NAVAL BATTLE WITH HORSES.

How 3000 Cowboys Captured the Spanish Fleet.

Paez, who was the first President of the Republic of Venezuela, was perhaps the only man who ever fought a naval battle on horseback. It is a matter of history that he, to whom more than any other man, apart from Simon Bolivar, Venezuela owes her independence, actually attacked and captured with his cavalry a fleet of ships.

Bolivar was endeavouring to cross the Apure River in the struggle for independence, but was prevented from doing so by some eight Spanish gunboats, which moved up and down the stream as he did. Bolivar was in despair for a while. To Paez, who was second in command, he appealed for counsel, saying that he could never cross the river so long as the Spanish gunboats were there. "If only we could capture them," the revolutionary leader observed, "the rest would be easy."

Paez decided that he would have those ships or die, and he accordingly told his regiment of cowboys to follow him. Paez himself had been a cowboy on the plains of the Orinoco and was the idol of his men. So when he spurred his horse into the stream, calling on his men to follow, of the 3,000 cowboys and their mounts, which are taught to swim as well as to gallop, there was not a single man to hold out in this unique assault upon the gunboats. It being night, the Spanish fleet were taken quite unawares. The cowboys waded from their saddles to the decks of the vessels, letting their mounts swim back to shore. Having thus cut off their own retreat, it was a question of win or die. They fought well, and every gunboat was captured.

THE EDIBLE CRAB

Something of the Curious Life of This Half Fish Half Animal.

The edible crab is obliged to moult or cast off its shell many times during its life. This moulting appears to be an unpleasant ordeal to pass, for the crabs often die during the act. When we see that they are not only obliged to escape from the carapax or shell, but also from the hard covering of their legs, delicate mouth-parts, and even their antennae, turning them inside out, as it were—it is not surprising that they perish during the ordeal. The crab crawls up into some secluded nook or cove in shallow water to moulting, out of the way of its hard-shelled relatives, for the helpless, newly-moulted, or soft-shell crab, if found, is devoured by them, as well as by several species of fishes. Fortunately for the crab, the soft covering he sheds rapidly, and in a few hours it has a new and strong armour, and it then goes fearlessly out into deep water.

Boosting.

Things may be coming your way but be careful that they do not come with such force as to carry you away with them. There are rides and tides. Some are natural, some are supernatural and some are dangerous, because they move with a force which is too strong for our character and will. "Beware of uncontrollable circumstances." This was an expression which first fell from the lips of Wellington. The editor of a periodical remarks:—

"Old salts, who are forever yarning about wrecks and their causes, have a theory that what is called 'boosting' sea accounts for more than one of the disasters that have occurred in the long history of shipping. A 'boosting' sea is a sea that runs heavily after a steamer, and, if it does not actually 'pop' the vessel, yet, by the roll of billow after billow, accelerates its speed to a degree unguessed by the navigator, until finally the ship, having unconsciously over-run its course, springs up upon a rock or hidden reef, and is reported as 'lost'."

A Grand Story.

A Georgia woman who moved to Philadelphia found she could not be contented without the cooed mammy who had been her servant for many years. She went for old mammy, and the servant arrived in due season. It so happened that the Georgia woman had to leave town the very day mammy arrived. Before leaving she had just time to explain to mammy the modern conveniences which her apartment was furnished. The gas stove was the contrivance which interested the colored woman most. After the mistress of the household had lit the ever-ready burner and the other burners and got certain the old servant understood its operations, the mistress hurried for her train. She was absent two weeks and one of her first questions to mammy was how she had worried along.

"De fire's ever," was the reply. "And dat air gas stove—oh my! Why, do you know, Miss F'ceace, dat fire ain't gon' out."

A REVIVAL.

William A. Sunday, quondam professional revivalist, closed the evangelistic season of 1910-11 the other day with $70,507.77 to the good as a result of his year's work "winning souls to Christ."

This return for about ten months' work, more than the president of the United States has drawn for the same time, is evidence that from a monetary standpoint evangelistic work is more profitable than playing professional baseball. The Rev. Mr. Sunday recently refused an offer to go back to the "majors" once more. This inducement was but $500 a month.

Seven thousand a month looks better to Billy. Besides he thinks he can do more good in the world preaching than playing ball.

During the past season Billy Sunday broke all evangelistic records for money earned.

HOCKEY AT CAMPBELLTON

On Wednesday evening, teams representing the I. C. R. and Campbellton Firemen met in combat at the Skating Rink. Several of the players showed decided speed on the ice, but there was a decided want of combination on both sides and the type of hockey displayed was of a poor brand.

The line up of the teams was:—

I. C. R.	Goal	Moore
Mathews	Point	Ryan
Sherley	cover	Sullivan
Lavie	R. Wing	O. Mowat
Mersereau	L. Wing	R. O'Brien
Boudreau	centre	Ferguson
Martin	Rover	Smith
Damboise

The I. C. R's were the visitors, the score being 4 to 1.

Damboise scored 3 times for the I. C. R. and Sherley over, and the scorer for the Firemen was Ferguson.

Referee, Geo. Myles.

Time Keeper, Geo. Wallace, and Chas. Smith.

Goal Judges, Healey Pond, and Alf. Gillies.

THE OPTIMISM OF THE CONSUMPTIVE

Perhaps there is no disease, whilst often fatal in its outcome, is yet viewed with so much optimism by the patients themselves. It is well that it is so, for all know to what extent one's own feelings, whether cheery or the opposite, influence both mental and physical conditions. "I was certainly impressed with this thought," remarked a newspaper reporter, "in interviewing a patient of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. She was a pretty girl of 24, brown hair and dark gray eyes, who had come all the way from Saskatchewan. She said she felt pretty sick when she first arrived at the Hospital, and for two days the nurses had to personally feed her. 'I have been in bed all the time,' she said. 'I have been well cared for while I have been here. I am sure I am going to get well, and feel better now than before I look sick. Everybody seems so happy and bright, and tell me when I get up I am sure to like it. Everything is so pleasant and so nice. I am sure I shall be well and so bright a patient should soon be returned to health.'
