FISTIC CIRCLES BECOME KEEN

Mill Staged for Next Tuesday Night Between Jack Loney and Soldier Alexander Promises to be a Lively Scrap.

Much interest has been stirred up in local fistic circles and in nearby cities and towns over the ten round bout to be staged at the Opera House next Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Great War Veterans between Jack Loney and Soldier Alexander of this city, who will box for the middleweight championship of St. Catharines. According to advices from Welland, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Ont., and Buffalo there will be many fight fans from those cities at the ringside, because they scent a keenly contested engagement with the big gloves.

Bitter Rivalry Exists.

Both Loney and Alexander are now in active training for this important battle. Loney realizes he has got to be at his best to whip the sturdy Canadian soldier who won many important boxing contests overseas. It was only natural that when Alexander returned he should throw down the gauntlet to Loney and challenge his right to claim the boxing middleweight championship of this vicinity. Owing to the bitter rivalry between these two ring gladiators intense interest has been aroused and friends of both men are now wagering on the outcome, with odds practically even. Fans of this city have seen Loney triumph in his winter engagements and they have read with keen satisfaction of the St. Kitts boy's success in Buffalo, Rochester and Erie Pa.

Both Hard Punchers

They appreciate the significant fact however, that Jack is going against the toughest and hardest hitting opponent of his entire career in Alexander. The latter, hardened and toughened by his camp life and military career as strong as an ox and has a knockout punch in either hand. The same may be said of Loney, with reference to his hitting ability, and anybody who has seen Loney in action know he can assimilate punishment as well as hand out an assortment of wallops calculated to stop any recipient. Loney can ill afford to have Alexander triumph over him. It would mean the cancellation of several important engagements already arranged for by his manager, Dan Rogers, for Buffalo and other cities. However, Alexander is keen to demonstrate his fistic superiority over Loney and it is a safe assertion that St. Catharines will see one of the hardest fought contests ever staged within its gates when Loney and the Canadian soldier face each other at the Opera house next Tuesday night. There will be three round bouts to precede the main go, so that it looks like a great night for the fistic fancy of this and surrounding cities.

CONFIDENCE REIGNS SUPREME IN CAMPS OF JACK AND JESS

Both Fighters Certain of Winning According to Their Own Statements; Critics Unable to Get Any Stable Doze.

TOLEDO, O., June 28.—Boxing critics who pick the winner of the big fight July 4th. are risking their reputations. Perhaps never in the history of heavyweight championships has there been a bout in which opinions were so evenly divided.

Many of them have done the well-known flop—not once, but many times since they arrived on the battleground.

They see Willard in a spirited walk-out, sparring partners falling all about him, and say, "Nothing to it but the big boy."

Next day laybe Willard slows up and Dempsey exhibits a burst of speed and throws his fists around the ring viciously. Then they flop to Dempsey.

A few of them stick to their original convictions. Many haven't been able to satisfy their own mind. They want to see more of the big boys before they pick. Critics and fans are doing all the speculating. Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey are not worrying. Never were two ring gladiators more confident of the outcome. "I'm at my best," Willard told me today. "I'm a better boxer; I know more about defense; I'm in better condition."

"But, Jess, no fight is won until it is over," we said. "What if you should lose?" "If I lose to Jack Dempsey I'll wish I never had seen a boxing glove," said the champion as he threw off his expression calmness, "I'm not worrying about this fight; I'll win it easily enough."

In Time Anyhow.
The champion is much bigger than Dempsey but his confidence isn't a bit more voluminous than that permeating the camp of the challenger.

"I'm sure I'll win," Jack repeatedly has told me. "I'm confident the heavyweight championship will come to me on the Fourth." Jack's smile spoke much louder than his words. He's not dreading the fateful day.

There are those undecided yet, or leaning slightly to Willard, who emphatically declares that Jack Dempsey will be the next champion whether he wins July 4th. or not. They figure he's far superior to anyone else outside the champion and that Willard will either be whipped or retire within the next two years.

Jack himself says that even should he be unable to whip Willard now he'll certainly cop it later.

The company had never paid more than ten per cent. dividend because it was not organized for profit, said Mr. Rice-Jones.

Mr. Pringle pointed out they were putting aside a large amount of undistributed earnings. Witness replied they had to borrow money from the bank to handle business and large reserves were necessary to secure this credit. Last year they borrowed six millions and would want seven millions this year. They had a subsidiary company which handled export trade, known as the Grain Growers' Export Co., Ltd., of New York, and the Grain Growers' Export Company of Winnipeg. The United Grain Growers, Limited, were shareholders of this company and had received $55,000 in dividends.

"Under our charter the company has power to hold stock in any other company engaged in the same line of business," witness explained, when questioned on this point.
"They lost $108,000 in the newspaper business during ten or twelve years," he said. The policy of the journal was not controlled by United Grain Growers, explained Mr. Jones.
