothr pictures, such as Goldwyn's production of "The Old Nest," and now comes an equally sympathetic story of the father of a family in "Remembrance," Goldwyn's newest superfeature which is being presented at the Crescent Theatre. It is a remarkable picture, unlike anything heretofore attempted on the screen, and is bound to interest all classes and ages of theatre-goers.

The reception accorded "Remembrance," at its first showing in the Crescent Theatre proves beyond a doubt that Rupert Hughes, the author and director of the picture, has struck upon a popular theme. "Poor Old Dad" is the hero of this story and. all the sympathy goes to him as he toils to meet the demands of his extravagant family. The mother is a social climber and so are the sons and daughters, but Dad retains his simple tastes. The struggle to make his income meet the ever increasing demands of the family is too much for him and he suffers an illness that almost causes his death.

But Dad, just when his illness reaches a crisis, decides that he can't afford to die, so he starts to get well. And by this time the family has learned its lesson. Dad isn't going to be over-worked any more, he is going to have time to enjoy life a little and the family is going to stop deluging him with bills. Claude Gillingwater, who plays the father, proves himself to be one of the finest character actors on the screen, and for the rest, Goldwyn has assembled an extraordinarily good east, including such favorites as Patsy Ruth Miller, Cullen Landis, Richard Tucker and Kate Lester. See Dan Delmar & Co. in their new farce comedy to-night. It's a scream.

Thursday at the Blue Puttee. apr14,21 E.B. Cave Manned Girl is Viola Dana HER ACTING A DELIGHT IN A PICTURE OF MANY AMUSING COMPLICATIONS. If there is anyone who does not enjoy every minute of "They Like 'Em Rough," Viola Dana's new picture which was shown yesterday at the Nickel Theatre, it is hard to imagine what sort of movie fare would please him. In "They Like 'Em Rough," Miss Dana plays the part of an orphan who was bound to have her own way and to whom authority in any form was unbearable. Her uncle and aunt were only too well aware of this streak of perversity in her nature, and so they were sure that the best way to marry her to the man whom they had decided was in every way suitable, was to oppose the match. She discovers their plot and immediately decides that not only will she not marry the man they selected but that she will revenge herself on her uncle and aunt by marrying the first man she meets. He happens to be a big bewhiskered lumberman and after a visit to a Justice of the Peace he refuses to go on his lonely way and kidnaps the impulsive young lady and takes her. to his camp in the mountains. She is informed by her husband. that he is the boss of the camp and that that goes for her, too. She sulks, rages, and is starved into apparent resignation but finally escapes. After a series of thrilling adventures she is recaptured by her cave-man husband and then learns that this wolflike creature has only been pretending all along, that he is really-but, that part of the story it would be unfair to reveal.
