

I left for the west.
I am so sorry I did not have an opportunity of thanking you in person, both for the letter as well as for the copy of the splendid address you gave at the Military Institute in Toronto on April 3rd 1940.

It is now little more than two months since you gave that address.
What you then foretold is today happening, at least in part, with the grave possibility of events moving swiftly to the final climax.

Canada though stands
- or perhaps one might say
"sit" - still in very much the same position as on April 3rd 1940.

We have no leadership and any move at present is only the result of pressure of public opinion.

Had this country listened to your warnings & advice of the past year, Canada today might have been in

MEIGHEN PAPERS, Series 5 (M.G. 26, I, Volume 156)

PUBLIC ARCHIVES
ARCHIVES PUBLIQUES
CANADA