

CANADIAN STYLE MAY BE ADOPTED

Montreal Designer's "Sweep
Pleat" Coat Impressed U.
S. Clothiers.

New York, Jan. 28.—Are Canadian costumes going to capture the leadership of the American continent? That is the question which is occupying the attention of the New York clothing men who who attended the recent convention of the International Association of Clothing Designers.

The cause of all the excitement is the "sweep pleat" coat. It is declared to be something which has made the New York designers, accustomed to turning out the sartorial novelties demanded by the Broadwayites, sit up and take notice. They fear for their laurels, for the "sweep pleat" style was introduced to the designers at the convention by a Canadian, Ralph Grossman of Montreal, and it seems bound to appeal to the taste of gay New York. Here is how one New York paper describes this innovation in masculine attire:

"The 'sweep pleat' is a sport coat basically, but it is more than that, much more, and then some, consisting of the pleats under the arm, which allow a luxuriously easy swing of the arm to the golfer, the cop, or the rider. The pleats, moreover, look like an accordion of such modest dimensions, and for so brief a flashing moment as the arm is swung, that they may, with artistic accuracy, be called 'invisible.' It is these arm-pit insertions which name the novel coat the 'sweep pleat.'"

The introduction of this garment at the designers' convention by Mr. Grossman occasioned the only excitement of the meeting. "A hint as deep as the sweep pleat's arm-pits was put in the convention audience by the Canadian brother's invention," one account declares. "The sweep pleat was done by a dozen volunteer living 'forms' and the air of the Blue Room of the McAlpna Hotel was punctuated with picturesque gestures symbolizing golf, the police force in action, and Tod Sloan at the Derby. So great was the demand for tests of the sweep pleat that the audience had to be called to order and finally quiet was restored."

There are no radical or startling cuts or colors in the styles for the coming season as displayed at the convention. The colors are almost uniformly subdued, varying only from greyish greens to browns that are dull if not dark, with a predominance of soft, unpatterned greys. There are no plaids or checks customarily qualified with an adjective implying sound instead of size, and there are few innovations of the line differing noticeably from those of last year and of this.

The tendency to "form-fitting" lines is emphasized rather than diminished, implying that the one time "box-cut" is

BOYS' LEADER CHECKS LOSSES

Taylor Statten Gives Information at Meeting in Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—That the appointment of a boys' work leader had reduced losses in membership from four-fifths of their teen age boys to less than one-fifth was the statement of Taylor Statten, Toronto, National Boys' Secretary of the Religious Educational Council of Canada, in addressing the executive of that body of this province here yesterday afternoon. There were, he added, only two provinces which had not yet made such appointments, Quebec and British Columbia. The latter province had invited him to address them on the subject. Mr. Statten said that while there had been only thirty boys' organizations in Alberta prior to October, 1920, there were, since the appointment of a field secretary, 229 organizations.
