which had been prepared in advance to facilitate the passing over the network of trenches. The order has been given not to stop in any trench, but to pass over and take the enemy in the rear.

"Three lines of trenches were thus cleared of the Germans. Those who sought refuge in the underground shelters perished from suffocation, thru the collapse of the entire earth-works."

"Desperate Counter Attacks." Towards 3 o'clock on April 5, the enemy attempted to counter-attack, supported by a heavy artillery fire. Our attack was renewed the following day and developed into a furious hand to hand struggle with grenades and bayonets in the narrow lines of trenches. The enemy offered such resistance that the order was given to evacuate part of the ground that had been gained. This was then broken back. The enemy was obliged to retreat. We then held the main line trenches of the Allied wood.

"The enemy's losses were heavy. We counted two hundred dead on the evening of the fifth, and on the evening of the sixth we found the dead piled in three rows."

"Eight Onsets Repulsed." During the seventh, eighth and ninth we repulsed eight counter-attacks. The trench, but was unable to hold it. Of our few hacked trenches, and not a single trench was left standing. The trench was up by explosives. In the trench of limbs lay mingled, the bodies of the enemy and the Allied.

"At 5:30 o'clock on April 8, an invasion was begun. In ninety minutes this corner of the woods, over 20,000 yards from 350 to 400 yards deep, 20,000 shells were fired; they included all calibre, from four to eight inch. The enemy was driven back, and when the firing ceased many men were found dead. They had to be removed and buried several days for recovery."

"Again on April 10, and on April 13, our attacks were repulsed, resulting in the gain of the balance of the position in the Allied woods. Six German companies besides the garrison in the trenches, were annihilated in these engagements."

"DEFEATED A GERMAN." James Goldberg, Agnes street, was arrested by Detective Maurer last evening charged with defrauding Car Ludwig, 125 Simcoe street, out of $1300. The police say Goldberg represented to Ludwig that he could invest money for him in a good interest, and Goldberg turned over to him several sums of a few hundred dollars.
