support the experience portrayed is a personal one; in short, the author intimates as much on page 31. Let me give you a synopsis:

"Malarin," as it states, is the cloak with which superficial physicians cover up a mutitude of ill feelings which they do not understand, and do not made care to disease as they cannot oure. When they advise their pations to travel or that he has overworked and needs rest and is probably suffering from malaria, it is a confession of ignorance or of inability. The patient goes abroad. The change is a tonic and for a time he feels better. Comes home. Fickle appetite, fraquent headaches, severe colds, oramps, steeplessness, irritability, tired feelings. "And general unfitness for business are succeeded in due time by alarming attacks of rheumastic which filts about his body regardless of all human feelings.

It is muscular—in his back. Articular—is his joints. Inflammatory, my! how he fears it will fly to his heart! Now of he goes to the springs. The doctor sends him there, of course, to get well; at the same time he does not really want him to die on his hands!

That would hurt his business!

willing him!

"Great heavens!" he cries, "why have you kept me so long in ignorance?"

"Because," said the doctor, "I read your fate five years ago. I thought best to keep you comfortable and ignorant of the facts."

He dismisses his doctor, but too late!
His fortune has all gone to fees.

He dismisses his doctor, but too late!
His fortune has all gone to fees.
But him, what becomes of him?
The other day a well known Wall street banker said to me, "it is really astonishing how general bright's disease is becoming. Two of my personal friends are dying of it. But it is not incurable I am certain, for my nephew was recently cured when his physicians said recovery was impossible. The case seems to me to be a wonderful one." This gentleman formerly represented his government in a foreign country. He knows, appreciates and declares the value of that preparation, because his nephew, who is a son of Danish Vice Consul Schmids, was pronounced incurable when the remedy, Warner's safe cure was begun.
"Yes," said his father, "I was very skeptical, but since taking that remedy the boy is well."

I regret to note that ex-President Arthur I regret to note that ex-President Arthur I regret to note that ex-President Arthur I was confident and alck headache by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. 246

"Yes," said his hance, "I was 'tely desired, but since taking that remedy the boy as well."

I regret to note that ex-President Arthur is said to be a victim of this terrible disease. He ought to live but the probabilities are that since authorized remedies can not cure him, his physicians will not advise him to save his life, as so many thousands have done, by the use of Warner's safe cure which Gen. Christiansen, at Brexel, Morgan & Co.'s, told me he regarded "as a wonderful remedy."

Well, I suspect the here of the book cured himself by the same means. The

'unauthorized' means."

And that the author's condemnation is too true, how many thousands duped, and yet rescued, as he was, can personally estify?

GRATEFUL-COMFORTING. EPPS'S COCOA.

Well, I suspect the hero of the book cured himself by the same means. The internal evidence points very strongly to this conclusion.

I cannot close my notice of this book better than by quoting his advice to his readers:

If, my friend, you have such an experience as I have portrayed, do not put your trust in physicians to the exclusion of other remedial agencies. They have no monopoly over disease, and I personally know that many of them are so very 'conscientous' that they would far prefer that their patients should go to heaven direct from their powerless hands than that they should be saved to earth by the use of any ferm of screfula, should be treated with Ayer's Sarssparilla.

color to the hair, and vigorous heatin to the scalp, are innumerable.

Old people like it for its wonderful power to restore to their whitening locks their original color and beauty. Middle aged people like it because it prevents shem from getting bald, keeps dandruif away, and makes the hair grow thick and strong. Young ladies like it as a dressing because it gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre, and enables them to dress it in whatever form they wish. Thus it is the favorite of all, and it has become so simply because it disappoints no one.
