All the parishes in Kingston deanery were well represented, some 15 dergymen and 150 singers being present. Har-rison's orchestra rendered valuable as-sistance, and the music was beautiful and impressive. The first lesson was read by Rev. H. H. Gillis of Chipman, and the second by Rev. W. Armstrong of Petitcodiac, Revs. M. C. P. Scofield and E. B. Hooper assisting. The sermon, preached by the Very Rev. Dean Partridge, text being taken from 2nd Chronicles, 5th chap., 13th verse, was considered the ablest ever delivered here. During his discourse he spoke very feelingly of the late Mrs. L. J. Almon, who had been a very active member of the union, and also of the late Rev. Chas. Medley. Rev. Dean Partridge spent the night with the Rev. S. Neales and left this morning for his home. The ladies of the parish entertained the visitors at dinner and tea in the mission room adjoining the rectory. Too much praise cannot be said for Rev. Scovil Neales and the tion ago, and their lofty rooms were intended for balls and routs and oldfashioned, open-handed hospitality. They were not erected to return a revenue from catering to the needs of poarders and lodgers. In single apartments in them you may almost get the effect of magnificent distances. The very bedrooms intimate to you that they had been banquet halls. In the dim light of a London afternoon their corners are so remote that they are fairly obscured-the family ghost might materialize from any one of them after you have retired at night. Their cellings are so lofty as almost to disappear from view when King Fog makes a descent upon the city. The four poster bedstead itself is fairly brobdingnagian. It is a companion piece to the grandfather's clock in the vast. draughty corridor. It is too big to be called a bed, from the New York view-point. Rather one would dub it a British institution. In such a bed one can be very lonesome; on feels as insignificant as Tiny Tim. And, withal, its immensities are so puffy and swollen that a nap is a complete eclipse; it withdraws one as ab solutely from events as if Merlin's 'charm of woven paces and of waving hands" had been worked upon him. The other furniture is in proportion. Nothing is undersized except the fireplace, where the cupful of coal winks

This tolerant bigness and genial irraionality of arrangements are alike haracteristic of London, and they inrest the choice of lodgings with the very fascination of the city itself-the scene of variety embalmed in a respect for yesterday that stays the hand of nnovation. To every single option in lodgings in New York one has, seem ingly, a handful in London.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31 .- The expected has happened in connection with the recent St. James division election for the house of commons. This morning Rodolphe Hetu, deputy returning officer in poll No. 37, and J. M. N. Desy, Brunet's representative, were arrested at the instance of Hon. J. G. H. Bergeron, charged with conspiracy to commit illegal acts. The evidence is expected to be sensational. The prosecution will attempt to prove that Bergeron's representative in the poll was bribed to close his eyes, and that Desey and Hetu deposited a large number of ballots marked for Brunet in the box, and that moveover, not content with this, a number of ballots marked for Bergeron were removed and destroyed and replaced by others marked for Brunet. As the result the poll showed ninety votes for Brunet and four for Bergeron, whereas Bergeron should have had a majority of eight. It is expected further arrests will be made.

HAROLD WILLIAMS A SUCCESS. Harold Williams, son of Prof. C. H. Williams, the well known master musician of this city, is getting along famously in United States stageland circles. He left here with the Country Merchant Co. last spring, and was with that organization but a short time before he was engaged by the famous San Francisco Minstrels, where he is playing a string bass in the orchestra and a tuba in "brassing up." His services are greatly prized, as he is a thorough musician. A week or so ago the St. John young man was appointed transportation manager and stage director. His last letter is dated from Cleveland, Ohio.

mining the percentage of assistance payable by the government to the Collingwood Dry Dock Company for the construction of new dry docks, in ac-. 21 cordance with the terms of the parliamentary appropriation, was signed The Collingwood dry dock is to be one of the largest and most important on the great lakes, and will accommodate steamers of the heaviest tonnage ever yet floated, on either the Canadian or American side. It will be 530 feet in ength by 78 feet in width, and will be completed by the spring of 1903. To accommodate steamers of the largest class using this dry dock, Mr. Tarte has had redging works carried out, which when completed will have converted an almost useless harbor, so far as modern transportation requirements are concerned, into one of uniform depth of over 20 feet of water, clear in ** 2 25 all parts. It has already been dredged over a considerable area to that depth. The Collingwood Shipbuilding Company will launch one of the finest passenger . 0 00 and freight steamers on the lakes next spring for the Northwest Transportation Company. She will be of 3,200 tons cargo capacity. In April the great 7,000-ton' freighter for Mr. Clergue of the Soo will also be launched.
