

civil feuds at the siege of Malaga, 230. General sally of the, 233. Termination of their empire in the Peninsula, 264. Their destiny, 265. Talavera's mild policy for the conversion of, 395. Books of the, burnt, 398. Revolt in the Albaycin, 399. Conversion of, at Granada, 402. Called Moriscos, 402. Rising of the, in the Alpujarras, 403. Their punishment, 405. Measures for introducing Christianity among them, 405, 415. Transported to the Barbary coast, 410. Edict against those in Castile, 412. Termination of their history during the reign of Ferdinand and Isabella, 416. Prohibited from going to the New World, 430. Expedition against, in Africa, under Ximenes, 572. Their loss at Oran, 575. See Granada. Moral energy, remarks on, 393. Moratin, his "Orígenes del Teatro Español," 328, note. His dramatic criticism, 328, note. Moriscos, the Moors so called, 402. Gonsalvo's kindness to them, 570. Moya, marchioness of. See Bobadilla. Muñoz, Juan Bautista, notice of him and his writings, 439, note.

N.

Naharro, Bartholomeo Torres de, notice of him, 324. His comedies, 324. Nájara, duke of, dissatisfied with the queen's settlement of the regency, 528. Surrenders, 567. Arrives at Pampelona with reinforcements, 596. Names, Arabian mode of selecting, 195, note. Naples, origin of the French claim to, 336, note. Dissatisfactions respecting the crown of, 339. Threatened by Louis XII., 442. Partition of, between France and Spain, 442, 443, 446. Ground of Ferdinand's claim to, 444. Astonishment of Italy at the partition of, 447. French forces there, 455. Submission of, to the Spanish, 473. Princes of, 473, note. Gonsalvo's triumphant entry into, 473. Reduction of the fortresses of, 474. Enthusiasm for Gonsalvo at, 502, 503. Extortions of the Spanish troops there, 503. Treaty respecting, 533. Enthusiastic reception of Ferdinand at, 555. Dissatisfactions there, 557. Ferdinand's acts there, 560. Gonsalvo leaves, 562. The pope grants the investiture of, to Ferdinand, 587. Government of, 647. Regard there for Ferdinand, 648. See Charles VIII., and Garigliano. Navagiero, Andrea, his account of the revenues of the nobles in Castile, 632, note. Cited respecting chivalry in the war of Granada, 657. Notice of him and his works, 657, note. Navarre, in the middle of the fifteenth century, 1. Title of Carlos to, 59. Factions of the Beaumonts and Agramonts, 59. Defeat of Carlos, 60. Influence of Louis XI. in the councils of; crown of, devolves on Francis Phœbus, 196. Marriage of Catharine of, 222. Sovereigns of, 592. Ferdinand's distrust of, 593. Negotiations of, with France, 593. Ferdinand demands a passage through, for his army, 594, 600. Embarrassing situation of the princes of, 594. Allied to France, 594. Invaded by the duke of Alva, 594. Abandoned by John, 594. Conquered, 595. United with Castile, 598, 647. Examination of Ferdinand's conduct respecting the treatment of, 598. Excommunication of the sovereigns of, by Julius II., 598. Imprudence of, in not granting Ferdinand's request, 600; authorizes war, 600. Gross abuse of the victory over, 600. Authorities respecting, 601, note. French defeated by a force sent there by Ximenes, 612. Navarrete, Martin Fernandez de, his researches in the public archives of Spain, 278, note, 438, note. Navarro, Pedro, his celebrity, 445. Defends Canosa, 457. His services at Naples, 474. Joins Gonsalvo, 489. Commander of the expedition against Oran, 572, 573. Sends for the cardinal to take possession of Oran, 575. His opposition to Ximenes, 575. His African conquests, 577. His fate, 578, note. His conduct at the battle of Ravenna, 589. Navigation, historical remarks respecting, 267. Negroes, slavery of the, sanctioned, 433. See Indians. Nemours, duke of, supersedes D'Aubigny, 455. Invests Barleta, 456. Defies the Spaniards, 460. Discomfited, 461. His expedition to Castellana, 461. Fights the Spanish at Cerignola, 470. His forces, 470. His death, 471. Rout of the French, 471, 472. His burial, 472. See Foix. New World, historians of the, 438, note. Inquisition extended to the, 621. Nobles of Castile, privileges and immunities of the, 14. Their jealousy of Alvaro de Luna, 48. Their league against Henry IV. of Castile, 77. Oppose the Santa Hermandad, 123. Plans for reducing, 130. Policy of the sovereigns towards the, 213. Magnificence of the, 215. Their gallantry, 215. The queen's care for the education of the, 302. Their scholarship, 304. Accomplished women, 304. Dissatisfied with the queen's settlement of the regency, 528. Their disgust with Ferdinand's severity in the case of the marquis of Priego, 568. Their feelings at the death of Ferdinand, 611. Ximenes replies to, 620. Depression of by Ferdinand and Isabella, at their accession, 630. Their great power, 631. Their immense revenues, 632, note. Northmen, remarks on the discoveries by the, 271, note, 276, note. Norton, Andrews, his "Evidences of the Genuineness of the Gospels," commended, 583, note. Novara, battle of, 591. Noyon, treaty of, 623. Nuñez, employed on the compilation of the Complutensian Polyglot, 582, note.