The Canadian Pacific Railway. The following is the exposition of the arrangement made of the settlement of the Pacific question, taken from the Ottawa Times (Government organ):

It would have saved the Government much trouble and responsibility if it had been found possible to bring about the amalgamation of the two rival companies, the 'Interoceanic' and the 'Canada Pacific,' and to accomplish this object no effort was spared by the Government.

But on its proving impossible, negotiations were opened with leading men of both companies, and the result has been an agreement to raise the necessary capital among the people of Canada, and to submit to such restrictions as will prevent the danger which has been apprehended, that the control of the road and of the lands would fall into the hands of foreigners interested in a rival project.

We understand that the Board of Directors is to consist of thirteen members—five from Ontario, four from Quebec; and one specially selected to represent the interests of each of the other Provinces of the Dominion. The stock will be distributed in the same proportion, it being part of the scheme to open books and offer to the general public in each Province, the entire amount, it being understood that no director shall be allotted more than one hundred thousand dollars worth of stock.
