CANADIAN SHOES.

The Shoe and Leather Journal points out that Canadian shoe manufacturers are making much progress toward the goal of supplying the home market with footwear. No longer do the big American factories look upon our shoe industries with indifference. In fact they do not try to compete for trade in the medium and cheaper grades of shoes, confining their efforts to the highest class of shoes. Of this kind, American manufacturers sell from $900,000 to $1,000,000 worth a year. The demand for the best class of shoes is growing, owing to the increased prosperity of the people. Immediately any country passes the point in the struggle where obtaining three meals a day is a pressing problem, they begin to buy better clothing and other comforts of life, and a demand consequently springs up for better classes of goods. In some lines it is necessary to go abroad to secure the supply to meet the demand, but Canadian mechanics possess the skill to make the best had the country may expect to see home industries win even the best trade now held in certain lines by foreigners. Speaking of fine shoes, the Shoe and Leather Journal says it is quite impossible to tell American fine shoes from Canadian, unless the names were shown.

Canadian manufacturers have yet to learn the power of good advertising in selling good goods. Americans are adept advertisers. They use newspaper and magazine mediums of wide circulation and have made the names of their wares household words. In the magazine line, American monthly publications dominate the Canadian field, carrying well-written advertisements which are silent but forcible salesmen.

Canada has one good magazine, but it appeals more to the literary person than to the general reader. But there are numerous newspapers which have a large general circulation which it would pay Canadian manufacturers to use.

Were the Canadian public once convinced, for instance, that Canadian fine shoes are the equal in quality to any others, their patriotism should lead them to ask for the home produced shoe. Every pair so bought strengthens the hands of the Canadian producer and gives so much more work to Canadian mechanics. From a national standpoint, it is advisable to cultivate the habit of buying articles made in Canada. It would be worth while educating children in the schools to ask for "Made in Canada" products. They talk about it at home and when grown would practice it.

BY THE WAY.

British papers oppose the idea of the Dominion government raising the duty on woollens. That is a good reason why it should be done.

A Chicago syndicate has purchased 40,000 acres of land in eastern Assiniboia and will put the whole of it under crop next spring. Canada welcomes sons of Uncle Sam as settlers and gives them credit of knowing a good thing when they see it.

Mr. Borden's stand on the transcontinental railway question will likely have the effect of leading the Dominion government to make an appeal to the electorate next fall, before attempting to commence the construction work. The people will thus have an opportunity of choosing whether they wish to saddle themselves with the tenets of the cost of the railway and present it to a private company or assume its whole cost and own it themselves.

JUST ONE WISH.

If I could find Aladdin's lamp And had one wish alone - Just one, without conditions, or additions of my own - If I could have to specify Whose love I wished to claim, And might not be accorded wealth If I were granted fame, I wouldn't wish for riches, and I wouldn't crave renown; I wouldn't wish for love, or for the right to wear a crown; I wouldn't wish my enemy Might fall beside the way; I wouldn't wish to be immune From danger night or day; I wouldn't wish for freedom from The sorrows and the cares That people who are blessed with hearts Are called upon to bear; But I could wish this simple thing: That never more on earth Might any mother have to see Her child deformed at birth.

- S. E. Kneer, in Chicago Record-Herald.

Another club woman, Mrs. Haule, of Edgerton, Wis., tells how she was cured of irregularities and uterine trouble, terrible pains and backache, by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—A while ago my health began to fail because of female troubles. The doctor did not help me. I remembered that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in the back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 30 pounds more than I ever did, so I unhesitatingly recommend your medicine."—Mrs. MAY HAULE, Edgerton, Wis., Pres. ## FADETTE'S FANCIES.

It is what we do, not what others do, that matters. It is not the mistakes others make that count.

It is not their blunders that tell. A fig for their follies and failings. A bagatelle or a button for their indiscretions.

Fiddledees for their ignorance, — woe be the root of all their evil. — Faddette in Chicago Tribune.

BOOK NEWS.

Somebody has written a book about ink. This reminds us that a book might be written about pens. If indeed, such a book has not already been put in the world's possession. Then we might have some more books about paper, books about pencils, books about pens, books about blotters, books about pen wipers, books about pen racks and books about inkstands. — Chicago Record-Herald.

Ottawa, June 7.—The sheriff of St. Schoolastique has asked for help to restrain villagers from interfering with the hanging of Theodora Dehaenger on Friday, and a squad of Dominion police will go down and also a provincial squad. ## Murder at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, June 7.—The town is worked up over a murder which took place on the Fort William road, about a mile from here, yesterday afternoon, when an unknown Italian was shot.

About 5 o'clock a man named Whitefield, who was grading the road, and a lineman saw smoke from a pistol shot and on going to examine the cause, saw a man kneeling on a wounded man in the ditch. When the two men came up the murderer jumped up, and flourishing his revolver shouted, "If you will come near me, I will shoot you." A street car came into sight then and the murderer ran into the bush. He is still at large. The wounded man died without speaking. Nothing on the dead man could be found to identify him.
