THE CATHOLIC RECORD.

Ave Maria!
 Ave Maria!
 Hark, the clear upswelling Of my rapt songs of praise,
 From palace, hall, and humble wayside,
 Through all earth's nights and days;
 From palace, hall, and humble wayside dwelling Thy name is heard always.

Ave Maria!
 Given to us as a Mother On Calvary's rugged Mount, By Him who thus stooped to become our Brother
 And paid our dread account;
 To thee we turn our hope, O Blessed Mother,
 To open Mercy's fount.

Ave Maria!
 Hearken to our pleading;
 Smile on us as we pray;
 For the sweet sake of Him who, scourged and bleeding, Trod for that cruel way, Keep us! Oh, keep us! thro' thy dear Son's "Passion"
 In life's last awful day.

ARCELLA A. FITZGERALD,
 Mossy Woodland, May 24th, 1879.

A SUPERFLUOUS BREAK OF NATURE.—A mule colt in Sedalia, Mo., has five legs.
 We regard this freak of nature as entirely superfluous.
ARE YOU A BUILDING AIR CASTER? In Spain, Mr. Jones said a landlady to a boarder, who was thoughtfully regarding his coffee-cup? "No, madame, only looking over my grounds in Java," replied Jones.

"HARDLY EVER" TEMPERANCE SOCIETY.
 A "Hardly Ever" temperance society has been formed down East. When a member is asked if he drinks, he says, "Hardly ever, but if I do it is about this time of day."—Old City Derrick.
A CHAMBER FELLOW.—A young Roxbury lady was asking her new-married friend how she liked her husband. "Oh," replied the bride, "he is a charming fellow, and talks like a book." "Like a book, Well, let me have volume second when you find it."—Boston Herald.
HOW SMITH RAISED CAIN.—John Smith and Tom Cain, two Kentucky men, sat down to have a little game of draw-poker.
 Everything passed off smoothly, until Smith raised Cain, and won his opponent's money. Then the pots were drawn, and the usual Kentucky bar-room jubilee followed.

AN EMBRIO STATESMAN.—"And how does Charlie like going to school?" kindly inquired a good man of the little six-year-old boy, who was waiting with a tin can in hand, the advent of another dog. "Like goin' will 'nough," replied the embryo statesman, indignantly, "but I don't like stayin' after I get there."

THE EPIGRAMMATIC.—The Norfolk Herald says this is the time of year when the angler calls at the newspaper office and informs the editor that he caught in the Schuykill a catfish weighing eight pounds between the eyes, and measuring twenty-seven inches in weight, and the editor looks incredulous, and mentally observes, "That's a whopper," because the fish doesn't accompany the angler.

THE PRANK.—The editor of the boys' paper, the Panopt (4 inches by 5), will be an ornament to the journalistic profession if he keeps on. Last week he wrote to the proprietor of Young Men's Gardens for a pass, and received in reply a written permission to go outside and see the ballroom go up. This morning's issue of the Panopt reports as follows:—"We noticed Mr. Woodward sunning himself on Kearny street yesterday. We suppose they are cleaning his cage."

A SHARP HIT.—It was the wife of the recently-deceased Baron Rothschild, a woman of keen natural sense and mother-wit who, at the time of the wild excitement which raged in England over the elevation of Cardinal Wiseman, to the sur-cardinal of Rome, and the re-establishment of the Catholic hierarchy in England, made a reply which has gone the rounds of her world, to a bitter speech of one of her neighbors, Mrs. Spencer Walpole. Cardinal Wiseman happened to be at lunch at Baron Lionel's house, at Gunpowder square, when Mrs. Walpole called to come into the Baroness in stating that no one would luncheon-room save the family—and the Cardinal, Mrs. Walpole drew back in a kind of horror, and said, "I am sorry, but really I make it a principle never writing-and bread with a Romanish priest." "I beg your pardon," replied the Baroness, "I never meant of annoying you. You know I am not a Christian, and I cannot be expected, therefore, to enter into those feelings!"

"Mrs."
 A woman who opened a small millinery store in the western part of Detroit engaged a painter to paint her a sign. When it came home the other day she saw that it read, "Mrs. J. Blank," etc., and she called out:
 "You have got an extra 's' in Mrs., and you must paint the sign over again." The painter saw the error, but he didn't want the job of correcting it, and he replied:
 "Madame, haven't you had two husbands?"
 "Yes, sir."
 "You were a Mrs. when you lost the first?"
 "I was."
 "And do you think a woman can go on marrying forever and not lengthen out her title? Mrs. means a married woman or a widow. Mrs. means a woman who has been married, and is young enough to marry again; and only yesterday a rich old coon was in our shop, and said if he had any idea that you were heart-free, he'd come up—"
 "Oh, well, you can nail up the sign," she interrupted; and it is there to-day.

CONVERTS AND THEIR DIFFICULTIES.
 The vast majority of Catholics, who inherit their Faith, like their names, from their forefathers, have but a faint and remote idea of the difficulties, the hardships, the stumbling blocks that present themselves, in formidable array to the convert to our Faith, on the very threshold of the Church, and upon his first entrance into it.
 The prospect of a change of faith, to a Protestant, is rarely an inviting one, financially or socially speaking. Happily in this great country, men's minds seem to expand, until they spread themselves metaphorically speaking, over the length and breadth of our territory, and it is neither rhodomontade nor bombast, to say that bigotry and narrow-mindedness, are at least abated and softened by the influence of freedom being breathed into men's nostrils, that there is here "a fellow feeling which makes us wondrous kind." There still remains, however, a little leaven, which if allowed to increase, would speedily leaven the whole lump. A convert even in the States must be prepared to meet many rocks ahead.

Perhaps the class of converts which suffers most, financially, is that formed by the clergy of other denominations; for instance, a Methodist, Presbyterian, Episcopalian, or Unitarian minister, who becomes a Catholic, places himself in a most perilous position, and, if he is unprepared, he is un-armed, and has a vocation to the ecclesiastical state, he may possibly become a priest, but this would entail his unlearning his previous theological knowledge and studying afresh the great Doctors of the Church. For those who are debauched by lack of the necessary vocation, or by other causes, from entering the priesthood, it becomes necessary, if they have not sufficient private means, to select some business or profession, in lieu of that which their change of faith compels them to abandon. Even those who fortunately possess property must be prepared to face the adverse criticism of their former friends. We cannot ignore the fact, that beneath the treacherous and seemingly peaceful neutrality of prejudice and rooted bigotry against our Holy Faith. The conversion of any well known or distinguished member of a community stirs the stagnant waters of the vast lake of public opinion, and these unwholesome elements move upwards instantly. The spirit of inquiry is stimulated, causes are sought out, motives assigned, reasons attributed for the act, than which nothing was further from the convert's mind. As a natural consequence of all this, the convert to the Catholic Church is, in the majority of instances, thoroughly singular, and therefore a gain in every sense to the Church; for he comes to us tried in the crucible and having passed through the fires of affliction. He has to bear the cold contempt and sarcastic ridicule of the sceptic, as well as the fanatical dislike of the Protestant.

We know of families divided, of parents estranged from their children, of brothers and sisters ignoring each other, and all because some member has felt the attraction of the Catholic Church, and these elements move upwards instantly. The spirit of inquiry is stimulated, causes are sought out, motives assigned, reasons attributed for the act, than
 which nothing was further from the convert's mind. As a natural consequence of
 singular, and therefore a gain in every sense
 the fires of affliction. He has to bear the
 the Protestant.

Every one who has felt the attraction of our Holy Faith, and who has been converted, knows the difficulties which attend the change of faith, and the sacrifices which must be made. It is not a matter of choice, but of necessity. The convert must be prepared to face the adverse criticism of his former friends, and the cold contempt and sarcastic ridicule of the sceptic, as well as the fanatical dislike of the Protestant.
