Two influences would be done with all their might. Which means what? The more extreme temperance people may not be satisfied with Mr. Hardy's legislation, but if they trust such assurances as Mr. Whitney gives, they are bound to go further and fare worse.

Toronto News: That there is a widespread disaffection among the Liberal ranks in Ontario over the dominance of Hon. J. Israel Tarte in the Federal Cabinet is evident from the way that gentleman meets the statement of the Liberal quoted by the News on Saturday last. Mr. Tarte's cry is for "union and the conquest in the Liberal ranks."

They try to represent that there is no love lost between Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Tarte. Mr. Tarte's tribute to Sir Richard in La Patrie is one of the most friendly and most grateful kind. "Sir Richard," Mr. Tarte says, "is indispensable in the Government and in the Canadian Parliament. That, in a few words, is what I think of the man whom the Gazette represents as being my adversary in the Council of Ministers. I close this article by saying that I am proud of the friendship of which Sir Richard Cartwright has given me so many proofs since I entered the ranks of the Liberal party. I also wish to add that French-Canadians and Catholics in general have never had a sincerer ally than the veteran to whom Mr. Laurier has entrusted the supreme command during his absence in Europe."

In a Desperate State. The laws of the U. S. Government against foreign labor have been supplemented by state laws, and these again have been reinforced by municipal regulations and disabilities. The State of Pennsylvania, for instance, recently passed a law, which came into force on the first of the month, in virtue of which foreigners are fined 3 cents a day for every day they are engaged in any employment. The council of the city of Niagara Falls, N.Y., threatens to deprive the Gorge Electric Railway of its charter unless within 30 days it dismisses from its service every Canadian therein employed, not alone are the Americans trying to keep foreigners out of their country, but they are trying to provide employment for them in other countries. The sections in the tariff bill relating to the free admission of lumber cut in the Province of New Brunswick, when agreed to by American citizens, were agreed to, with a further proviso that the lumber shall be cut by American labor. The Senate has also restored the clause adopted by the House of Representatives, providing for a discriminatory duty of 10 per cent. ad valorem, in addition to the duties of the act in goods imported in vessels not of the United States, in order to build up the protected American shipping. Fish caught by American citizens on the Canadian side of the great lakes are to be admitted free of duty. Special favors are ostensibly granted to American capital and labor in other ways.

The cause of the extension of the protectionist principle is thus explained by the Toronto World, a high authority in the field. It says: "The secret of the obnoxious alien labor laws which the United States is putting in force against foreign countries, and principally against Canada, lies in the fact that the former country is greatly overpowered in population. The prosperity which it was announced would follow immediately on the election of McKinley has not yet put in an appearance. The percentage of the unemployed is as large as ever, and the discontent that prevails is deep-rooted and widespread. It is not surprising, therefore, that the Americans should exclude foreigners from themselves when employment when they themselves are scrambling for one another for whatever work is going. Our neighbors must feel the existing depression very keenly, else they would not be guilty of such unneighborly conduct as they recently have been guilty of."

Perhaps the World will answer a couple of straight questions. Why does the United States, with her mines of gold and silver, her mountains of copper and iron, her broad acres and navigable rivers, her fields of cotton and her great cattle and sheep ranches, her vast extent of territory and her enterprising people, and herself in such a prolonged and horrible business depression, with no work for millions of her people, with a "deep-rooted and widespread discontent" that exists, and descending to such despicable methods against her neighbors, and yet her interests protected by an average duty, even under the present tariff, of 45 per cent? Why does the United Kingdom, with all her pound of precious metals within her borders, with her congested population and meagre natural resources, exposed to the ravages of nature, and yet her interests protected by an average duty, even under the present tariff, of 45 per cent?

The "American" hog wants a great deal more than he'll get, and he'll get a great deal more than he wants in his labor legislation. He'll not get much at our expense, we're thinking.

Our buyer has been driving some hard bargains for "clearing lines" and you now get the benefit of them. The "Jubilee Sale" idea is carried into July, and we have no doubt but trade will come our way in larger volume than ever. We don't offer you old goods that have "outlived their usefulness. Our stock never was in such shape to pick up "Snaps" and we are taking advantage of them right along. We sell as we buy. "Good goods cheap for cash."

London Advertiser: Two of the ablest of the half-breeds who were guided into the rebellion by Conservative misguidance and neglect in 1885 are Messrs. Nolin and Lejeune. With others they were afterwards granted full amnesty for the late government. Lejeune, being a man of influence and ability, was employed by the Conservative minister of the interior in the land office at Winnipeg. Nolin was elected M.P. for Pointe de Chene, and was made minister of the interior by a Conservative premier in the evolution of events.

The changes that have enabled Hon. Mr. Nolin to effect economies in his department have at the same time displaced certain other Conservative office-holders who happened to participate in the suppression of the rebellion, and a foolish attempt is made to raise an outcry against the late government. The late government, being a man of influence and ability, was employed by the Conservative minister of the interior in the land office at Winnipeg. Nolin was elected M.P. for Pointe de Chene, and was made minister of the interior by a Conservative premier in the evolution of events.

A Widespread

reputation has been won by us every season for anticipating the wants of the "hard-pressed" rider. Our bicycle has kept pace with the improvements of others and is in advance of them in its own special features. An experienced wheelman wants a bicycle that pushes easy, is rigid in all parts, beautiful in finish, has high class material in its make-up, thorough workmanship, etc.

The E. & D. Bicycle

has all these necessary requisites, beside a number of new departures. Its bearings—the four-point kind—are a common sense invention. Study the cut below. See how the load is supported. There is no twist of the ball, no friction is reduced to a minimum and long life is assured. They are dust proof. The felt washer effectually prevents dust getting in or oil getting out. They are guaranteed for three years. Require oiling but once a year.

These Bicycles will please the most fastidious rider. If you are hard-pressed go and see those wheels and you cannot but acknowledge they are all right.
