seating medicines. Zam-Buk is what is needed. It is a skin food as well as a healing halm.

Mrs. Chas. Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says: "My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was so fearful that at one time we feared her ears would be eaten off.

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her in vain, until we had had five doctors. They all agreed it was a frightful case of eczema, but none of them did any permanent good.

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk effected a cure."

Prior to the boils breaking out he had had a bad eruption, but Zam-Buk cleared this away too, and made his skin clear and smooth. It is a wonderful preparation, and mothers throughout the land should always keep it handy."

Amusements

Julian Edwards' best comic opera "The Gay Musician," which last season proved to be one of the most enjoyable attractions of the many seen, is once more a feature of the present theatrical season. Manager Slocum has engaged a prominent cast of has engaged a prominent cast of singers as his principals. He secured the best looking girls in New York and the must skillful dancers for the ballet, as well as gathering a chorus that can really sing. With a new scenic production and a wealth of imported French gowns, "The Gay Musician" will be presented again in this city at the Grand to-morrow and Saturday, seats for which are now on sale.

"THE THIEF."

"THE THIEF."

The famous Bernstein play "The Thief," which Charles Frohman is to present at the Grand next Monday is bound to stimulate public attention. The story deals with a young society woman ardently and deeply in love with her hueband, so passionately in love with her hueband, so passionately in love with him that she dares a great deal to obtain the rich adornments of dress with which to delight his eye for beauty. But touching this deep love at an angle is the budding passion of a youthful acquaintance who misjudges certain of the woman's actions and accepts the same as tacit encouragements on her part, whereas she has been merely using him as a means of altogether another end of her own. The entanglement that ensues gradually and happily unravels with a suspense that is described as intense throughout. Seats will be on sale tomorrow morning.

HOPPER IN "A MATINEE IDOL."

De Wolf Hopper has given up playing comic opera kings, princes and the other fantastic creatures who populate comic operadom. He is appearing this year as a human being or rather as an almost-human being, a broken-down tragedian, who after a long run of hard luck, gets out of a series of dilemmas by pretending to be a physician and a hypnotist. It will be more or less of a great change for the distinguished comedian, but inasmuch as there are a number of catchy songs in the new play, he will still, to a certain extent, be in touch with his old time self. "A Matinee Idol" which is the name of the new song comedy in which he will appear, will come to the Grand next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, and in view of the fact that it is said to be one of the most amusing and interesting parts that Hopper has ever played it will undoubtedly be more or less a dramatic event. He will be supported by an excellent company, including Miss Harriet Burt, Miss Ethel Dovey and George Backus and a large chorus of pretty dancers and singers. The production is said to be exceptionally handsome and very accurate in its pictures of the Norman coast of France where the scenes of the play-are laid. Seats go on sale Saturday.

Said to Have Purchased Interest in Atlantic Shipping

Atlantic Traffic Link?" is the heading in an English financial paper of recent date of a news item of peculiar interest to all Canada. The item discusses with much plausibility the manner in which that great and growing railway com-pany, the Canadian Northern, may be extending its trade interests into the steamship trade as well. It reads:

"Are we on the eve of important developments in the service between this country and Canada? What occasion blass steamers Cairo and Helio built but a short time ago by the Fair built but a short time ago by the Fair-field Company for the service of the Egyptian Royal Steamship Company, to the Northwestern Transport Company, Limited. Despite its somewhat impos-ing title, this is but a small concern, operating a line of steamers between Rot-terdam and New York, calling en route at Halifax, Nova Scotia. It assumes importance on account of the close relaterdam and New York, calling en route at Hahfax, Nova Scotia. It assumes importance on account of the close relationship which had long subsisted between its manager (Mr. William Petersen) and Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann, of the Canadian Northern Railway. Company, who are understood in abipping circles to be at the back of this, as they have been at the back of this, as they have been at the back of this, as they have been at the back of this, as they have been at the back of Mr. Petersen's previous North Atlantic enterprises.

"The Petersen ships are believed to carry'a number of steerage passengers across the Atlantic; but the emigrant trade is not booming and, even if it were, it is not one which would justify the employment of such costly ships as the Cairo and her sister. The sum reported to have been paid for them is £180,000 for the two, and to fit them for the Atlantic trade will entail a fairly large additional outlay. What, then, is the meaning of the deal? Although their speed on the Atlantic will not compare with the 221-2 knots which they did on the Mediterranean, it is quite likely that they will do as well as the present Canadian cracks—say, 18 knots—and therefore, with their magnificent equipment, will be able to make a bid for the cream of the Canadian passenger traffic.

"Those who know Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann are quite alive to the fact that these astute financiers are not of and Mann are quite alive to the fact that these astute financiers are not of that these astute financiers are not of the class to finance any shipping enterprise merely for the beaux yeux of an English ship manager. It has all along been accepted that there was something more in view than appeared on the surface—something in the shape of being ready when the Canadian Northern becomes a completed transcontinental line. That will not be for some time yet. Mr. Mackenzie recently talked of not reaching the Pacific for another half-dozen years or so. Thus the date of his linking up the middle west with the St. Lawrence is not far off, and if he wishes to have a finger in the 'all-red route' game, or even if he desires to secure any part of the ocean traffic, he must lose no time in having under his control the Atlantic steamers that count.

Shipowners are awakening to the bright future of the St. Lawrence reserved. the class to finance any shipping Shipowners are awakening to the bright future of the St. Lawrence passenger trade, and the White Star line have gone into it with the senger trade, and the White Star line have gone into it with the Megantic and the Laurentic; the Canadian Pacific are on the eve of improving their service; the Allans are only waiting to see if they can effect a deal with the Grand Trunk Pacific, on the board of which they are represented, and the smaller fry are improving their fleets. Then, too, the time is drawing nearer for the renewal of the mail contract. It is tolerably certain that this will not be fixed for any lengthened period until the Grand Trunk Pacific is in a position to compete in an 'all-red' able him to obtain what profit arises from booking traffic right through from Europe to the grain growing territory Europe to the grain growing territ which he looks after in the West."

A Social Call.

When Mrs. Readymoney found a card upon her polished floor Which Mrs. Goldenhair had pushed that afternoon beneath the door. She picked it up and read the name, then on her face there crept a grin, and Mrs. Readymoney said: "I'm mighty giad I wasn't in."

Then Mrs. Readymoney went to call on Mrs. Then Mrs. Readymousy went of call of Goldenhairs.

And she, too, left a calling card because she didn't find her there;

She neither sighted nor frowned nor wore a look to indicate chagrin,

She merely told her husband this: "I'm mighty glad she wasn't in."

Next time they met, she said: "My dear," and fumbled with her tortoise comb—
"I was so sorry to have had you call when I was not at home;
"Nor can I tell you my regret," and here she sadly dropped her chin,
"Upon the afternoon I called on you and didn't find you in."

And then both Mrs. Goldenhair and Mrs. Readymoney told
Each other just how sad they were, their grief was more than they could hold:
Then each one parted, each one amiled, and later each was heard to say.
"Thank goodness that is over now, and that's a visit, anyway."
