The mail bag for Glencoln fell under the wheels of the train last Thursday its contents. The letters, fortunately, were not much damaged, but the papers, especially the bundle from this office, were cut to pieces.

written a series of wall paper ads, which have won for him a great deal of praise from advertisers in other towns. He has originated several advertising styles and schemas, some of which have been copied elsewhere. His ads on our back are always attractive, well worded and worth our readers' attention.

reside. He has so far discovered seven of them, and has promised to attend a reunion to be held on the 28th of May next, near St. Louis, Mo. It will be a pleasant time, no doubt, for all to meet again after so many years of separation to talk over the

To a citizen of an inquiring turn of mind who asked regarding his identity he stated cousin.—St. Thomas Times.

hear the plan, and let us talk matters over together. Yours truly, J. Sisler.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hurd, and Mrs. O.
L. Westover and daughter, arrived home on Saturday last from Florida, where they have been spending the winter. Mrs.
Westover comes back in the best of health, and her daughter is much better than she went away. Mr. Hurd was also benefited by the change, all of which will be good news for their many friends. Mr. A.
McTaggart remains south for another month or so, and has fully regained his health and strength.

Harold Youell, who has been home for the past few weeks, owing to ill health, got anxious to return to his work in the Traders bank, St. Marys, and contrary to the advice of his uncle, Dr. Youell, left for that place on Monday last. His ambition to get to work received a severe shock when the physician at St. Marys, who had been attending him before he left, ordered him back home, and after giving him a good scolding for attempting to go to work in his present condition, told him he must stay quietly at home for at least another month.

The Rev. C. T. Scott and C. F. Caven spent Good Friday in navigating Catfish creek from Aylmer to Pt. Bruce in a canoe. They were practically the whole day making the trip, and got through with very little trouble except having a hole punched through their frail canvas barge, when near Jaffa. The reverend gentleman is too good a woodsman to be stuck, and always carries several yards of cotton with him, from which he tore off a piece the proper size, and taping a small pine tree, soon had pitch enough to patch the hole in the canoe, and they proceeded on their way rejoicing. They arrived at Pt. Bruce between 8 and 9 o'clock in the evening, and waited patiently for some time for a rig which they had arranged for, to come for them. There was a hitch in the arrangements somewhere, however, and they had to walk back to Aylmer, covering the nine miles in fairly good time, and arriving home on towards morning. They took the back streets when they struck town for fear the night policeman might not recognize them in their torn and dilapidated condition, and run them in.

A partridge flew through the window of the porch in front of the residence of Mr.
W. B. Brown, yesterday, smashing it to pieces and killing the bird. Had this happened in Tilsonburg it would not have been thought unusual, but it was a very strange thing for this place, and no one can understand how the bird got so far from its home in the woods.
