IN CAMP.

Proceedings at Bayswater on Saturday and Sunday.

Camp Aberdeen a Thing of the Past—Sports of the Grammar School Cadets.

It was Saturday morning at Camp Bayswater. No sound broke the stillness save the sweet song of a bird as the first soft ray of sunlight fell upon the white tents.

But the cadets were early awake this morning. It is to be the most important day in the whole fourteen they are to be under canvas.

A number of persons from the city came up on the 9 and 11 o'clock boats and remained in camp all day.

They could hardly have been finer than they have been only two little showers since the tents were pitched.

Every person, big and little, has enjoyed the best of health. The last few days have sufficed to brown some of them quite badly, but they do not mind that.

There is not a boy in camp who cannot sit up and "talk shop" like a veteran.

A stranger not having more than a superficial knowledge of military terms could hardly enjoy a visit to Camp Bayswater.

The senior officers, every one of them, have worked faithfully and well to make the camp a success, and to them especially is credit due.

Mr. McClean and the other teachers in the Grammar school take a deep interest in their boys at all times.

They were always in favor of a camp, and worked hard to secure it.

This year as well as last year these gentlemen did all they could to make it as profitable as possible for the boys.

To Dr. Hetherington, who organized the Grammar school cadets, too much praise cannot be given.

He has been at Bayswater as often as the boys' duties would allow.

The boys would have been delighted had it been possible for the doctor to remain with them.

But of course this was quite out of the question.

Not only the boys but also the parents of the boys, they must remember that the twelve or fourteen days spent by their sons under such influence could not be otherwise than productive of great good.

The officers and cadets wish through the Sun to thank the residents of Bayswater for their many acts of kindness.

Every one who has been willing and even anxious to render the boys any assistance possible.

They also wish to thank Capt. White and the other officers on the steamer Maggie Miller.

The captain has made special trips from Millville to camp, to accommodate persons going to the camp.

Some of the things that a man in such a position could do for those in camp at Bayswater and their friends.

Camp Aberdeen broke up on Saturday morning.

Shortly before ten o'clock the ropes of each tent were loosened and a boy was placed in charge of the tent poles.

When all was ready the commandant gave a signal, the cannon was fired and at the same moment every tent in the field same moment every tent in the field same moment every tent in the field.

So well was this done that a witness said it really looked as if the gun had knocked the tents down.

Fifteen minutes after the gun was fired every tent was folded and the bags, before leaving the grounds, Commandant Sturdee drew the battalion up in quarter column and addressed them briefly.

He wished, he said, to express his cordial satisfaction with the conduct of the brigade during the stay in camp.

Their behavior had been excellent in every way.

He was pleased to see them so readily adapt themselves to camp discipline.

The speaker said he also wished to thank the officers and non-commissioned officers for the assistance they had given him in carrying out the discipline of the camp.

In conclusion, the commandant again expressed himself as very much pleased with the willing way in which all had formed their duties.

The commandant afterward thanked the officers individually.

The Clifton called for them at one o'clock.

All the baggage was on the shore and at two o'clock the boats got it and themselves on board.

At 1.30 o'clock Camp Aberdeen was a thing of the past.

The steamer reached Indiantown shortly after two o'clock.

The boys formed once more into a column and marched to King street east, where they dispersed.

NUTRITION AND THE NERVES.

Nervous exhaustion results especially from defective assimilation of food.

Anything that affects the general nutrition of the body will injuriously affect the nervous system.

So long as the digestive organs are not in a healthy condition the process of building up the tissues and removing from the system the waste tissues cannot go on as it should to ensure health.

Whoever, therefore, is suffering from nervous debility must first attend to the matter of his diet.

The great merit of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic is that it brings this important change, and restores healthy action to the digestive organs.

It cleanses, stimulates and strengthens its effect upon the nervous system is very marked.

The person taking a course of this remedy according to directions and with a due regard to regular habits will find that his appetite, food will be digested without distress, restful sleep will be enjoyed, the nerves invigorated, and health fully restored.

These are not idle words. The happy experience of thousands of people has proved the truth of these statements.

Be advised, therefore, and if your system is out of order secure a supply of Hawker's nerve and stomach tonic. It is sold by all druggists and dealers at 50 cts. per bottle or six bottles for $2.50, and is manufactured by the Hawker Medicine Co. (Ltd.), St. John, N. B., and New York City.

ARCH-FIEND HOLMES.

Chicago, July 21.—A local paper says: To the long list of murders and other crimes directly traced to the arch-fiend, H. H. Holmes, must now be added the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. I. L. Connor and her 12-year-old daughter, with a reasonable certainty that they may have been disposed of in the same manner in which the rest of his victims met their death.

Mrs. Connor and her child were last seen in the company of Holmes in this city in 1893. Since then all trace of them has been lost, and the shrewdest of detectives, who, at the instigation of the woman's family, have been working on the case, are now of the opinion that the finding of their bodies is the only possible solution of the mystery.

There are circumstances which, while at first seemingly susceptible of explanation, now point in the direction of another double murder.

today was outside of Sandy Hook, where the final contest with the Valkyrie will take place. The prize was a $200 silver cup. It was the Defender's first race and the opportunity to witness the new boat drew a large crowd.

The Defender won with ease. The breeze, light at first, gradually increased towards the finish was blowing about fourteen knots an hour.

New York, July 21.—When the Vigilant met the Defender over a triangular course of thirty miles, outside of Sandy Hook, tomorrow, she will carry a larger club topsail than that under which she appeared in.

She will also have a bigger jib-topsail, and it is fair to presume that the sail area, added by these changes, will assist her in sending the popular yacht through the water faster than she went yesterday.

Believers in her ability to beat the new boat, in light weather, are, however, few in number, even though she carry additional canvas.

Yachtsmen are hoping that tomorrow's event will take place in a stiff breeze, if not a blow, for nobody knows definitely what the Defender can do.

It is believed that she can at least equal Valkyrie III, which boat was plainly built for light weather.

Mr. Willard and Captain Hoff have no way of facing a hard wind, but the public wants to know with hoarsest eagerness the result of an all-round bout.

It is to be expected that she is all right for in the breeze that prevailed the Defender stood up straighter than the Vigilant.

Mr. Willard, who has charge of the Vigilant, was willing to admit today that his boat was outlasted yesterday.

But he holds the opinion that he can still give the new boat a closer race. All the sailors who have hitherto been insistent that the centre board model was superior to the keel are very modest in their assertions today.

They point to the fact that never before was a centre board beaten by a keel, and declare that there must be a further test before they will confess defeat.

They have dropped their former opinion, though, and are only preparing a gentle shaft for themselves to the theory that the in-keel or "compromise," as they call it, is the proper thing, after all.

Hundreds of people journeyed from the city to New Rochelle today to have a view of the Defender.

The new boat has done little or nothing toward changing her effectiveness, and will probably race tomorrow with the same sails she wore yesterday.

However, she will don a new set that will give her a man her already enormous display. Mr. Willard is perfectly satisfied with the boat.

THE TERRORS OF DYSPEPSIA.

A Disease that Makes the Life of Its Victims Almost Unbearable.

A sufferer for years tells how she obtained Relief—A Bright Ray of Hope for Those Similarly Affected.

(From the Bowmanville Review.)

The editor of the News, in company with Mr. Jury, of the well known firm of Stott & Jury, visited the home of Samuel Wood, in the township of Darlington, for the purpose of ascertaining the particulars of his case.

Mr. Wood, who is a well known and remarkable cures happily brought about by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

It was Mrs. Wood who had been thus released from suffering, and when the newspaper man made known his mission, she said: "Yes, I can give you a bright testimony in favor of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for I believe that if they did not save my life, they at all events released me from an awful misery."

Some three years ago dyspepsia came upon me in a severe form. I doctored with one of the local doctors for more than a year, but all the time was growing steadily worse.

The medicine I took did not do a bit of good, but my condition was worse than useless, for it did me no good. Then my husband thought, as I was growing worse, it would be better to try something else, as they felt that unless a change soon came, I should have to give up.

They were doing so, and I wrote no more, but they were doing so, and I wrote no more, but they were doing so, and I wrote no more.
