THE OLD BOYS' REUNION.

What about the Old Boys' Reunion? Come, good people of Chatham, wake np and get a gait on you. Don't by "foolin' the boys" all this Liberal allow this best of all celebrations to escape you. It is the very best advertisement the Maple City could have. It will put everyone in excellent spirits. It will leave lots of money here-money well spent.

All of us will regret it if the Reunion falls through. It will be Chat-

And the biggest, grandest and most successful show Chatham ever saw will result.

WILL IT BE MR. PARDO?

The West Kent Liberal convention next Wednesday is called for the primary object of selecting a candi- a united front these fellows present! date for the ensuing election.

Several names have been discussed. Pardo and the chances are that the machine will get its way. However, it is said that vigorous opposition has developed against his candidature.

The Banner, local organ of the Liberal machine, took the public into its confidence, it will be remembered, a short time ago, when it informed them of the "regrettable circumstance" that considerable feeling existed against Mr. Pardo in one section of the constituency. This feeling, we are informed, has not abated and the opposition to Mr. Pardo as a candidate is very pronounced.

By those who desire Mr. Pardo to vacate N. H. Stevens is spoken of as his successor. Mr. Stevens' exceptional strength and popularity both in the city and county is the reason advanced for this choice.

The machine, however, will doubtless be oiled and shaped to preserve at least a harmonious appearance in the

in the pound. 3. Tax sight bills, dividend warrants and checks after July 1 a penny to two-pence,

4. Put an import duty of threepence per hundredweight on all grains.

5. Enforce a co-relative duty of fivepence per hundredweight on flour

When the Spectator has advocated a preferential treatment in the British market of Canadian products, it has been met with the oracular assertion of the Hamilton Times and the Tor- Emulsion, and you will get onto Globe, and Grit journals generally, that, while such preferential treatment would be a great thing for cough medicine will give you Canada, it was utterly impossible for the reason that John Bull would the reason that John Bull would healing effect upon the throat never, never, never consent to put a tax on foodstuffs, and would never, and bronchial tubes. never, never consent to anything in the shape of protection. ers of British opinion were very much wrong. It turns out that John Bull is not the free trade fool he was represented to be.

Of course nothing has yet been done towards the preferential treatment of Canadian products; but the way has been opened by Hicks-Beach; the great bugaboo has been slain, and the rest of it will be easy enough, provided that Sir Wilfrid Laurier has the sense to be equal to the occasion.

In the budget, as outlined above, brendstuffs are to be taxed, and the difference between threepence per hundred weight in grains and fivepence per hundred weight on flour and meal gives the proposal a distinctly protectionist complexion.

There will, of course, be a terrible rattling among the dry bones of Cobdenism, and the "tax on bread" bugbear will be worked for all it is worth; but the Hicks-Beach proposal will

And it will then be Canada's opporunity to make endeavor to secure preferential treatment for Canadian grains and flour and meal, and perhaps for other things.

Now, if John Lee had only taken an open, straightforward position from the start, instead of amusing himself racket might have been prevented.

Silk Cotton Tree.

Although the silk cotton tree is a native of South America, there is one specimen of it in Nassau, Bahama islands, that has flourished wonderfully and is one of the greatest curiosities crushing your life out?

The roots seem to be unable to find their way down after the manner of ordinary roots and so swell up like great buttresses radiating round the trunk of the tree, rising from the ground to a height of from six to twelve feet. They reach out to irregular distances, gnarled and twisted in the most curious fashion. They turn and bend and double a point in all sorts of unexpected ways and make dark hollows and ravines, where the darkles believe the elves and gnomes

The great seed pods are filled with a fine, soft fleece of silk, which the natives use for filling their pillows and mattresses. There are several specimens of the tree on the island of New Providence, but this one is monarch of

A Fly That Kills Horses. All white men who visit regions in Africa infested by the tsetse fly have much to say about it. There is now evidence that the tsetse is moving gradually to more northern regions. and the cause is supposed to be that South Africa is depleted of its large game, much of which is moving north ward to get away from hunters, and the tsetse fly is going with it.

The insect is only a little larger than the ordinary house fly, and it resembless the honeybee. Its sting is hardly as annoying as that of the mosquito, but near the base of the proboscis is a little bag which contains its poison. It lives on the blood of animals, and only a few species are fatally affected by its bite. Cattle, horses and dogs, however, cannot live when bitten by the tsetse fly. Natives who herd cattle and travelers who depend on horses and oxen must avoid the fly regions or lose their stock. For human beings its bite has no serious consequences.

To Promote Marriages. It is a superstition in some parts of England that after a young couple have departed for their honeymoon hot water should be poured on the threshold in order that other marriages may follow. With this end in view the bride's girl friends will sometimes drench the doorstep with boiling water from kettles heated for the purpose of keeping the threshold warm, says Home Notes.

In Iceland another plan is in vogue. There the bride, on reaching her husband's house, has to give a dinner cooked with her own hands to show how well she has been instructed in the parental home. If she succeed in pleasing the guests, her skill does not also to that of her whole family, and her sisters, having shared in her educational advantages, are consi likely to make good wives.
