St. Mary's Parish Honors Gallant Dead.

Impressive Ceremony of Memorial Unveiling—His Lordship the Bishop Present.

The unveiling of a War Memorial is ever a solemn ceremony, and all who attended St. Mary's Church last evening for the dedication of a tablet to those of the parish who died in the Great War, were greatly moved by the impressiveness of the occasion. From an early hour people began to pour into the church until before long not even standing room could be found. The ceremony opened with the processional hymn, "Through the night of doubt and sorrow." The procession moved from the vestry to the chancel in the following order:—Men of the parish who fought in the Royal Naval Reserve or the Army, in uniform, and with war medals, the choir, the Rector, Rev. A. B. S. Stirling, and Rev. Dr. Bolt, A. Clayton, E. C. Harp, Dr. Facey, Canon Jeeves, and finally His Lordship the Bishop, who was attended by Rev. H. L. Pike, carrying the crozier. Amongst those present in the church, which was decorated with the flags of the Allies, were His Excellency the Governor, Capt. P. S. Salmarshe, A.D.C., Commander Kerr, R.N.R., Sir Richard and Lady Squires, President J. G. Higgins, Capt. G. J. Whitty and Lieut. C. F. Garland of the G.W.V.A. and many other prominent citizens. A naval Guard of Honour stood before the tablet, which was covered with the Union Jack. The Processional Hymn ended, the Rector officiated at Evening Prayers, assisted by the Rector of the Cathedral, while the special Lesson was read by Canon Bolt. Following the "Nunc Dimittis," "Great Ruler of the Nations" was sung, after which the soldiers and sailors preceded the clergy and Government to the tablet, which stands near the centre of the south side of the church, and Sergeant Rowland T. Williams, People's Warden, presented the Memorial on behalf of the congregation. It was received by the Governor on behalf of the Rector, and His Excellency, having drawn up the flag, read the names of those who had made the sacrifice, which are as follows:—Seaman Levi Jerrett, R.N.R., Seaman Harold A. Stanley, R.N.R., Capt. Charles St. Clair Strong, Sergt. Alexander Bondell, Sergt. William B. Knight, 2nd Lieut. Samuel J. Ebsary, Sergt. Hubert Edgar Ebsary, L. Corp. Nathaniel Grimes, Private Frank Roberts, L. Corp. Frederick E. Snow, M.M., Private Ernest Leslie Chafe, Private Ira J. Gosse, Private Wilton Morgan, Corp. Alfred Stanley Cook, Private Edgar Charles Whitten, Private William Taylor, Private Samuel Learning, Sergt. Hubert V. Gullage, L. Corp. Herbert J. Bolbin, Private Wallace Lehmester, Private Walter Andrews, Private John Squires, Private Morgan Gallop, Private John Cook Barnes, R.A.M.C., Elthelbert Churchill, Private Reginald Parmenter, C.E.F.

Two minutes of impressive silence followed, during which the thoughts of all must have fled back to those dark days of anxiety when grim war laid waste the smiling land of France. The Dedication of the Memorial by the Bishop came next, and this was followed by the Dead March in Saul, played by the C.L.B. Band, the General Salute, and finally the plaintive notes of the "Last Post." During the singing of Hymn "God of the Living," floral tributes were placed at the base of the tablet. The first was by the Prime Minister, then President Higgins, the G.W.V.A., next Messrs. Williams and Colton representing the soldiers and sailors of the Parish, Captain Eric Chafe, M.C., and others. It was appropriate that the sermon should be preached by the Rev. E. C. Harp, Rector of the old garrison church of St. Thomas's, who himself an army chaplain and who was badly gassed while bringing spiritual comfort to the men in the trenches. His text was, "The bricks are fallen down; but we will build with hewn stones."—Isaiah ix. 10. The sermon was a splendid one.

Rev. E. C. Harp said in part, "The war was so stupendous an event in human history that it is difficult to think of anything except in war terms. It has created a new watershed of history, and now we speak of events as happening before or after the war. To-night we thank God for victory. We praise Him for His Grace and favour to us; not because we fought as Britons, not because we outnumbered the Germans, but because the Cause was righteous and the justice of the judge of all the earth was ours, in the battle and in the victory. The greatest asset in the allied armour was not in our invincible navy or in our gallant armies, but in the moral righteousness of the Cause. The Bricks have fallen down. To-night in this service we are reminded of the awful cost of war. We can regain our lost assets in finance, we can recover devastated areas, we can rebuild the broken and the ruined towns. But who can give us back the men who fought and died? Who can bring again the boys who went out not knowing whether they went? Who can heal the broken hearts or fill the empty places in a million homes? Who can dry the tears of anguish that fall to-night after three years of peace, or bring again the sound of the loved voice or the bright smile of the presence of the men of this congregation whose names are engraved on this Memorial? The Bricks have fallen down, that is to say that the war has destroyed for ever certain ideas of the human mind. For instance we were wont to say that war was a glorious thing. We wrote of its refining influence, of its stern necessity, of its purifying fires. We accepted it in history as part of the necessary order of human affairs. Men and Brethren, it was a false idea, and we know it to be false. War is hell and the nearer you approach it the more hellish it becomes. The doctrine that war is good is the devil's lie—conceived in lowest hell and propagated by the fiends of darkness. The world has been cured of that illusion. War in itself is a devilish thing, the mad insanity of the damned. Thank God, the bricks of that structure of delusion have fallen down. Another of our fallen ideals is the conception of life that gives a wrong emphasis to values. For years the church has been saying that a man's life consisted not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth, but in the hour of our country's need; character and capacity. On Flanders Fields the hero was the one whose manly courage and faithful endurance made his death worthy of the cause. Riches and honours and pride of place were all treasured in the storm of shot and shell; the true soldier was the man who was faithful, even unto death. The same holds true in the battle of life. At the end of the conflict God will not say, "well done, good and successful servant" or "well done, good and faithful servant" or "well done, good and popular servant"; but to the true soldier of the Cross He will say, "Well done, good and faithful servant." Yes, we lost much in the war and in truth "the bricks are fallen down." On Ypres, in Albert, on the Somme, at Beaumont Hamel and in a thousand other places it was literally true, for there "the bricks have fallen down."

To-night, however, we can rejoice even in our hour of sorrow. The cost was heavy, the losses were great, but the gains were greater and the victory is ours. Never let it be said that St. Mary's lost men in the war. Never let it be said that this ancient Colony lost 2000 men or more. Nay, we gave them, gave them as they gave themselves, a sacrifice on the altar of the world's salvation for the saving of all that was best in civilization. Their gift of their lives has secured our peace. Their sacrifice is our security, their suffering is our assurance that the world is nearing the promised time that was shall be no more. When Napoleon was retreating from Moscow his army came to a river where in this last war the Russians and the Germans faced each other. The bridges had been destroyed and it was impossible to ford the half-frozen stream in winter time. Napoleon ordered his engineers to build a bridge. After many attempts they succeeded and the retreating army passed over. Then last of all the terror of Europe passed over and the historian records that the French general wept when he the bridge were the bodies of some of his soldiers who had given themselves and died to build the bridge. Men and women, you and I have crossed the bridge from war to peace from the awful hell of four years of bloodshed to all the promise of these days of reconstruction, and welded into the fabric of that bridge is the life blood of these very men of St. Mary's whose names we honour this night. Surely we should walk worthily of the peace they died to secure. Surely it remains for the living to complete the glorious work of the dead, surely if they thought it worth while to die for peace, we here in Newfoundland will think it worth while to live in peace with God and man.

"We will build with hewn stones." The future must be worthy of the sacrifice of these brave men. We will build on the hewn stones of suffering, of honour, of integrity, of nobleness which they have reached a grand simplicity in our faith in God. We will trust each other more and build worship for the Kingdom that is to be.

"Honour has come back as a king And paid his subject with a royal wage; And nobleness walks in our ways again And we have come into our heritage." To those who proudly mourn their dead ones let us say this. The suffering of these men remind us of the sacrifice of Christ. It binds us to the God of love and helps us to understand the love of Jesus. The death of the heroes on land and sea has given us a fuller realization of the Cross of Christ. The life of the world is in that Cross, the consolation of all who weep, the hope of all who die, the pledge of pardon for every sinner. The rows of little crosses on Flanders Fields are overshadowed by the Cross of Calvary, and in the loving embrace of the stretched arms of Jesus your loved ones are at peace, and you yourselves are secure for this world and the next.

Let us arise and build. The bricks have fallen down, but we will build with hewn stones, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief corner stone. We will remember them, these valiant hearts of our own kind and kin. We will honour them and seek to be like them. "For our dead are ours, and the Empire's." "Till the last red sun doth set, And may God in His terrible justice Deal with us, if we forget."

Hymn, "For all the Saints," was next sung and the C.L.B. Band played the Hallelujah Chorus. This was followed by the National Anthem, and Benediction, while "O God our help in ages past" was sung as a Recessional. The service throughout was impressive and inspiring, and the Rector, Choirmaster Lloyd and choir are to be complimented. The Church arrangements were faultless; nothing had been over looked, and the ushers who looked after the visitors and the squad of little C.L.B. lads in uniform gave every satisfaction.

The Tablet, which measures 36 inches by 48 inches, was made by the Flour City Ornamental Iron Company of Minneapolis. It embodies two figures representing the army and navy, inserted in two panels at the top. Over these is the carillon's heart. The Committee, Messrs. L. G. Chafe (chairman); E. Dawe, G. F. Pike, S. Bradbury, R. P. Williams, W. J. Pike and J. L. Noonan are to be complimented. It cost in the vicinity of $1000, and was entirely subscribed by members of St. Mary's Parish. The following is a copy of the inscription and the names.

MURAL TABLET.
Set up in memory of the men of St. Mary's Parish "who, at the call of King and Country, left all that was dear to them, endured hardship, faced danger, and finally passed out of the sight of men by the path of duty and self-sacrifice, giving up their lives that others might live in freedom"; and also to be a continual reminder of the devotion to duty of the men of the Parish who served in the Great War and in the Providence of God returned.

"Let those who come after see that they be not forgotten."

Outerbridge's Planks.

THE OBTAINING OF ADDITIONAL REVENUE WITHOUT ADDITIONAL TAXATION.

What this town needs is increased revenue without increased taxation. The third plank in my platform shows how this can be obtained. We should take outside drummers and other who come here, spend a week or so and then, like the Arab "fold their tents and silently steal away" after clearing up a goodly share of our hard earned money—money that really belongs to the St. John's citizen who has to pay up his taxes every half year at the risk of being disfranchised. Are you with me? 13—OUTERBRIDGE—X. I thank you!
