TO REMOVE INK STAINS.

Tear blotting paper in pieces and hold the rough edge on the ink when it is freshly spilled, or cover the spot with Indian meal, or the liquid ink may be absorbed by cotton batting. If the ink be spilled on a carpet cut a lemon in two, remove a part of the rind and rub the lemon on the stain. If the ink stained article is washed immediately in several waters and then in milk, letting it soak in the milk for several hours, it will disappear. Washing the article immediately in vinegar and water, and then in soap and water, is another remedy which will remove all ordinary ink stains. No matter what substance be used to remove ink the stain must be rubbed well. If the article stained be a carpet on the floor use a brush

TAKE THE HINT.

Many retail booksellers who have found business slow for a long period, and who have their shelves stocked with books they have been carrying for years, would find it a good plan to re-arrange their shops.

Dealers of long experience have proved it an expedient worth trying to take down their wares from their dusty old nooks and replace them on the shelves in new positions.

It beats all how old customers can often be thus prevailed upon to buy. On entering the store books they have never seen before catch their eye, and they are often thus put in a purchasing mood.

Thousands of Dollars are Lost

Yearly by advertisers who are hampered by canvassers and agents and inclined to place their advertisements in shady trade mediums.

OURS IS KNOWN ALL OVER THE GLOBE
We have been thirty-four years in existence, and are the oldest English trade paper in this line.

We have a large advertising connection, and those who once try our columns stick to us fast.

If you want to cultivate a sound British and Colonial trade, direct business to give your advertisements. We are the right sort. The "Stationer, Printer, and Fancy Trades' Register," issued by everyone who is anybody in the English kindred trades. It has the largest circulation and is the best medium for the effective and judicious advertising for Stationers, Printers, Bookbinders, Publishers, and Manufacturers of Books to sell. The terms of subscription, two dollars per annum, postpaid. Specimen copy cheerfully sent free on application to THE EDITOR.
