GEORGE CANNING died 1827, aged 57. British statesman and brilliant debater. He became Premier four months before his death. He is buried in Westminster Abbey.

HOME RULE rejected by House of Lords, 1883. Twenty years after they have done the very same, but by all the signs of the times they will have but one more opportunity of rejecting the Bill.

Open, candid and generous, his heart was the constant companion of his hand, and his tongue the artless index of his mind.

Irregular
Pensions.

Since the House of Assembly closed and the dissolution was proclaimed quite a number of officials have been pensioned and it is believed a number of other pensions are to be granted by the Government in the same way.
These pensions have been granted in a most irregular fashion and they all lack the sanction which would make them regular. In order to make them good, the pensions should have been voted by parliament last session. The consequence will be that the new House of Assembly will have to take cognizance of this irregularity when the bill is presented to indemnify the Treasury for the irregular payments which have been made, and the best that these new pensioners can hope for is that the new government, which must be formed after the defeat of the Morris administration next fall, may take the sense of the new House of Assembly as to whether it is willing to pass a new Pension Bill to include the irregular pensions granted by the Morris Government. This hope will, however, prove delusive. We feel assured that the new Government will refuse to be a party to these irregularities and will refuse absolutely to recommend these pensions to the consideration of the House the majority of which body will be hostile to any continuation of these irregularities. It may be then taken for a certainty that the new parliament will not grant these pensions.
Outside the frequent irregularity of the policy of granting pensions without the vote of the Legislature of which the Morris Government is guilty, there is another evil principle which violates these pensions, and it is that they are mainly acts of partisan political expediency. These pensioners are being cleaned out of the public service to make room for political heelers, who are disgruntled because their services had not been rewarded by visits to public offices. These new appointments will not be confirmed by the new Government. They have been made for a purpose, and that purpose is to reward a Government whose mandate expired long ago. They have been made by a Government which should have gone to the country last fall and taken the sense of the country then as they were called upon to do so by thousands of petitioners, who reminded the Government of its manifest duty. The Government decided to flout the country and to hold the General Election for another year, and just saved the Assembly from expiring by force of law by a belated dissolution. Not only has the Government flouted public opinion by this act but they are outraging public feeling by swelling the pension list unduly and unconstitutionally and giving jobs to political heelers. Under these circumstances it behoves public servants who are being used in this way to refuse to be parties to these irregular acts. If they do not, they have only themselves to thank if they find themselves in a hole some months hence. If pressure is brought on them they should seek protection from such high handed proceedings from His Excellency the Governor.

BAND CONCERTS. — Before the season too far advances, it would be an act very much appreciated by the public generally if the Brigade bands each in turn, would give a band concert in Bannerman Park. Come, C.I.B. set the pace and the C.C.C.
Guards and Highlanders will fall in line.

Headaches and Heart Trouble

Nervous Prostration of Three Years Solely Cured a Year Ago by Dr.
Chase's Nerve Food.

Anyone who knows the discouragement and despair which accompanies the helplessness of nervous prostration will appreciate the gratitude felt by the writer of this letter.

Mrs. H. C. Jones, Scotch Lake, C. B., writes: "I suffered from nervous prostration for nearly three years.
I had frequent headaches, had no appetite and was troubled with the most debilitating of all ailments, without obtaining satisfactory results. I began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was completely cured by this treatment. It is nearly a year since I was cured, and I want others to know of this splendid medicine. I now attend to my household work with pleasure and comfort, and am glad to have the opportunity of recommending Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At least some benefit is bound to be derived from each dose of this great food cure, as day by day it forms new blood, and builds up the system.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.
WASHINGTON, To-day.
The first of the international peace treaties, embodying Secretary Dry-an's plans, was actually signed yesterday. It was between the States and Salvador and will soon be sent to the Senate for ratification. The terms of this convention are practically identical with the details of the international peace proposals submitted by Secretary Bryan to the nations of the world. Twenty six countries, including most of the Great Powers, have already approved of the principle and the probable signing of the treaties will follow in rapid succession.

Special to Evening Telegram.
MEXICO CITY, To-day.
Alleging that the state of country is such that it will be impossible to hold a Presidential election on October 17th, the date previously set, the Catholic Convention has agreed not to nominate a candidate for Presidency.
By this action the right to assemble for this purpose, in the event of peace being restored to such an extent that holding election will become possible.
The debate over that resolution not to nominate a candidate developed into anti American speech by the delegate from the general district, who charged that the condition of the country was due to the non-recognition of the Government by the States.
The speaker advocated that the convention take no action which would further divide the Mexican people, who he said should present a united front in case of war with the States.
The speech met with the approval of a large number of delegates present.

Special to Evening Telegram.
MEXICO CITY, To-day.
Secretary of State Bryan sent last night the following telegram to the American Legation here: "You may say to the Minister of Foreign Affairs that Governor Lind comes to Mexico on a mission of peace, that the President feels sure his presence here will contribute to a settlement of the difficulties. The Mexican government should await the President's communication, and not give weight to misrepresentations published in newspapers.
The message delivered by the Foreign Minister increased the antagonism which has been aroused among Mexicans towards President Wilson's plan for the pacification of the Republic.
By the latest news from Washington the object of Lind's visit here, as personal representative of President Wilson, is to consult with prominent Mexicans, and advise them. The candidate on which Mexico will be recognized by the States is the elimination of President Huerta."

Seen at the Races

The races are over, the sport and the fun.
If the losers are sorry that the victors have won.
Now, let them console themselves with this good cheer.
That their opponents may be in the same "boat" next year; It was a fine day, with the sun shining strong.
But a rather high wind made a "ton on the "pon."

Our beauty and fashion that day wandered.
In motors and busses and "Vics" from the town.
The ladies were there, and they looked as if they were.
In a new hobble skirt or a pound cotton dress;
'Twas a beautiful scene which our eyes should seek protection from such high handed proceedings from His Excellency the Governor.

The boats were all rowed in the grandest style.
Cheered on by the "sports" with the ladies' bright smile.
Some thousands of dollars was won on the bets.
A big pile was made on the winning Cadets.
The owners of tents have no cause to they'd like for to view the sports over again.

Now, as for amusement, there was plenty for all.
Some at a "white nigger" they pelted a ball;
Two little white mice, and they kept up a squeal.
Beside a young monkey that came from Brazil;
The dancing was fine, and the galleries were nice.
They were shaken by dancers like "buckley ice."

The races are over, all things cleared away.
But before I am finished a word I would say.
In praise of the men who collected the "dough."
And the men first of all who had save it, you know;
And I hope that in twelve months from now they'll appear At the races with hearts just as light as this year.

They Wait for You.

Look not, O friend, with unavailing tears,
Into the Past—look to the brave young years!

Look to the Future, all there is in wait,
All that you fought for by the broken gate.

The faith that faltered and the fire that fell;
The song that died into a lonely knell.

It is all there—the love that went astray,
With bitter cries on that remembered day;

The joys that were so needed by the heart,
And all the tender dreams you saw depart.

Nothing is lost forever that the soul Cried out for; all is waiting at the goal.

Sir Arthur T. Quiller-Couch, since he accepted the chair of English literature at Cambridge, Eng., has blossomed out as a very witty lecturer.

Here is an anecdote wherein he illustrated the rottenness of fancy or highfalutin' writing. He condemned first the fancy phrases so common in the magazines and popular novels, and then he said that these phrases were as absurd to cultivated ears as the telegram that the babu sent from Bombay to announce the death of his mother. The babu's telegram ran: "Regret to announce that the hand which rocked the cradle has kicked the bucket."

KEEP MINARD'S LINIMENT IN THE HOUSE.

A curious burglary occurred recently in the West End of London, Eng.

A woman well known for her entertainments is moving into a house in Brook Street. The house is empty, but there were three very fine old mantelpieces which had lately been purchased and fitted in.

One day three men drove up to the house in a builder's cart. They said they were from the builders, with orders to alter the mantelpieces. They carried through the operation in a workmanlike manner, and drove off with the mantelpieces in the cart.

Since then nothing has been heard of the mantelpieces or the operators.

The craze for old mantelpieces and the enormous rise in their value makes them very attractive to the thief.

WE ARE CONFIDENT that the unique qualities that have won for "Homestead" the approval and patronage of tea connoisseurs the coun-
