PRINCIPAL'S ADDRESS.

Prof. Woodbridge Dealt Interestingly With the Problems Facing the Teacher of the Deaf.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentleman,
I have much pleasure in extending to you all a sincere welcome on behalf of the Fredericton Institution for the effucation of the deaf to this the nineteenth annual exhibition of the pupils.
Most of our advanced pupils left us last June to enter on their life avocations, and we have had to take a younger class to supply their places.
These pupils while less experienced have done fairly well, and the results will be shown in their examination.
Neither death nor serious sickness has occurred during the session, and the whole year has been a profitable one to the pupils and a pleasure and satisfaction to the teachers.

In regard to the financial position of the Institution, we have never been overburdened with funds, yet are their fixed to be a supplementation of the provent of the control of the work and probably increased usefulness.

I do not propose to take up much of articulate sound produced by the vocal chords is conveyed from one person to another. Conversation or a rapid interchange of ideas is thus made feasible and becomes one of the highest pleasures given to man. Sermons, lectures and addresses become available. It is by this interchange of thought that all the commercial relations of life are carried on. It renders nations hostile to each other or binds them together in bonds of amity and friendship. The world's progress depends upon it and it constitutes the means by which its civilization is advanced.

progress depends upon it and it constitutes the means by which its civilization is advanced.

In addition to this, the charms of music, whether it be the voices of nature's songsters, the sweet toned Angelus heard from afar, the solemn strains of the Dead March in Saul or the soul stirring choruses of the Messiah, are all his to enjoy who is blessed with the faculty of hearing and are an unknown quantity to him who is born deaf, and never in this life will he realize the enjoyment and come under the privilege of that ennobling and purifying influence which seems to take a hold upon man's better nature and draw him ever heavenward.

He is deaf to the world of sound, his world is that of silence and in this will he remain until "the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped and the tongue of the dumb sing?"

In regard to the financial position of the Institution, we have never been overburdened with funds, yet are thatkful to say that we have hitherto bar enabled to meet all the obligations resting upon it. Increased funds, however, would mean extension of the work and probably increased usefulness.

I do not propose to take up much of the limited time at our disposal to-day by any lengthy address, but with your kind permission will lightly touch upon a few points regarding the dear in order to give you a clearer understanding of the condition in which they are placed by the deprivation of hearing and a few tongue, I was going to say, but while it may be their father's or mother's tongue it certainly is not theirs forthey have none.

Everything depends on their ability to use good and correct English. Our greatest efforts are bent in this direction. All other subjects are considered of minor importance and their standing is judged and tested by their capacity to use written language.

Geography, history and arithmetic are taught and bring before them new forms of words and expressions and are in this way an additional help to their knowledge of English.

It is no doubt a difficult subject for them and the royal road to its attainment has not yet been discovered.

Principal Woodbridge then gave at some length a number of illustrations of the difficulties arising in teaching to the deaf the shades in meaning of words spelled differently and also of words similarly spelled. He appealed to his hearers to persist in the use of only good English, to avoid slang, and to glory in the birthright of the English tongue.

On Magnetic Healing.

Much is spoken and written during these times about this mysterious method of treating disease. The most truly remarkably cases of magnetic healing which have come under the notice of the writer have been those in which Dr. Chase's Ointment was used. This preparation seems to have magical powers in stopping the dreadful itching, burning sensations of Salt Rheum and Eczema, and when used regularly makes the cure thorough and permanent.

Consumption

Is a disease characterized by loss of flesh and tissue, and the presence often of a severe cough. It has been proved to be caused by germs, and it is necessary to destroy or overcome these germs to ensure recovery. Cod Liver oil is recognized as the great food and nourisher in consumption, but must be yet yet miniar to the sign we have today. The Indians use a sign language or intertrial code of signs enabling distinct and different oral languages to carry on a conversation and it is said that this is the nearest approach to a universal language.

As the sign language and the presence often of presented in a form that is easily dispersed and assimilated. PARK'S PERF. PLUISION contains 50 per cent. of pure Cod Liver Oil, together with flousiacol the only recognized germicide of to-day. It also contains Lime and Soda thus supplying artifically, marked by experts, and won't have to be done over after every rain or snow.

The English Language

As the sign language, however, is not in universal use we adopt it as a ready and convenient means of giving our pupils a knowledge of their mother. Consumption
