When Premier Mussolini of Italy goes to England on December 1st to sign the Locarno Treaty, it is quite within the bounds of possibility that the Locomotive Engineers will refuse to drive a train on which he is a passenger. This attitude of the labor men toward Mussolini is no doubt the result of his outbreak against the representative of a labor party at Locarno, which resulted in the decision of all the pressmen there to boycott the Italian Premier.

The Earl of Reading, Viceroy of India, is reported to have had a narrow escape from death while golfing at Calcutta and to owe his life to the prompt action of his secretary. A deadly hooded cobra raised itself behind the Viceroy, ready to strike, when the secretary rushed forward and killed the snake with a golf club.

When Prince Albert Edward, son and heir of Queen Victoria, was but nineteen, a friend drew from his pocket a photograph, intending to show the face of his betrothed. Instead he drew out a portrait of the Princess Alexandra of Denmark, one which greatly interested the young Prince. The next day, calling upon the Duchess of Cambridge, he saw the same face in miniature on her table and thus began his first interest in his Princess. In the autumn of 1861 the Prince went to Germany, and there, in the cathedral at Speyer, he saw a party approaching him, in the midst of which was the fair face he so much admired. The young people were introduced to each other and went round the cathedral together. That this meeting and a subsequent one at Heidelberg were not altogether accidental is shown by the fact that the Prince Consort entered in his diary: "We hear nothing but excellent accounts of the Princess Alexandra. . . . The young people seem to have taken a warm liking for each other."

It was not, however, until about a year later, and after the death of the Prince Consort that Prince Albert Edward and his Royal Danish Princess were married, March 10th, 1863, after a wonderful round of festivities. The long reign of Queen Victoria closed with her death on January 22nd, 1901. The coronation of King Edward and Queen Alexandra took place in Westminster Abbey on the morning of August 9, 1902. The scene was even more brilliant than that of their wedding. For the comparatively brief interval of barely ten years—1901-1910—Queen Alexandra adorned the position of Queen Consort at Buckingham Palace, a period full of anxious care regarding King Edward's health, after his nearly fatal illness on the eve of the Coronation in 1901. At that time, it will be remembered, the Coronation had to be postponed. Last Sunday morning the body of the Queen Mother was borne by four of her old servants to the little church at Sandringham, where a private service was conducted in the

New Wheat Beats Marquis

A new impetus to wheat cultivation on the Western prairies is likely to be given through the perfection of a new variety known as Garnet, which, it is estimated, will reduce the period of time between sowing and reaping to 100 days. A few years ago the usual period was 120 days, but the Marquis wheat now grown reduced it to 100 days. The Ottawa Experimental Farm has been studying the new variety for several seasons, and this year small quantities of seed were sent to about 100 selected farms in Western Canada and its record augurs well for the future of the prairies. In Southern Alberta, Garnet wheat ripened and was threshed long before the snow and rain storms came, and in several cases Marquis wheat grown in the same fields is still unthreshed. Very exacting tests established the fact that Garnet is among the high-class milling and baking wheats. Two lots of 100 bushels each—one of Garnet and one of Marquis—are to be shipped to Minneapolis for further milling tests, and provided these are satisfactory the Federal Government will proceed to distribute the Garnet seed of which there are about 12,000 bushels in existence.

Kilties Lose Their Spats

As a measure of economy, the British War Office has announced the abolition of the white spats worn for over a century by the kilted Scottish regiments. Spats became a part of the Highlanders' equipment after the Peninsular War. During the 250-mile retreat from Astorga to Corunna in January, 1809, through snow and rain and in a mountainous country, the Highlanders tore their shirts into strips to bind their lacerated feet. Official sanction was given to this addition to the uniform shortly afterward by the issue of white spats.

Locarno Treaty Endorsed

The endorsement of the Treaties of Locarno by the British House of Commons by the overwhelming majority of 375 to 13 was something in the nature of a personal triumph for Mr. Austen Chamberlain who introduced the motion for ratification. There was some criticism of the treaty both by Mr. Lloyd George and Ramsay MacDonald, but no real opposition. No attempt was made at Locarno, Mr. Chamberlain said, to produce a scheme of world disarmament, "but not only did we do nothing to make disarmament any more difficult, but we did much to make it easier."
