

progress in human rights and the development of civil society. All CIDA projects are designed and monitored to maximize the involvement of women. In April 1996 CIDA launched a women's development project to support organizations working with women and entails human rights activities, family planning, education, and economic development.