FILIAL AFFECTION OF THE CHINESE.

THE habitual reverence inspired in the mind of a child follows him through life, and forms an indissoluble link—a social bond of the strongest kind. The duty incumbent on a son to provide for the necessities of his indigent parents is seldom slighted, save by those who have no regard for themselves and is usually discharged with many other becoming acts of esteem. I have sometimes admired the conduct of a son when he has brought an aged parent to the hospital; the tenderness with which he conducted him to the patient's chair and the feeling with which he detailed his sufferings, showed how deep-rooted filial piety is in the heart of a Chinese. At Macao, a Chinese shoemaker, who had done some work for me at Singapore, called to ask me for some further encouragement. "Why," said I to him, "did you leave Singapore where you had a good business?" "My poor mother," he replied, "is getting very old, and she will have me live near her." In obedience to the command of a parent, he had given up the certain pursuit of a livelihood abroad and returned to take a very precarious chance at home. The reader will not be sorry to hear that this man used to come, from time to time, for a stock of New Testaments to distribute among such of his countrymen as were likely to make a proper use of them.

Arrangements are in progress for placing steam-carriages on the road from Stortford through Newmarket and from Colchester through Ipswich, to Norwich early in the spring.

TO OUR COUNTRY READERS.—The very low price at which our paper is published, obliges us earnestly to request, that all our friends at a distance will make an effort, as speedily as possible, to remit us, through our agents, (or by post, in bills,) the amount of their respective subscriptions—the expense of sending round a collector (20 per cent.) being more than the charge for the paper will warrant our incurring.

Six months have now elapsed since the commencement of the New Series of the MIRROR; and the large additional outlay consequent upon a weekly issue, renders it extremely desirable that all our friends should attend strictly to our terms, viz: payment half-yearly in advance. Those who have not yet paid for the last half-year, are respectfully requested to do so without delay.
