D. J. BRUCE DIES FROM WOUND

Dr. W. W. Doherty Stabs Him in the Eye with Umbrella, Penetrating Brain.

The community are slowly recovering from the severe blow sustained in the tragic death of Mr. D. J. Bruce, who died early on Friday morning, as the result of a blow struck him by Dr. W. W. Doherty.

From information received it appears that Dr. Doherty, who was on duty at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, where he was attending Dr. Lynam. The wound did not appear serious at first and he was removed home in the evening; but unfortunately, he never regained consciousness and died on Friday morning at 6 o'clock. Immediately after the occurrence, Dr. Doherty was arrested by Chief Hughes and held in the lock up, bail being refused.

It is impossible to get the facts leading up to the stabbing, but it is supposed to have started in a political argument, deceased being a pronounced conservative while Dr. Doherty is a Liberal. It is said that the doctor, who was also an ardent advocate of temperance, accused the doctor of selling liquor contrary to the local option law, and this highly incensed the doctor who struck deceased as above. It is also said that Dr. Doherty was somewhat under the influence of liquor when this happened.

Mr. Bruce was a native of Prince Edward Island and came to Campbellton sixteen years ago, and conducted a general furnishing store, occupying a handsome block on Water Street. He was twice married, his second wife, who, with two children, survive him, was a Miss McKinnon of New Mills. He also leaves to mourn his loss, a brother in California and a sister in Rhode Island.

Mr. Bruce was one of our most respected citizens and was looked up to and honored by all classes. For many years he has been a devoted worker in St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and an earnest member of the session, and as a devoted husband and father, had the great joy of a perfect home.

From many sorrowing hearts and from the whole community their prayers and tender sympathy are extended to the grief-stricken family, but who yet rejoice in the fact that the life, so suddenly shortened, was spent in the service of God and to the benefit of his fellows. The funeral will probably take place on Monday.

THE INQUEST

The inquest commenced in the Asker building Friday morning at 10 o'clock, Justice A. Martin, M.D.

The following jurymen were selected: George St. Onge, Thos. W. L. McRae, M. E. Moore, Jas. P. Jarvis and Thos. McWhorter.

The jury then proceeded to the home of deceased to view the body.

Upon returning the following witnesses were examined:-

DR. LYNAM, M.D.-I am practising medicine in Campbellton. Have a New Brunswick license. I saw deceased at about 4.45 at the hospital on the 21st. When I moved cloth from face I noticed he had a cut on the upper lid of left eye, the whole eye, eye and lid, were swollen and bleeding, which showed that the injury was recent. Would say perhaps, half hour. I raised the lid of the eye and saw that whatever had caused the external wound had caused the internal wound, the ball having also been pierced. That was all I saw. I did not probe. I washed the eye. Did not notice any substance of this eye ball escaped. Deceased was sitting in chair when I dressed wound. Was full conscious. Saw him again at 8.45 same day. I was called to his house. He was absolutely unconscious. Swelling was no larger. I could not explain it any other way than that the instrument which penetrated the eye had penetrated through the skull and ruptured some blood vessel, which formed a clot on the brain substance which would cause unconsciousness. The external wound in itself was not serious. A clot might be formed by a blow. In my opinion the cause of death was a clot of blood formed on the brain, caused by the perforation of the eye and extending in to the brain and rupturing a blood vessel. Could not swear that death resulted from this. When I arrived at hospital Dr. Price was there and we dressed the wound together. When I saw him at his residence at 3.45, I called in Dr. Pihault in consultation. We agreed that there was a clot pressing upon the substance of the brain which caused unconsciousness, and we did what we saw fit.

A. E. G. McKenzie, upon whose request was deceased removed from hospital to his home.

Ans.-His wife was called and I gave permission.

Coroner.-Did you examine him for any other wounds?

Yes, I examined deceased but found no other wound.

Adjourned until 10 o'clock.
