The dispute between France and Belgium appears to be in a fair train for settlement, a Commission, to meet in Paris, having been agreed upon. The Emperor Napoleon has been suffering from influenza, but has sufficiently recovered out, would shake to their very centre civilization to preside over the Corneil of Ministers. Marshal Niel spoke strongly in the Corps Legislatif upon the necessity of maintaining the armed came on earth to establish - Cor. of Tablet. strength of France, and the Government measures were adopted by 188 to 13.

The Franco-Belgian Railway dispute has assumed the phase of international negotiation, but, as the Foreign Ministers of each country are to form part of the Commission which is to sit in Paris, it is believed that its deliberations will extend beyond the limit of the original question, and that the commercial relations between the two countries will be considered.

The Emperor Napoleon has recovered from his temporary indisposition.

ENGLISH INFLUENCE ON THE CONTINENT. -The Independance Belge has received information from London that Queen Victoria has written an autograph letter to the Emperor Napoleon and to the King of Belgium respecting the Belgium question. According to the same journal, some little anxiety is felt in this country on the subject of the dispute. Everybody, it says, wishes for peace, but the fear is beginning to be entertained that England has kept herself too much aloof from Continental affairs, and that the indifference she has affected is an encourage- to establish in Rome a corps of 20,000 Imperial ment to undertakings which her interests forbid her altogether to disregard. A similar state ment is made in a semi-official Prussian paper, the Berlin Correspondence. ' English interests,' it writes, 'suffer by the perpetual variations of the political barometer in Europe, and we hear it said that in London the opinion is beginning to prevail that England must take more interest in the general affairs of the Continent.'

Navy Gazette wrote on the 18 h ult., apropos of the diplomatic differences between France and Belgium :--

The tone again adopted by the Prussian journals is highly irritating to the sensitive French people ; the foreign policy of the Cabinet is felt | taken their measures before hand egainst pecuniary to be a mistake, and to be driving the country embarrassment.' The Opinion Nationale says that these arrests were arch-conspirator has it all his own way. Victor Bonn will proceed to Rome, deputed by their col spiracy against the safety of the State. The Public formally denies that there is any question of augmenting the French army of occupation in Rome on the occasion of the assembling of the Ecumenical Council. The flatness of the Bourse to day is attributed chiefly to a rumour that the Government intended to sanction the discounting of the instalments still to be paid of the last loan. Four men and two women have just been tried in Paris on a charge of introducing the Lanterne into France. Nearly 700 copies were found at the residences of two of the accused ; a petticoat with eight large pockets, by the aid of which one of the women had recently brought from Brussels 130 numbers; and a waistcoat, flinnel, vest, and belt, containing in all 23 receptacles in which one of the men had imported 170 copies. They were sentenced to imprisonment varying of the contracting powers, and the sect, although it from two to six months, with fines, the men 500 f. each, the women of 200f.

ITALY.

PIEDMONT .- 'The final catastrophe which the crimes and follies of this unfortunate prince have provoked seems to be at hand. All the accounts which reach us from Florence, and other cities of Italy, concur in anticipating an immediate crisis. Baffled by the attitude of France and Prussia, and incapable either of satisfying or of resisting the demands of the Mazzinian sect, the chief of the House of Savoy is about to reap what he has sown. 'The symptoms of decided thy.' action on the part of the revolutionary factions, which now feel themseives to be stronger than the Government, are so menacing, that France has despatched an agent to Florence to make known her intentions. M. Schmidt was instructed to inform the King and the Minister of War, that if they had no power to control the Italian revolutionists, 'the French Government would itself adopt the necessary measures to preserve the interests of peace and civilization.' General Dumont bas made a similar representation to Pius IX., and has proposed, in his master's name, troops. The Pontiff is said to have replied that. although willing to accept the aid of France in case of need, his own army would suffice to profurnish a fresh example of a truth to which Louis Philippe bore witness when he said, in Rome: 'Show me one instance in all history law annihilated. of a prince who made war on the Holy see and The Paris correspondent of the Arny and did not come to ruin, and perhaps I will follow your advice.'

Florence.-A private letter from Florence gives details about the royal family which it would be impossible to publish, and adds that 'the King and his friends so distinctly foresee the contigency of a violent expulsion from the pennsula, that they have there is the same popular sentiment about the incans for Ferdinand; the Modenese for Francis V ; the Parmesans for Robert I.; and the Pontificals, would be looking for Francis Joseph, ' if Austria had not become what she is ' The republicans it seems to be generally felt, will get the start and have a temporary success, and then 'the universal hopes and expectation of 'the people' will be accomplished.

A camp has been formed within the last week about three miles from the Roman frontier by the Italian Government, which is viewed with consider able suspicion here in France, as it can have no pos any responsible post, or retained a lingering tolerance between himse'f, France, and Austria - an alli- [Father. concert matters for early eventualities. The alliance, whatever it may be, must be at the cost of the Holy Father, and their uncasines as to the line likely to be taken by France after the elections. Proseia has washed her hands of the Italian alliance as she knows well it would cost her the good-will of the Gatholic populations of the Rhine and of Southern Germany, and prevent the establishment of a nunciature in Berlin, a measure now under negotiation. The city of Berlia would become an epiecopal see, and the present chaplain general of the army, already a Bishop 'in partibus,' is spoken of as the probable choice of the Holy See in such a case. This being the case, Italy turns once more to the Emperor Napoleon for an alliance-I do not say to France, for the people are Catholic to the core-and a cession of the Italian Tyrol by Austria, with an indemnity in the Dapubian provinces, is spoken of as a condition already agreed on between the three powers. In all would no doubt like to have the Catholic populations of Trent delivered over to its tender mercles, cares for nothing in reality save Rome. Deputations from every country of Europe are arriving for the purpose of tendering the allegiance of their respective countries to the Holy Father, and of offering their help and co-operation in the present crisis of the Gcumenical Council. The Fathers of Obristendom, the faithful scals who look to this decision for the remedy to the crying evils of the age - the flower of the Catholic youths of Europe resting on their swords, and keeping knightly watch round the throne of Peter; and on the other side, the entire forces of statecraft, of buman baseness, pride, and blind hatred of the church, leagued in unholy compact against R me. We have only to glance across the frontier to see the gathering of the cloud.

A despatch from Rome announces that the Pope intends to proclaim an amneaty on the 10th of April His Holiness, it adds, sent his blessing by telegraph to the Prince Imperial on his birthday, a few days since, and the Emperor Napoleon replied to this mark of tenderness on the part, of the Holy Father by thanks ' conceived in terms of affectionate sympa-

A WOULD-BE MARTYR -A few days ago the unit. ed sections of the Roman Sacred Consulta, at a second sitting, agreed on a decision respecting the appeal in the case of Ajani and Luzzi. It is now known that the capital sentence was commuted to hard labour for life. Ajani, who had looked forward to the glory of dying in the cause of Italy, was deeply mortified by his arrest of judgement.

Mgr. Nardi has announced his intention of treating the Darwinian theory on the origin of species at an early sitting of the Academia Tiberina.

KINGDOM OF NAPLES. - The Liberta, & new N Bpolitan journal, attempts to explain the universal distrust and disaffection which reign in Italy. While English newspapers are singing in oborns the blessings of Italian emancipation from religion and the priests, this impartial witness tells the truth which the former do not know, or carefully conceal .-'Under a new government,' says the Liberta, 'inautect Rome. As we hear no more of a visit to Caprers, we may hope that any such silly and mischievons proceeding has been abandoned by the advice of her Mojesty's responsible Ministers, who could scarcely allow such an insult to be offered to the Catholics of the British Empire. AUSTRIA.

While the Catholics of North Germany, encouraged rather than bindered by the wise Government of the King of Prussia, are making extraordinary prepara tions to do honour to the Holy Father on the approaching day of his jubilee, the foolish ' liberals' of Austria, bad citizans as well as doubtful Christians, are distinguishing themselves in another way. The children in the schools of Vienna were preparing an address to be presented to Pius IX. The ridiculous burgomaster of this Catholic city, a certain Dr Felder, immediately seizes his pen, and composes a circular to all the Viennese school teachers, in which he orders that the signatures of the children may no ed camp near Neisse, capable of protecting sible motive save a menace to Rome, being in the longer he solicited 'because they have not sufficient most unbealthy part of the Maremma, at a very short [intelligence to perform such an act.' A decree at distance from Montalto Mazzini has divided Italy or co so stupid and so tyrannical seems to us worthy into four great districts or divisions, each having its of a 'hberal' Catholio if indeed Felder professes to central council and directory for a new republican bea Catholic at all. STATE OF RELIGION IN RUISIA - The Liverpool Mercury gives a very interesting account of some of the strange sects which exist and flaurish in 'Orthodox' :ussia, some of which are alluded to by our St. Petersburg Correspondent. The schismatics number about nine millions, and are divided into two great sections, namely, the Bezpopovisi, who do tot acknowledge a priesthood, and the Popovisi, who have preserved a kind of clerical hierarchy. The Bezpopovtai, are divided into at least thirty-seven distinct sects, of which it will be sufficient for our purpose to enumerate a few principle ones Among them are the Kapitones, so called after the monk Kapiton, who live only on bread, fruit, vegetables, and wild berries, and are renowned throughout Russia for the austerity of their lives and the severity of their voluntary privations. Next come the Siberian Bezpopovtei, who maintain that Antichrist has already come and reigns over the Russian Church. They believe that though. Antichrist reigns on earth, Jesus Obrist will soon come again; indeed, the precise day of his second arpearing has been several times announced by their preachers, whereupon the members of the sect dig out graves in the easth and lie in them, swaiting the blast of the last trumpet, and though con tinually deceived, are continually credulous They do not refuse to pray for the Sovereign as Oz ir but reject the title of Imperator, which they say is an attribute of Antichrist. The Philipovisi take their name from Philip, a fanatical monk, who, with thirty-eight of his adherents, burnt himself alive in presence of the imperial commissioners sent to cine . visit and report upon the sect. They pretend that Antichrist is in parnate in the person of the Emperors of Russis, and, therefore, obedience to the secular power is clearly the mark of the besst To escape perdition one must resist the Church, the Czir, and all authority emanating from him. As this opposition cannot be carried on openly, the only course that remains to the faithful is to roam about in the lonely depths of the forests and deserts. The Strapnoprimtsi (hospitable) are a kind of complement of the above sect. Their duty is to receive the wanderers, hids them from the police, shelter and feed them, for which purpose every cottage is provided with a secret undertween France and Italy, but it is admitted that very ground chamber, discoverable only to the initiated. so that the homeless pilgrim may enter, rest, and depart unobserved even by the owner. Then there CIVIL OEDER IN THE KINGDOM OF ITALY .- From the | are the Iskateli Christa, or Chris'-seekers who wander late financial account of military expenses from the ceaselessly about the inhospitable deserts of Siberia In a recent impression of the Dublin Daily 1st of January, 1867, to the 30th of April, 1868, it in hopes of meeting Obrist, who, they say, has already reappeared upon earth; the Stranglers, why, believing that the doors of beaven are only opened to such as die a violent death, consider it their gounden duty to despatch their ailing friends, and occrsionally perform the same tender office on such as enjoy perfect health. The Flagellants- calling themselves the community of the people of God-were founded by one Daniel Philippovitich, who gave out that he was God the Father. troms, in the presence of a great number of witnesses. The son, however, returned to earth, and was tortured in the haymarket at Moscow, by order of Prince Odolefsky, and then crucified against the Kremlin wall, hard by the Spass Vorots, or Holy Gate. But he rose again from the tomb, was crucified a second time, and the body flayed. One of his followers threw a white cloth over the bloody corpse, which changed into skin, and Ivan Timofeltch came to life agsin, and was pardoned by the Czarevna. The absurd doctrines of the Flagellants have gained great notoriety. Napoleonites date from 1820, and believe that Napoleon was an incarnation of Ohrist. He is not, therefore, dead, but to be found somewhere in the neighborhood of Irkutsk, whence he will come in tis own good time to conquer the world, just as the Skoptei look for the second coming of Peter III .-The Malakhani, or milkeaters, have no temples nor prophets, and get their name from employing milk In ther food on those days when its usage is forbid. den in the Orthodox Church.

GREECH AND TURKEY.

THE SCHISMATIC GEREK CHURCH .-- The peculiar prominence just now given to all matters affecting the Greek Church does not result in any increase of honour or respect for that communion. The Atheuaum of Saturday last, while reviewing a recent volume of travels, finds occasion to remark that ' the Greek Church has certainly failed as a moral teacher in every population with which it has come in contact, and may perhaps be esteemed one of the corrupting influences of the Eastern world. The Roman Catholic Church has a decided claim to superiority in moral teaching.' This reminds us strongly of the testimony of Dr. Littledale, quoted a short time ago in our columns, that ' the conduct of the Greek clergy and physicians,' on the occasion of a visitation of cholers at Constantinople, 'was in shameful and cowardly contrast to that of their Latin brethren; and that ' there is no doubt in the world that the Na tional Church here is asleep, and lethargically so ; and further, that simony ' is a canker pervading the whole body, from the Patriarch on the ccumenical throne to the humblest reader in a rural parish.'

In compliance with a request of the House of Rea presentatives, the Secretary of State has furnished a list of the vessels coptured or destroyed by rebel craisers during the late war. The list is compiled from documents fyled by owners, underwriters and masters of vessels which have been destroyed, in support of their claims for indemnity.

It is said that Secretary Borie has written to prominent members of the Naval Committees of the Senate and House, recommending that authority be given him to transfer gradually the business of the Navy-Yard at Philadelphia to the Navy-Yard at League Island, with a view to the ultimate abandonment of the Yard at the former place. This he argues, will be a saving to the Government.

With unshaken faith believe that the Lord thy God's solicitude for thee is greater than thy own. Wherefore, unhesitatingly, and unreservedly confide thy interests to His providence, and into the abyse of His wiedom, throw all thy misgivings, doubts, and cares.

THE MOCKING BIRD -Mr. Gosse, in his history of the Birds of Jamaica gives an amusing account of the mocking bird. The bogs it seems are the creatures which give this bird the most annoyance They are ordinarily fed upon the inferior oranges, the fruit being shaked down to them in the evening. Hence they acquire the habit of resorting to the orange tree to wait for a lucky-wind fall. The mocking bird, feeling nettled at the intrusion, flies, down, and begins to peck at the hog with all its migh. Piggy, not understanding the matter, but pleased with the thing, gently lies down and turns up his broadside to enjoy it. The poor bird gets into an agony of distress, pecks and pecks again but increases the enjoyment of the intruder, and is at last compelled to give up in despair.

A DOWN TOWN MERCHANT,

Having passed sleepless nights, disturbed by the agonies and cries of a suffering child, and becoming convinced that Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup was just the thing needed, procured a supply for the child. On reaching home, and acquainting his wife with what he had done, she refused to have it administered to the child, as she was strongly in favor of Homespathy. That night the child passed in enf. fering, and the parents without sleep. Returning home the day following, the father found the baby still worse ; and while contemplating another sleepless night, the mother stepped from the room to attend to some domestic duties, and left the father with the child During her absence he administered a portion of the Southing Syrup to the baby, and said nothing That night all hands slept well, and the little fellow awoke in the morning bright and happy. The mother was delighted with the sudden and wonderfal change, and although at first offended at the deception practised upon ter, has continued to use the Syrup, and suffering, crying babies and restless nights have disappeared.
