"AS A MAN SOWS."

BY HELEN WALLACE
Author of "THE GREATEST OF THESE," "THEIR HEARTS' DESIRE, ETC."

"Isabel, darling, don't you know me—your mother?"
"Isabel, darling, don't you know me—your mother?"

ed to the young man with swimming eyes and outstretched hands, and for a while there was silence, for a mighty gladness, like a great grief, makes for itself a deeper, wider channel than our poor speech can ever afford.

"No, nothing," said Sir David, hastily, in a thick, hoarse voice, putting his hand between the leaves and snapping the clasp again. "I'll keep it meantime, it may help to throw some light by and by; but though your idea is the prettier Marian, I am afraid it is more likely that this has been lost or forgotten long ago."

CHAPTER V.
Mr. Evelyn Ashe.
"See the 'Romance in High Life,' as the last papers call it, is all over, all save the last chapter and the traditional wedding-bells. I suppose we can call it 'All Well That Ends Well,' or, would it be more honored variant, 'Much Ado About Nothing,' he more suitable?"
