In Connection With the Trial of Durant for Murder.

The Y. M. C. A. Secretary Fined for Interfering With a Juror.

Unre le bility of the Roll Call Book-Lady Re porter Refuses to Answer a Question

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 1.—After gathering up a few ragged ends of the testimony left over from last week the defense in the Durant case this morning began the building of an alibi for the young medical student from April 4th up to April 12th, inclusive. purpose of the alibi is to impeach the testimony of Pawnbroker Oppenheim and W. J. Phillips, who testified that on April 12th Durant tried to pawn Blanche Lamont's ring at Oppenheim's store. During the course of the testi-mony, which covered Durant's movenents on April 4th and 5th, a struggle was precipitated by District Attorney Barnes, who again challenged the re-liability of a roll call book at the

Cooper college. The argument resulted in a victory for the defense, so far as the question before the court was concerned. The trial began this morning with a sensation which was quite as unexpected to the prosecution as to the defense. Juror I. J. Truman informed the court that last Thursday during the noon recess he was approached by P. J. McCoy, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, who endeavored to d. sation on the subject of the trial. "If you do not hang Durant." said

On cross-examination he said that he had no personal knowledge of Durant's absence or presence. The defence sought to offset this by asking if he could give the names of any of the fifty-one students in the class who attended the lecture on the morning in question. The doctor recalled the mes of a dozen students. Before the court adjourned, Attorthe court to a large number of threatening letters that were being received by himself and Attorney Duprey, and asked that the jurors be instructed to turn such letters over to the court, should they receive any. San Francisco, Oct. 3.—The trial of Theodore Durant was replete sensations today. Henry J. McCoy, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, who was cited for contempt last Monday for telling Juror Truman that if he did not hang Durant the people would hang him, was fined $250 with the alternative of five days in the county jail. During the cross-examination of a witness summoned by the defense, the prosecution developed the fact that a did not attend the lectures delivered Cheney on the afternoon of the greatest importance to the prose-cution, from the fact that it shows the on his person when he was locked up.

The last sensation of the day was an order made by the court committing Miss Carrie Cunningham, a newspaper reporter, to the county jail for refusing to answer a question. The defense desired to impeach the testimony of Mrs. Leske, who said she did not tell Miss Cunningham that she saw Durant and Miss Lamont enter Emanuel church on the afternoon of April 3. Miss Cunningham testified that Mrs. Leske did not tell her what she had seen, but when asked to reveal the source of her information, the witness declined to Each witness gave a negative answer. With bers of the class have been asked this question. One of the students has died since April 3, and the prosecu tion has been unable to obtain the atendance of the other five in court. The prosecution limited the cross-examination in each case to asking if the witness saw Durant at the lecture Not a student was found who remembered having seen the defendant. F. S. Field, of a wholesale jewelry firm, was called to testify with regard to the quality of the ring worn by Blanche Lamont, which is said to have been presented at Pawnbroker Oppenheim's shop. He said the ring was of common kind, but when asked by the prosecution to compare it with a similar ring introduced by the defence, an objection was sustained.

The defence endeavored to show F. A. Ross, a student at Cooper's Medical school, that on the afternoon that Blanche Lamont was murdered he and Durant took a walk from the college to the vicinity of Golden Gate. Ros remembered that he and Durant had taken such a walk, but said he could not fix the date.

How grand is the stuff of which such a character is made. And it all emanated from the fact that the love of Christ constrained him.

Christ's death is the picture of love immeasurable. This is ideal Christianity, that every Christian be as single-minded as Paul. How soon then would the world be converted? The forces working for the renova tion of society are those which have een set in operation by the power of divine love. It stems the tide of corruption. It radiates from the cross. Charlottetown, Oct. 3.-The synod of the Presbyterian church of maritime provinces opened its session this morning with devotional exercises by the moderator, Rev. J. McGregor McKav.

Special prayer was made on behalf of Rev. D. J. McDonnell, Toronto, who is very ill.

Dr. Morrison presented a report on the Hunter church building fund.
Dr. Morrison reported as visitor to the Ladies' college, Halifax. N.S. This college has been doing a great work. Mr. Laing made a statement of the attendance and work of the institution. This year is one of the best the college has had. The revenue exceeded the expenditure last year by about $47. If all that has been subscribed were paid the colleges would be in pretty easy circumstances financially. Rev. A. Rogers presented the report fund. Whereas at the end of the last year there was $400 balance on hand, about $1.400.

at the end of this year there is a deficit of $300. The fund is in debt now After a good discussion the committee was asked to meet and con-sider what ways and means may be devised to pay off this debt, and if possible increase the endowment. An overture was read from the presbytery of Miramichi, in which it asked the synod to transmit to the assembly, praying the assembly to recall the legislation of this year, debarring any minister who does not contribute to the fund, from getting any benefit from it, and also the regulation compelling ministers to join the fund at ordination, and again recognize the benevolent element, as originally embodied in the scheme. This overture was supported at considerable length by Rev. Mr. McKay of Chatham, N.B. The afternoon session of the mari-

The evening session opened with prayer by Rev. E. Smith.

Rev. A. Falconer presented his annual statement of Foreign Mission affairs. He confined his remarks to the New Hebrides and Trinidad missions. He reported large prosperity during the year. He concluded a most interest-ing and lucid statement of the condiof the maritime provinces was held tion of the missionary operations in last night in St. James' church. Rev. Mr. Dustan seconded the res lutions in a brief and very earnest speech. He said there were three stages in missionary interest: (1) Indifference, (2) intelligent interest, (3) Scriptural enthusiasm. He with some telling statistics.

He brought the audience to a high pitch of interest and enthusiasm by telling of the good work done by our heroic pioneers. Mr. Cropper, a native of St. Lucia, addressed the meeting next. He bore eloquent testimony to the work of our missionaries in Trinidad. Six thousand emigrants every year are coming to the islands and the church must meet and win them. He appealed to the courage of his hearers in prosecuting the work begun. The British lion never relinquishes what he places his paw upon, neither should British Christians draw back in the presence of duty or dan ger. The Dalhousie college report was presented by Dr. Sedgwick. He referred approvingly to the splendid work being done by the recently appointed professors, Dr. Gordon and Mr. Falconer. The past year was by far the most successful in the history of the college. Resolutions were moved by Rev. W. P. Archibald congratu lating the synod on the thorough equipment of our Theological hall, and urging the synod to respond liberally to her demands. These resolutions were seconded by Rev. J. S. Sutherland in an eloquent and animated speech.

D. McDonald, Pictou, made a happy and pointed speech on the financial aspect of the college question.

> Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 3.-Harry Wright, chief of the umpires of the National league and American association of base ball clubs, and ex-manager of the Philadelphia National league club, died at 12.45 this afternoon at the Sanitarium, of catarrhal pneumonia, aged 60 years. Mr. Wright was taken ill in Philadelphia about ten days ago and thought the trip to the seashore would be beneficial. He grew worse, and an operation was deemed advisable by his physicians. He rallied for a time, then sank rapidly until death came this afternoon.

Harry Wright was the most widely known and perhaps the best posted base ball man of the times. He was born in England in 1825, but came to this country with his parents a yea later. His athletic career began as a cricketer when but sixteen years of age. He commenced to play base ball in 1857, when he was centre fielder for the famous Knickerbockers of New York. In 1866 he went to Cincinnati Cincinnati Red Stockings. It was while a member of this club that Harry Wright, in a game at Newport, Ky., June 22, 1867, made seven home runs, the record to this day. In 1871 he was engaged to play centre field and captain the Boston club. After the National league was organized Harry's Boston team won the championship of that organization during the seasons of 1877 and 1878. He remained with the Boston club until the end of the season of 1881. YARMOUTH CONVENTION NOTES. The meeting for Sunday afternoon was of unusual interest. Mrs. Dearborn of St. John had it in charge. It was announced as a mass meeting of Sunday schools, but it was really general mass meeting of old and young. young people took the pledge.

The following is an extract from Mrs. Archibald's annual address sent from Tunbridge Wells: I attended the Annapolis prohibition convention last fall as your representative. LEAVING OLD ENGLAND.

The Touching Scene Witnessed on the Departure of Troops. "When I read in my paper that a detachment of troops leaves England for some distant land, I hardly give the matter a second thought; but whenever I read such a paragraph again it will always bring to my mind a vivid picture of the sight I witnessed the other day at Aldershot.'

These were the words of a civilian who had been to Aldershot quite re-cently, and had witnessed the departure of a detachment of troops band played such tunes as Auld Lang Syne and The Girl I Left Behind Me as they marched along, and there was an air of forced cheerfulness about the troops, which, however, ill-concealed their feelings of sadness on leaving old England and those they loved. "Outside the railway station the officer in command called out-you could almost see the thick lump in his throat -"Ten minutes for freedom, boys!"

This was the signal for them all to fall out and kiss their mothers, sisters and sweethearts, whom they would not see for years, perhaps never again.

"There was plenty of hugging and was a touching sight; and although I had no friend or relative among the soldiers, I could not behold it unmov-ed, or fail to be struck with the pathos

'At a Detroit theatre where Nellie Ganthony was giving her Trilby monologue, she stepped to the front of the stage and shaking her fist at the gallery said: "What are you laughting at? Now these are 'Trilby's own words addressed to the crowd at the London concert after Svengali's death, but the gallery gods didn't know Trilby from the Goddess of Liberty, and took her remarks as a personal affront; There was much indignation until after the show, when one of the boys got a copy of 'Trilby' and explained the matter to the gods, when he finally convinced that Miss
