SACRIFICE.

A TRUE STORY.

A A Dout six years ago, in one the Penn nsylvania mines several chambers in the upper tier or vein were discovered to be on fire. It was feared that the flames, which were raging fiercely, would reach the shaft before they could be extinguished. Word was hastily sent to the men in the workings beneath to come up before all means of escape was cut off.

Martin Craghan, a boy twelve years, had been promoted to the position of mule-driver the day before. He had just taken his mule to her dark stall, 900 feet under the ground, when a comrade called to him and told him of their danger, urging him to hurry to the shaft, for all the men were gone.

With a sorrowful look at his mule to reading looks, slid into the seat and
