

ENLARGED SERIES-Vol. XV.]

TORONTO, AUGUST 4, 1894.

No. 16.

THE SIEGE.

('ATS and dogs do not, as a rule, make very friends. good Perhaps, doggie is usually to blame for this. He never seems able to come near a cat without behaving rudely, and barking at her until she tlies in terror to some place of shelter. With her sharpclaws, kitty can easily climb n tree and so get out of her enemy's way. Three kittens were playing happily together in a garden when a black and white dog, named Spot, came along and frightened them away. Up a tree they scrambled and then down into a nice, comfortable hammock they climbed. Here they are safe out of Spot's reach. He thinks he will just sit still under that ham-mock until the kittens are lite so hungry they will have to come down. But Spot forgets that he soon grows tired and hungry himself, and in a few minutes he will run away to his master. Then the kittens will go on with their game

THE SIEGE.

Cat's leap · ·f frog. Some little bay - Lam alraid somethin_ naughty like Spot and think it fun to spoil some other boys or girls' game But we think none of our loys would act like that They have been taught the Golden Rule

Whatsoever yo would that men should do to you do ye even so to them."

TALENTS fortered under difficulties develop brightest, graces grow stalwart beneath storms of opposition If you are a precocious child and your every bright idea isantici; ated and praised, you will soon become conceited and hopelessly effeminate, but the boy or girl of robust or native thent, whose early aspiration 1LT# rudely crushed by some unkindly hand, grieving for a while, soon теськога ра tier.

INDIAN labies are tied to lear de and will lie down or stand up for hour without any attention and never make a bit of noise.