That is the grave of the Unknown Soldier, It Bothwell's Corners Brigden Brussels Brigden Brussels most beautiful arch imaginable. In my opinion this unknown soldier's where it should be. America's is placed in Arlington Cemetery, outside of Washington in a beautiful situation it is true, but extremely difficult of access; Britain's is placed in the sombreness of Westminster Abbey, again where it can only be seen if a trip is made to it. But this grave in Paris we pass every day and many times a day; it belongs to anyone and everyone, as it should. It is beautifully tended, and is a moving and beautiful reminder of things we should not forget, much as we might like to.

NO DAMAGE REPORTED.

Canadian Press Despatch. Kitchener, July 25.—The northern istrict of Waterloo was visited by a heavy rain and windstorm last night but no damage is reported. Crops throughout the district were badly in need of moisture, and the heavy downpour has resulted in consider-able improvement. Farmers in practically all sections of the county give satisfactory crop reports. While most of the produce is slow owing to the late spring season, there is ample promise of abundant yields in grain, vegetables and fruit.
