American Woman Was Murdered on Shores of Italian Lake

Mrs. Porter Charlton Victim of Mysterious Homicide Near Beautiful Lake Como.

A Year Ago She Herself Attempted Murder by Shooting at W. B. Craig in New York.

New York, N. Y., June 14.—Mrs. Charlton is the woman who was shot at William B. Craig, a lawyer of this city, in Peacock Alley, of the Waldorf, on August 3 last year.

Emil E. Fuchs, a lawyer of No. 329 Broadway, who represented her after she shot Craig, said last evening that the last he had heard from her was a few weeks ago, when she called him up on the telephone and informed him that she was going abroad for two or three years and wanted to bid him goodby.

"In February of this year," he said, "she obtained a divorce from her husband, Neville H. Castle, who is now District Attorney of Nome, Alaska, during which action I was her lawyer. The following month, March, she was married to Porter Charlton, the son of a Washington judge."

Mrs. Charlton's maiden name was Mary Crittenden Scott. She was the daughter of H. H. Scott, of San Francisco. There in 1897, she married Neville H. Castle, a lawyer. After her marriage she went on the stage, appearing in this city in "The Princess and the Butterfly."

The bullet which she fired at Craig struck a fountain pet, and although he fell from the force of the blow, he was little hurt. The shooting caused much excitement about the hotel. Before the shooting she had pleaded with Craig for a minute's conversation, and when he refused she drew a small revolver from a handbag and, without any warning, fired. She declared when arrested that a great wrong had been done her by Craig. At the police station Craig said the woman had become infatuated with him and had followed him here from the Pacific Coast.

Charge Not Pressed. She was held in $3,000 bail, which was furnished by her brother, Captain Henry Harrison Scott, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Morgan, Alabama, who came to this city. Craig failed to press the charge before the grand jury, and on September 15 she was discharged. The complaint was then dismissed.

The next heard of from Mrs. Castle after the divorce action was the announcement of her marriage to Carlton on April 10. They were married in Philadelphia on March 12.

MRS. PORTER CHARLTON

Mrs. Charlton's body was found in a trunk floating on the waters of an Italian lake near Como. She had been beaten to unconsciousness, thrust into the trunk and thrown into the lake to drown.

Mrs. Charlton was the wife of a son of Judge Charlton, of Washington, D. C. She was formerly Mrs. Mary Scott Castle, the divorced wife of a wealthy Californian. Before she married Castle she was an actress.

Dr. A. W. Herzog, of No. 123 West 83rd street, was much surprised when informed by a Tribune reporter of the death of Mrs. Charlton. He said that in 1908 she was a patient at his sanatorium. She acted irrationally, he said, and constantly talked of a man who repudiated all her advances. He declared that she was a woman anxious for notoriety, and could scarcely believe that she had met with such a death. He said he had not seen her since before the shooting and that he did not know Carlton.

The body of Estelle Reid was found on the beach near Naples, Italy, on April 24 of this year. The body was scantily clad, showed signs of violence and had evidently been in the water about three days. The Naples police held the theory that she had been kidnapped on board a yacht, robbed, murdered and thrown overboard. Caspar S. Crowninshield, American Consul at Naples, after investigating scouted this theory, and reported it as his belief that the young woman had been drowned, either accidentally or with suicidal intent.

Miss Reid was a sister of Mrs. Bertha Reid Wells of No. 406 Riverside Drive, this city, and of Mrs. John Blair of Chicago, and a cousin of Princess Rospiigliosi, who was herself a Miss Reid of New Orleans. The dead girl had a considerable fortune, and spent her time travelling and studying art. For some time before her death she had been staying at the Hotel Castello, in Naples. The body was brought to this city early last month.

don the following year. She was leading dancer in the ballets of "Cinderella," "The Debutante" and "The Soul Kiss" in 1908 in Philadelphia, and appeared in the city for the first time on Jan. 29, 1908. She returned the following year, and her fiance visited her here.

Wilmington, Curacoa, June 14.—The government steamer Vanhuit, with the exception of four sailors, and one passenger, were drowned. The lost include the governor of Buena Ayre. The Vanhuit was bound for this port from Buena Ayre, a Dutch West Indian island on the Venezuelan coast, thirty miles east of the island of Curacoa. She struck during the thick weather of Sunday, News of the disaster was brought by the five survivors. The Vanhuit was a small craft engaged in the inter-island traffic of the Dutch Antilles. Her passengers were residents of the islands.

FASHION SHOW AT HENKEL'S

Annual Auction Sale of Finery Seized by U. S. Customs Officers Was Productive of Much Merriment.

New York, June 14.—When Marshal Henkel and Charles Shengood, auctioneer, had knocked down the final lot year when Uncle Sam created the United States government at the Custom House, at Bowling Green, yesterday, the English dictionary limped to a back seat and collapsed.

It was a great sale. The contents of three trunks, held out for evidence last year when Uncle Sam created such a furor with his sales of smuggled gowns and his efforts to punish the smugglers, were disposed of. Everything was lovely but the feet of the two discontented young Custom House men who held the gowns up against themselves for exhibition. A pair of No. 12 men's shoes, with a big hole cut out of one to accommodate a bunion, do not look exactly right peeping from beneath a rosepink muslin gown.

The highest price paid for any one lot yesterday was $147. An embroidered princess gown, with coat of gray work, brought this from a man in the front row. Another man created a rumpus by bidding on everything in sight and failing to produce the money when things were knocked down to him. He appealed to the marshal, and the latter could offer nothing better than a diamond ring for a deposit.

"Diamonds nothing," bellowed Marshal Henkel. "We ain't taking jewels. Any man that hasn't money to back his bids had better get out. This is a suffrage sale, this is, and the ladies are going to have a fair show." Later when the men bid again and again showed empty pockets, the women took a hand in denouncing him.

"Put him out!" she adjured the marshal, and when his money finally arrived and he carried off a sweet gown that several women wanted they hated him worse than ever.

It was the general opinion of the women who filled the room and of the few men sprinkled in that there were few bargains going. The auctioneer didn't agree with them. His grief when a lavender batiste princess, which the marshal described as "a peach, a darling, something exquisite, that will make Newport envy the wearer, a creation worth $400" went for $40 was pathetic. But the women bid slowly and seemed to feel that they could have done as well on 23rd St. Oddly enough, it was over things of lease value they waxed most excited. A damaged crepon waist, with a large hole under one arm, raised such a racket of protest when it was knocked down to a woman for $1—eleven other women claiming it for the same price—that it sounded like a rehearsal of "Chatterbox."

Very few things except gowns and waists were sold. The only jewelry consisted of what Mr. Shengood nonchalantly described as "two short shimmies." The amount realized by the sale was $1951. The professional dressmakers turned out in force, and consequently the private bidders, though they outnumbered the others, generally came off second best in the contests over desirable lots.

EXPULSION OF JEWS DEFENDED

Premier Stolypin of Russia Declares That the Activities of the Administration Have Been Exaggerated.

St. Petersburg, June 14.—The Russia prints today an official statement by Premier Stolypin in his capacity as minister of the interior regarding the Jewish expulsions and in which the premier minimizes the extent of the government's campaign.

According to the minister, the Hebrews in Kiev who were subjected to expulsion number 146. The government is disposed to relax the rigor of the law so far as it is practical in Kiev, and other places, particularly to the advantage of Jews who were well established in business. This policy has been carried out in the Caucasus. The statement sets forth that the minister of the interior has sent instructions to the provincial authorities to permit Hebrews to reside at summer resorts and in their villas in suburban village localities, where, through a strict interpretation of the intent of the law, they would not be entitled to residence. The statement deals at length with the expulsion of school children from Moscow and explains that professional women enjoying a right of residence outside the pale, may not confer the same privilege upon their children.

He has never been carried into execution. He recently competed in the intercollegiate games at Philadelphia. He is a son of Seward A. Simons, of Pasadena, Cal., and before entering Harvard attended the exclusive school for boys conducted by S. C. Clark, of that city.

QUEEN GIVES GENEVE GIFT

Alexandra Presents Little Dancer With Diamond Brooch on Her Marriage to Frank Isitt—The Bride's Gowns.

London, June 14.—An event in which two continents, England and America, took a deep interest occurred this afternoon when Mlle. Adeline Geneve, the charming and gifted dancer, was married at All Saints' church, Margaret street, to Frank S. W. Isitt, secretary of the land company in which the Duke of Newcastle is the principal stockholder.

Queen Alexandra, who has taken a great interest in the career of the bride, whose native country is Denmark, sent her as a wedding present and mark of appreciation of her art, which she made so attractive, a diamond brooch. A number of well-known persons were present at the wedding, including the Duke and Duchess of Newcastle, Lord and Lady Ross, Lady Colin Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Irving.

On account of national mourning the reception that the Duchess of Newcastle would have held at Hyde-park Hotel was cancelled. The honeymoon will be spent on the Continent. The bride's travelling dress was a pleated skirt of sole made with a white satin adorned with gray embroideries and a tucked nixon bodice with insertion of Irish lace. A Russian coat of gray cape meter was worn with this skirt, and a black ermine hat trimmed with white flowers. Among many valuable presents was one from the members of Geneve's American theatrical company, who sent silver-bon-bon dishes and a silver casket. Geneve will certainly appear in America next season.

STUDENT CLIPS GIRL'S BRAID

Seward Simons Tells Police He Had Uncontrollable Desire to Annex Lillian's Golden Locks.

MISS LILLIAN SANTANGELO AND SEWARD C. SIMONS.

Boston, June 14.—A long braid of silken hair hanging down a girl's back is irresistible to Seward S. Simons, a Harvard student. When he sees the glimmering locks trailing from a girl's head he is possessed with an uncontrollable desire to cut off that braid and carry it away with him. That is what he told the police when they arrested him for clipping the beautiful hair that was once the pride and glory of Miss Lillian Santangelo, a sixteen year old Somerville girl, who was at the time watching the athletic games in which Simons and other Harvard men were competing. Simons also has a fondness for cutting off whiskers, too, he told the police, but this inclination, he added

DUNDONIAN ASHORE OFF VIRGINIA COAST British Steamer With Full Cargo of Iron is Stranded South of Cape Henry. Crew Safe.

Norfolk, Va., June 14.—The British steamer Dundonian, from Cuba to Baltimore, with a full cargo of iron ore, stranded on the Virginia coast last night, two and a half miles south of Cape Henry, during a dense fog. Wrecking tugs are alongside. Her position today is well toward shore, but it is thought that with the assistance now at hand the vessel can be floated. It may be necessary to discharge her cargo before she can be moved into deeper water. The Dundonian's crew remains aboard though Cape Henry's life savers as well as the Virginia pilot boat Relief have offered to take them off. The Dundonian is a large British tramp that has been trading for some time between American and West Indian ports. She has frequently carried coal from Norfolk to Panama for the canal construction work
