A Well-Knewn Newspaper Man Bead.

Mr. Francis B. King-Hall, who, it will be remembered, arrived here last year, and went north to Behring Sea in the schooner Otto, in the interests of the New York Herald, is dead. Mr. King-Hall was one of the finest newspaper correspondents on York dailies—the Herald and World—has been engaged, from time to time. upon work of very great importance. He was the World representative in the Franco-Chinese war, and was sent by that paper to Jacksonville, Fla., at the time of the great yellow fever scourge in that city. For the Herald he has been constantly employed on important work in every continent. He was a thoroughly bright, genial fellow, and all who knew him will regret his death very greatly. His father, Admiral King-Hall, is one of the best known naval officers in the British service, while his elder brother is a post-captain in the navy, and was with Lord Charles Beresford in his celebrated "Condor" deed of heroism in front of Alexandria.

With the recently issued official rep the New York insurance department ing the business of 1891, we are able the extent of the year's unprofitable r to fire insurance. The total number of joint-stock fire and fire-marine insurance companies reporting for 1891 was 129, against 148 for 1890. The premiums received in 1891 by these 129 companies amounted to $110,561,043, an increase over the premiums of the 148 companies for 1890 of $3,832,443. As the premium rate charged was about the same—a trifle lower—as in 1890, this shows a considerable increase in volume of business. While the increase in losses paid was, however, very much greater. The 129 companies paid in 1891 for losses $69,007,453, while in 1890 the 148 companies paid $59,455,312, an increase in losses paid of $9,552,141, or two and a half times as much as the premium increase. This increase, however, is not so serious as might seem when we consider that 1890 was an exceptionally good year for the companies. If we look at total income and expenditure, we find that in 1891 increase in the former over 1890 was $3,709,479, and the increase in the latter $12,355,557. This is relatively larger than the increase in losses, and as less rather than more was paid out for dividends, more would seem to have been paid out for general expenses. Very naturally, the surplus shows a shrinkage from $22,109,467 to $25,683,721—a decrease of $2,425,746.—[Insurance and Finance Chronicle.

PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

The Speaker took the chair at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Corron moved the second reading of the bill to protect the profession of architects. He explained that it was not intended to exclude any who were already practising in the province. All these could register and belong to the association.

Mr. SEMLIN and HON. Mr. BEAVEN opposed to bill

MR. SEMLIN and Hon. MR. BEAVEN opposed the bill.

MR. HUNTER thought the proposed legislation was along the right lines. Sometimes, he said, very important interests were entrusted to architects, and it was just as much in the public interests that the architects should be protected as that doctors, lawyers, druggists, etc., should be protected. Hon. Mr. Davie supported the Bill in a somewhat lengthy speech.

The second reading passed. Bill put down to be committed on Saturday.

THE MARRIAGE ACT.

THE MARRIAGE ACT.

Mr. Sword moved the second reading of the bill to ammend the Marriage Act. He created a great deal of amusement by referring to an article in a New Westminster paper, wherein it was stated that he (Mr. Sword) had some improper motive in bringing the bill forward. (Laughter.)

Hon. Mr. Beaven said that he did not know why a private member of the House should be permitted to amend a public statute for private purposes. (Laughter.) If the hon. gentleman for New Westminster district wished to become a Benedict, he should go about it in the usual way. (Renewed laughter.)

Mr. Speaker —Does the hon. leader of the Opposition charge that the hon. member for Westminster district (Mr. Sword,) has a personal interest in the bill?

Hon. Mr. Beaven—It looks like it.

Mr. Speaker—Perhaps the hon. leader of the Opposition will give the House the name, etc. (Laughter.)

After further remarks by Mr. Sword the second reading passed.

COAL MINES BILL Hon. Mr. Vernon moved the second reading of the Coal Mines Bill. Read a sec-ond time and put down to be committed

HON. MR. TURNER moved the second eading of the Horticulture Bill. He exclained fully its scope, which was to establish Boards of Horticulture to encourage he fruit industry of the province, and also do away with the pests which so often detroy fine orchards and valuable trees.

The second reading passed. Bill put lown to be committed Saturday.

BILLS OF SALE ACT. Mr. EBERTS moved the second reading the Bills of Sale Act. Read a second tim to be committed Saturday. RAILWAY, TRAMWAY AND TELEPHONE CO PANIES' BILL.

Mr. SPEAKER informed the hon member for West Kootenay (Mr. Kellie) that his bill, No. 9, respecting the incorporation of Railway, Tramway and Telephone companies was out of order. A bill to cover such objects as were here set out could only be introduced as a private measure.

QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE. MR. GRANT rose to a question of privi-lege. In the COLONIST of March 23rd, and the Times of March 24th, he was reported as having voted nay on Mr. Sword's amend-ment to a motion of Hon. Mr. Robson re act he had voted yea.

After remarks by Messrs. Booth and Sword,
Hon. Mr. Beaven said that he thought it would be inadvisable to pass the bill at present. Such legislation was considerably in advance of the time. If British Columbia had not a written constitution like the B. N. A., or was in the same position as the adjoining states of the Union, the measure now proposed might be useful. He would have to oppose the second reading.
Mr. Grant expressed the opinion that the Government was forcing the people to ask for such legislation as this. The Government had, he said, been trying to centralize the power and take it away from the municipalities, and such action would force the people to ask for legislation of this kind.
The motion for the second reading was lost, without a division.

There being very few other people in the car, we soon got into conversation, that is to say my fellow traveller did, for I sat the whole time in delight and listened to him speak about old adventures and early days in Canada. We had not been speaking above a couple of minutes when I found out that he was a pioneer of pioneers, and that, though physically old and feeble, his mental the listing was a bright and active as the behind a very old man, which is self-results and the mock parliament, the debates in which have sharpened the wits of the nembers of the Y.M.C.A., during the winter months, will be formally prorogued on April 1, when a legislative banquet will be enjoyed.

Sailors Attack a Chinaman.

Yesterday afternoon officer Smith put a stop to a fight which would have assuredly terminated in serious harm being done. Two sailors were walking along Government street when a Chinaman, who was apparently sprinkling the sidewalk, insulted one of them in some mysterious way, and it was not long before blows were struck, and by the time the officer reached the spot the Chinaman was rushing out of a back alley with a large piece of iron in his hand, which, if he had used, would have certainly killed the sailor. Both men were arrested.

The new Victoria Brewery that is being built by Messrs. McGregor & Jeeves for Loewen & Erb, has reached its first story, and is already giving indications of the handsome structure that it is to be when completed. The following dimensions of the rooms it is to contain will prove interesting. In the stockhouse: Chip cellar, 14 feet high; rest barrel cellar, 18 feet; fermenting cellar, 14 feet. In the brew house the six stories are: 14, 10, 10, 10, 10, 12½ feet respectively. Laying Back for a Rush.

Dr. Minne optosed the passage of clause 24, which provides for the appointment of all Police Magistrates by the Government. He said that Victoria, at least, had got along very well under the present system, and there was no need for a change.

After remarks by Hon. Mr. Davie, the clause passed.

There was considerable difference of opinion with regard to the clause which prevents police magistrates acting as counsel in any criminal case. Some of the members thought this clause should be so amended that the magistrates could act as counsel outside the cities in which their appointment was. The clause, however, finally passed without amendment.

Several explanatory and modifying clauses being passed, brought the committee to the section placing the appointment.
