Capt. Bartlett, Safe in Alaska Whaler, Goes to Rescue of Others.

Canadian Press Despatch. NEW YORK, May 29.—The Karluk, which carried the Stefansson expedition to the Arctic, was crushed in the ice last January, according to a message received here today from St. Michaels, Alaska. The crew is marooned on Wrangel Island.

The message announcing the fate of the Karluk read as follows:

"Karluk crushed in ice January, 60 miles off Herald Island. Bartlett arrived here tonight. Whaler Herman of Siberia, assistance for crew Wranof Siberia, assistance for crew Wrangel Island."

This somewhat cryptic message was addressed to Herbert Bridgman of Brooklyn, long interested in Arctic exploration work. The Bartlett referred to is Captain Robert Bartlett who captained Perry's ship Roosevelt, and later assumed command of the Karluk.

MAN - EATING FISH OF THE

We caught many fish. They belonged to one of the most formidable genera of fish in the world, the piranha or cannibal fish, the fish that eats men when it can get the chance. Farther north there are species of small piranha that go in schools. At this point on the Paraguay the piranha do not seem to go in regular schools, but they swarm in all the waters and attain a length of 18 inches or over. They are the most ferocious fish in the world. Even the most formidable fish, the sharks or the barracudas, usually attack things smaller than themselves. But the piranhas habitually attack things much larger than selves. But the piranhas habitually attack things much larger than themselves. They will snap a finger off a hand incautiously trailed in the water; they mutilate swimmers—in every river town in Paraguay there are men who have been thus mutilated; they will rend and devour alive any wounded man or beast; for blood in the water excites them to madness.

They will tear wounded wild fowl to pieces; and bite off the tails of They will tear wounded wild fowl to pieces; and bite off the tails of big fish as they grow exhausted when fighting after being hooked. Miller, before I reached Asuncion, had been badly bitten by one. Those that we caught sometimes bit thru the hooks, or the double strands of copper wire that served as leaders, and got away. Those that we hauled on deck lived for many minutes. Most predatory fish are long and slim, like the alligator and pickerel. But the piranha is a short, deep-bodied fish, with a blunt face and a heavily undershot or projecting lower jaw, which gapes widely. The razor-edged teeth are wedge shaped like a shark's, and the jaw muscles possess great power. The rabid, furious snaps drive the teeth thru flesh and bone. The head, with its short muzzle, staring malignant eyes, and gaping, cruelly armed jaws, is the embodiment of evil ferocity; and the actions of the fish exactly match its looks. I never witnessed an exhibition of such impotent, savage fury as was shown by the piranhas as they flapped on deck. When fresh from the water and thrown on the boards, they uttered an extraordinary squealing sound. As they flapped about they bit with vicious eagerness at whatever presented itself.—Theodore Roosevelt, in Scribner's Magazine.

produced in commercial quantities for some time to come, the ultimate success of the explorations are almost assured. Cost of production in the present experimental stages must necessarily be high, owing chiefly to the peculiar geological formation of the district, and the unusual depths at which oil has been struck.

Oil From Dakota Sands.
The oil is sald to flow from the Dakota sands which lie at a depth of 2,300 to 2,500 feet, and before these are reached, soft sand is encountered, making it necessary to pack the casings. In some of the wells 2-inch pipes are said to have been sunk and a steady flow of oil is maintained. Reports from good authorities state that more than 100 drilling plants are now in operatica. Should only one in ten of these give gasoline, the oil fields of Alberta will be unparrelleled within the British Empire as a wealth producer, and the rapid development of the province and the prosperity of the whole of western Canada will be certain and immediate. "Wild Catters," apparently a corrollary of all mining booms and discoveries, are said to be operating in plenty. Numerous companies with fabulous capitalization are being formed daily. To Prosecute Unscrupulous.

While many of the companies, especially those formed during the earlier stages of the boom, will give the investors a square deal, others are purely legalized conspiracies against the savings of the people. An oil exchange has been formed, and a government investory has been against the savings of the people. the savings of the people. An oil exchange has been formed, and a government inspector has been sent frem Edmonton to Calgary with a view to prosecuting unscrupulous promoters and checking reckless and loosely organized companies.

The press of the district has issued warnings to the public, pointing out that many prospectuses of newly formed companies have no further guarantee of security than the pames of prominent citizens and politicians. Visitors to the district declare that oil is there, the quality and quantity are the only questions now to be answered.
