

Act confer upon this College teaching powers as follows:—

"There shall be in the said College such professors, lecturers and teachers, and there shall be taught in the said College such sciences, arts and branches of knowledge as the Council shall by their Statutes in that behalf from time to time determine . . . provided always that there shall be no professor or teacher of Divinity of the said College."

Section 34 declares that "No religious test or profession of religious faith shall be required of any professor, lecturer, teacher, student, officer or servant of the said College." No changes were made in these Sections 32 and 34 by the revision in the Consolidated Statutes of Upper Canada (1859) or by the revision of 1877. No change was made with respect to the powers of the University of Toronto by the Consolidated Statutes or by the revision of 1877.

11. In 1887, by Chapter 43 of the Statutes of that year, an important change was made with respect to the powers of the University of Toronto. The preamble to that Act recites "that it is desirable that the Universities and Colleges of the Province of Ontario should be permitted to enter into such relations with the University of Toronto as would enable them to avail themselves of the instruction given by the faculty of the said University." The Act makes provisions for the federation of other Universities with the University of Toronto and for the federation or affiliation of other colleges therewith. Section 68 continues University College, and Section 77 enacts as follows:—

"There shall be established in the said University College a teaching faculty consisting of a professor, lecturer, and fellow, in each of the following subjects, viz.: Greek, Latin, French, German and English, and a professor and lecturer in Oriental Languages and a professor of Moral Philosophy, and Ancient History shall be taught in connection with the classes of Greek and Latin, and a teaching faculty may be established in such other subjects (except Divinity) not mentioned in Section 5 of this Act, as by regulation made in that behalf may be determined, subject to the approval of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council."

This Act is divided into various headings. Section 77 appears under the heading "University College," as distinct from the sections relating to the University of Toronto. The next group of sections is headed "Provisions Applicable to University of Toronto and University College." The first of this group is Section 81, repeating with the necessary extension to the University the enactment of 1853 that no religious test or profession of religious faith shall be required, etc.

Section 5, Sub-section (1) is as follows:—

"(1) There shall be established in the University of Toronto a teaching faculty in the following subjects, viz.: Pure Mathematics, Physics, Astronomy, Geology, Mineralogy, Chemistry (Pure and Applied), Zoology, Botany, Physiology, History,
