Important Speech by Lord Salisbury Who Deals With Armenian and Other Questions.

LONDON, Aug. 15 .- In the House of Lords, the members of the Commons being assembled, the Speech from the Throne was joint

"My Lords and Gentlemen:

"The communications which I receive from foreign powers assure me of the con-tinuance of their good will. I am happy to say no international complication has arisen in any quarter calculated to endanger the peace of Europe. War between Japan and China, which was in progress at the opening of last session, has been brought to a close by a peace which, I trust, will endure. I observed strict neutrality during the war, and have taken no action in respect thereto, except such as appeared to me likely to be favorable to the termination of hos-

"International troubles, which have broken out in the Armenian districts of Asiatic Turkey, have been attended with horrors which have moved to indignation the Christian nations of Europe generally, and my people especially. My ambassador and the ambassadors of Russia, the President of the French Republic, acting together, have suggested to the government of the Saltan reforms which, in their opinion, are necessary to prevent a recurrence of this disorder. These proposals are now being considered by the Sultan, and I am anxiously awaiting his decision. "A resolution has been passed by both houses of parliament of the Cape of Good Hope proposing that the adjacent crown colony of Bechuanaland should be incorporatod with Cape Colony. I signified that I was willing to consider favorably an act for that purpose, provided it contained the proper safeguards to my interests and those of my native subjects, and especially as regards their lands, the liquor traffic, and the maintenance of their own system of administering justice. I received satisfactory assurances of these matters and an act has been passed by the Cape parliaments which I have e ery reason to ex sot will fulfil the require-moved the address in reply to the speech adding that he was happy to see that Earl Cadogan was installed in Dublin as Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, and expressed the hope that he would continue that firm policy which was carried out when Mr. Balfour was Chief Secretary for Ireland. He also trusted that the government during recess would consider the question of husbandry and make a serious attempt to relieve the general distress existing.

Reviewing the elections just held, Lord Rosebery dwelt upon the fickleness of the electorate, and admitted that the present government was supported by a large majority. The elections, he claimed, had shown that the creed of a lifetime cannot be put into the manifesto of a moment. The ex-Premier also said that though the policy of the Liberals must have altered, their principles were unaltered. He was not prepared to adopt the view that the elec tions settled the Irish question. The schism existing among the Irish parties was regrettable, but that would not interfere with the question of self government for Ireland.

This would have to be granted.

The government, Lord Rosebery continued, would be forced in time to acknowledge that the best means of conducting Irish business is through the Irish. "I am convinc ed," he concluded, "that you will see Home Rule extended not only to Ireland, but possibly to Scotland, and I do not even limit the evolution there."

The Marquis of Sallsbury, the paime minister then arose to reply. He said: "The ister, then arose to reply. He said: "The Noble Lord complains of the brevity of the Queen's speech. Where there is not much to be done it is not necessary to spend many words describing what is to be undertaken at this session. The government holds that the abandonment of Chitral is unwise, as a question of moral as well as physical strategy. It is useless to follow Lord Rosebery through the wide area of his disquisitions. I will not describe our intentions in regard to the constitution of this house or in respect to the adoption of Home Rule. When we introduce bills touching these matters it will ba time enough to discuss them." Returning to the massacres of missionaries at Ku Cheng, Lord Salisbury said : There is every reason to believe that the Chinese government is sincerely desirous of punishing the perpetrators of the outrage and those who connived at it. Should any luke warmness become discernible, it will become our duty to supply its defeat. With respect to Armenia, we have accepted the policy which our predecessor initiated, and our efforts will be directed to obtaining an adequate guarantee for the carrying out of reform. We have received the most loyal support from both France and Russia. The permanence of the Sultan's rule is involved in the conduct he pursues. If the ories of misery continue, the Sultan must realize that Europe will become weary of appeals and the fictitious strength which the powers have given the empire will fall it.

Rt. Hon. Mr. Balfour, the Conservative leader, agreed with the opposition leaders' remarks in regard to Armenia, and said the government was doing its best to carry out secretary of state for foreign affairs. The government, he continued, is slive to the seriousness of events in that country and tries by granting them amnesty, danger to the Turkish Empire. As to right hon, gentleman's criticisms of the course of the government in this connection were not well founded. The government had not extended the boundaries of the empire, but Chitral being within its boundaries England could not permit any lodgment of a foreign power in that quarter. The population of Chitral must look to England as the great suzerain power. In regard to Ireland, Mr. Balfour said there did not appear to be any pressing anxiety to bring forward land legislation before next session.

Mr. Redmond moved an amendment to the address inviting the government to de-clare that there would be no delay to their Irish policy. Five sixths of the electors of Ireland had declared in favor of Home Rule, and he protested that the verdict of the election was not against Home Rule. He ills was national self-government. Regarding the land legislation he admitted that the only remedy was compulsory purchase by the fenant.

one bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor my hair was restored to its original color and ceased falling out. An occasional application has since kept the hair in good condition."—Mrs, H. F. FENWICK, Digby, N. S.

Growth

of Hair.

"Eight years ago, I had the vario-loid, and lost my hair, which previ-ously was quite abundant. I tried a variety of preparations, but with-out beneficial result, till I began to fear I should be permanently bald. About six months ago, my husband brought home a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor, and I began at once to use it. In a short time, new hair began to appear, and there is now every prospect of as thick a growth of hair as before my illness."— Mrs. A. Weber, Polymnia St., New
