Quebec,
21st Novr.,
1833.

G. Joly to Neilson. (In French). Enclosing a letter from Mr. Ternaux of Paris, in which the latter expresses a wish to have certain volumes relating to Canada; and asking that, as far as possible, Mr. Ternaux' wishes may be met.

London,
22nd Novr.,
1833.

D. B. Viger to Neilson. (In French). Acknowledges letter of 10th October. Has had a couple of interviews with Mr. Stanley and left a memorandum with him, but is doubtful whether Mr. Stanley will find the opportunity to read the memorandum. As regards the Legislative Council, he formerly opposed those who desired to change the mode of nomination, but he is convinced now that a change is necessary, as the Council as composed is utterly out of touch with the desires and interests of the country. He used to believe that it was only in Canada, an isolated country, where enlightenment has not made as much progress as in Europe, that it was possible to mislead public men so far. In England, enlightened men are not free from that danger. It is not from lack of talent, but they so often want the time. They are in a whirlwind of affairs, in which they are dragged about.

27th Novr.,
1833.

Report of a visit to one of the elementary schools in the parish of Beauport.

Quebec,
28th Novr.,
1834.

H. Craig to Neilson. His Excellency has followed Neilson's advice as to the means of obtaining information regarding the distress due to crop failure. Asks Neilson to call and see the papers. No relief has been asked for except in one case specified.

York,
30th Novr.,
1833.

W. L. Mackenzie to Editor of Quebec Gazette. Sending an extract from the Advocate respecting his case. There is to be an election, and he is very confident. Notes comparative absence of comment on his expulsion, attributing this to the Christie affair. Thinks Gazette may be wrong in its views as to one of the parties.
