BY

W. J. WHITE, M.A., B.C.L.

BARRISTER, MONTREAL BAR.

(In Press)

The present book is intended to be uniform in character with Abbott's Railway Law, and Holt's Insurance Law of Canada. It will cover the whole field of Canadian Company Law, under the Dominion Acts as well as under all of the Provincial Acts. The aim has been to provide a practical treatise on the incorporation, organization, operation and winding up of joint stock companies in Canada. The rights and liabilities of promoters shareholders, directors and creditors are fully discussed. All the Canadian Jurisprudence is noted, and the leading cases in England and the United States compared, and where necessary distinguished.

The publisher feels that there is great need for such a book at the present moment, when an unprecedented impetus has been given to the creation of joint stock companies by the successful enlistment of foreign capital in Canadian enterprises.

It will be invaluable to Shareholders and Directors of Companies, as well as of practical service to the legal profession.

The book will contain a complete alphabetical index and table of cases cited.
